FEDERAL AID FOR THE SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

Pres. Wilson to Send Message to Congress Urging an Appropriation of $200,000 as Result of Appeal From Gov. Walsh

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Wilson prepared to appeal to congress today to render financial assistance to the fire sufferers of Salem, Mass. He planned to send a message to that body urging an appropriation of $200,000 for the purpose.

The president's decision to act followed the receipt of an appeal from Governor Walsh of Massachusetts. The governor made the request for federal aid after he had been advised by the attorney general of Massachusetts that the state legislature could not legally appropriate for Salem's relief.

Congress has usually made quick response to appeals for aid in great emergencies and it was believed here today that it would act promptly in the present emergency.

NO BONFIRES ALLOWED

Col. Carmichael Says He Cannot Grant Permits—Can't Override Order of State Police

A representative of The Sun talked with Col. Carmichael and Chief Saunders, of the fire department, this morning, in reference to the bonfires prepared for tonight.

"Would it not be just as well to have these bonfires burned up under the supervision of firemen at the time appointed?" the colonel was asked.

"While I would like to accommodate the young men who are taking such an interest in these bonfires, I cannot see how I can legally grant the permit for any of the bonfires."

"In the first place," continued the colonel, "the chief of the district police has sent out a letter forbidding the bonfires and furthermore, there is remonstrance to the bonfires at Fort Hill and State street, the claim being made that the bridge at State street would be endangered. Under the circumstances I cannot take the responsibility of giving official sanction to the bonfires. I have been informed that they will be lighted anyway and in such case the responsibility will be on those who participate in the affair."

"As for sparing firemen to attend the bonfires for several hours, I could not do that without crippling the department. Every man will be required to be at his post ready for instant response all during the night and tomorrow."

"Our first duty is to protect property against fire and I do not think we would be doing our duty if we granted permits for the bonfires."

"If we sanctioned one, we should have to sanction all, and that," said the colonel, "is more than I can do in justice to myself or the citizens of Lowell."

"At the same time I sympathize with the young men who built the piles, but in such cases they should ascertain whether they can get a permit before building the bonfires."

POLICEMAN SAVED
FAMILY OF SIX

Woman and Her Daughter Burned to Death in New York Tenement House Fire and Man Who Was Injured Died in Hospital—Policeman Rescued Six by Swinging Them Across 5 ft. Chasm

NEW YORK, July 3.—Mrs. Hannah Nickoli, 45, and her daughter Sarah, 17, were burned to death and four other persons were seriously injured in a fire early today in the five-story tenement at number 1 East 112th street. The police and firemen rescued a score of women and children who rushed to windows in a panic following the first alarm. The property loss was small. Jacob Finklestein, one of the injured, died in the hospital, bringing the death list up to three. Otto Schasberger, a policeman, singlehanded, saved a family of six from death by swinging them across a five foot chasm between buildings.

ARMY OF GIRLS BUSY ON TAG DAY WORK

Talk not of hustling till then bathes the tag sellers at work.

This is tag day in Lowell and of course this isn't news, because everybody knows it, yet it is necessary to mention it in order to start this story right.

Yesterday forenoon a little band of women met at city hall and formulated plans for tag day as suggested by the Salem Relief fund of 70. They didn't have much time for preparation. It was a quick call, but they were equal to the occasion, as women usually are.

Several of these women were at city hall as early as 6.30 o'clock this morning and before 9.30 o'clock 5000 tags had been disposed of. This movement, of course, is for the benefit of the Salem sufferers and if you haven't been tagged it's the day's best bet that you have kept yourself in seclusion, for the energetic, sympathetic, patriotic women interested in tag day proceedings didn't let anybody get by—not if they knew it.

Mrs. John E. Graham started in at the railroad depot in Middlesex street at 6.25 o'clock this morning and before 9 o'clock she and her assistants had disposed of 500 tags. They got good prices for the tags, too, and at 9.15 o'clock Mrs. Graham was back at city hall looking for more tags.

TONIGHT

Tag Day bids fair to prove the greatest success that Lowell has ever witnessed in any enterprise along a similar line, for everybody seems disposed to help the Salem sufferers and the women and girls engaged in the work are leaving no stone unturned to make it a success. The Tag Day committee has bought up every tag there is in Lowell and they cannot supply the demand of the tag sellers.

The scene at city hall this morning was one of great activity. The tag sellers met in the mayor's reception room this morning, some of them, as heretofore stated, arriving there as early as 5.30 o'clock. The boxes and tags were all in readiness for them, but there were no strings to the tags and the women had to do their own stringing. This meant the use of a big darning needle and a mile and a half or so of twine, but that didn't delay proceedings the least little bit. The women went to the work with a will and some of them were on the street selling tags, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Among the very first in the street were the Misses Vera and Inelda Kiscock, Miss Gladys Melloon, Miss V. Grove, Miss Imelda Groves, Mrs. Blanche Jolley, Mrs. Alice Goodwin, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Miss G. E. Jantzen, Miss M. E. O'Neill, Miss Alice McCall, Miss Rose Geary, Miss Alice Maffron, Miss Ida J. Flint, Miss Isabel M. Ellis, Mrs. Horace Lang, Mrs. Patrick Farrell, Mrs. S. W. Hauke, Mrs. Bentley, Miss Joanne Bradt, Mrs. Carl D. Burtt, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Anna McCarron, Miss Alice Besse, Miss Sallie Hobson, Miss Ruth Sawyer, Miss Adelaide Walsh, Miss Marguerite Pierce, Miss Julia Slattery, Mrs. Loretta Whiteley, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Maude Greene, Miss Lulu O'Sullivan, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. John E. Graham.

FIND THREE BODIES IN SWAMP

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3.—The bodies of S. F. Bennett and two unidentified women were found in a swamp at East Point, a suburb of Atlanta, early today. Wounds indicated that all three had been shot. The bodies of the women were covered with brush, while that of Bennett lay in the open a few yards away.

SALEM RELIEF
The committee of 70 formed to take charge of the work of collecting funds locally for the relief of the Salem sufferers met this morning in the aldermanic chamber at city hall to formulate plans for further collecting. It was said that three thousand who have already contributed could easily give $5.00 more and that many have not yet contributed who might naturally be expected to do so. At the meeting the officers of the committee of 70 were appointed a sub-committee to frame another appeal to the public. This new appeal will be sent broadcast today.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN
DIED IN LONDON, ENG.

Was Prominent for Many Years as a Leader of British Politics—Wife Daughter of Late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts

LONDON, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlain, prominent for many years as a leader in British politics, died here last night.

Death came as a surprise as the condition of his health was not publicly known to be any worse than at any time in the past two or three years.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who was the daughter of the late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, secretary of war in President Cleveland's cabinet, never left her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago and she and her step-son, Austen Chamberlain, were with him when death occurred.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home on May 6 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn and appeared very enfeebled and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledging their salutes.

Militants Set Fire to and Burned Ballyimnoch, Near Holy Wood, Containing Priceless Relics

BELEFAST, Ireland, July 3.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes today set fire to and burned to the ground Ballyimnoch, near Holy Wood, a great residential mansion containing many priceless art treasures, all of which were destroyed. The mansion was the residence of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, who was mayor and lord mayor of Belfast for many years and who sat in parliament for a short time as member for the city of Belfast.

The suffragettes left strewn about in the vicinity the customary evidences of their presence but they themselves escaped.

IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

MAN WHO DREW A REVOLVER IN A SALOON DRAWL WAS LATER ARRESTED

A man who registered at the police station as Angelo Pamallin, created considerable excitement in a Middlesex street saloon last evening when, during the heat of an argument, he produced a 38 calibre revolver and held his companions at bay until put under control by other men who were in the place at the time. Patrolmen Brewett and Cullen were summoned to the scene of action and they brought their man to the station where he was booked on a charge of drunkenness.

It is alleged that the defendant and a few fellow countrymen were drinking in the saloon and when it came Pamallin's turn to buy the drinks he refused and resented being asked to do such a thing. When his companions demanded that he pay or stop drinking, it is claimed, he flourished the revolver and pointed it toward the other men, but was overcome by bystanders before he had an opportunity to pull the trigger.

Patrolman Brewett was sent for and when he reached the place the man was overpowered by several men who were standing nearby at the time so he immediately put the handcuffs on him and sent for the patrol wagon. At this point Patrolman Cullen put in an appearance and assisted in taking the man to the police box.

ployees of the Bigelow Carpet Co. that D. G. G. is an athlete of great promise. He has been quite active in athletics in Hopedale square for the past two years.

Mr. Henry Hovey, employed at the Middlesex mills has returned from Worcester where he spent a few days with friends. He was much impressed with the beautiful buildings of Holy Cross college.

The members of the Coal Trimmers' union will hold a smoker and entertainment in their hall tomorrow afternoon. The best local talent available has been secured and an enjoyable time is in store for the members.

The Weehawken, a club of young people employed in the mills and factories of Lowell held a successful party and dance in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall in Billerica. Broderick's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

$25 to Salem Relief
Twenty-five dollars was voted to the Salem relief fund by the trades and labor council at a meeting held by that organization last evening. The meeting was an usual largely attended. Considerable important business was transacted. Several minor complaints were adjusted and the reports of various officials and committees were read, each denoting good progress.

Painters' Union Held Meeting
The painters' union held its regular meeting in Carpenters' hall in the Rourke building last evening. Business of much importance was transacted. Two new members were initiated and several applications for membership were received. President Knight, the newly elected head of the union was in the chair. Mr. D. E. Whalen, an organizer of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union gave a very interesting talk on the union label. The business agent read a lengthy report which showed the union to be financially strong. It also showed all members of the union working.

General Labor Notes
In Maine the progressive and democratic parties have included in their state platforms a school bill for women and a compensation act for injured workmen.

The committee having in charge the revision of the Bay City (Mich.) city charter has embodied an eight-hour clause for all city work.

In the national house of representatives and senate there are 17 members who actually belong to labor unions and carry union cards.

The Bricklayers' International union has invested $250,000 in a brick yard at El Paso, Texas. Only members of the union will be employed.

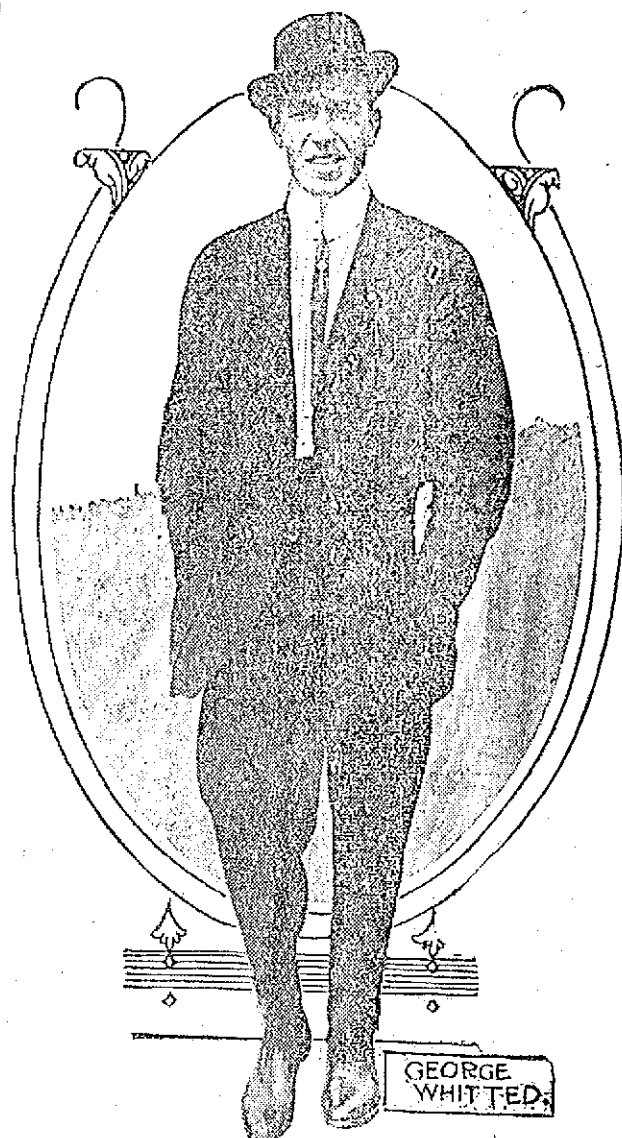

Forty-five million have on their statute books an eight hour day for children and 58,000,000 a night work prohibition for all under 16 years.

Efforts are being made at Atlanta, Ga. to organize the negro teamsters, waiters, barbers, carpenters and painters, and to form a central body in South Atlanta of the several negro organizations.

A charter amendment making compulsory the use of the union label on all stationery and printed matter used by the city will be submitted by the Allied Printing Trades' council of San Francisco.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters (ship and machine), by referendum vote has defeated a proposition to establish a fund and to pay expenses of delegates to the international union convention.

GEO. WHITTED, NEW BOSTON BRAVE, A FAST AND AGGRESSIVE YOUNGSTER

George Whitted, the Cardinals' infield utility man, who with Outfielder Cather was traded to Boston for Hub Perdue, is one of the most aggressive ball players in the business. He has the happy faculty of being always on the jump and doesn't give up the fight until it's over. Stallings should be able to make good use of this youngster in putting a little "pep" into his inner defense.

This number being followed by the presentation of "The Littlest Girl," those taking part being Michael J. Mahoney, Thomas J. Beane, Alex. Williams and Miss Anna Martin. The piece proved a favorite, although it has been produced several times in Lowell and the players were given a great reception.

Miss Flora McLean made a decided hit in her Highland fling and sword dance exhibition. Peter Kane and William Chandler, soloists of St. Patrick's church sanctuary choir rendered selections that brought rounds of applause. Prof. Galloway greatly pleased his audience with his feats of ventriloquism and Miss Esther Mulgrave gave an exhibition of fancy dancing that proved very interesting.

Miss Clarence Simard, a student of the New England Conservatory of Music and a soloist at St. Louis' church rendered vocal selections that brought forth much applause. Miss Simard, a local entertainer with the William Collier Co. gave two songs which were enthusiastically applauded.

Several motion picture films filled in between the acts and, in a word, the affair proved a tremendous success. Programs for the evening were donated by the Mahoney Printing Co. John J. Mahoney, manager, while the services of everyone about the theatre were donated free. Behind the stage Hugh McNeely, Martin Miskell, John P. Burns, Thomas Sullivan, Arthur P. Davis and others helped all night in arranging the various selections needed for the different acts, while the ushers and employees in the front of the house worked industriously for the comfort of the patrons.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly had charge of the program and Manager Carroll kindly gave the use of the theatre and all its equipment for the benefit of the Salem sufferers.

TO SIT UNTIL MIDNIGHT

HOUSE AND SENATE STILL HAVE

CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS TO BE

TRANSACTED

BOSTON, July 3.—Both house and senate planned to sit until midnight if necessary in order to bring to an end tonight a session begun Jan. 7 and equalled in length only a few times in the history of the legislature. Much business remained to be transacted, however, and there was a possibility that it might be necessary to postpone adjournment until next week. Final action was to be taken in the senate on the Fisher-Edis railroad bill. Bills to relieve the financial situation in Salem caused by the confusion in arranging for various relief committees and for abolition of party enrollment in primaries and injunctions in labor disputes promised to take up considerable time.

THE BUILDING OPERATIONS

Much Activity in Constructing New Dwellings — Real Estate Market.

Inspector Frank Connor of the public building department is getting after the owners of some of the dilapidated shacks in this city and has started a crusade against them that will stop only when the old dangerous buildings have been torn down or repaired in a manner that will not endanger the lives of those living therein. In the course of the past week the inspector has notified several owners as to the condition of their properties and also ordered them to repair or tear down the same and in one instance he gave orders to tear down a part of a large brick dwelling.

A number of buildings along the banks of the canal in Suffolk street which were in a rather bad condition and a menace to people, especially in the rear, where large and rickety piazzas hung over the water, were condemned and the owners stated that they could not do anything until the water is drawn from the canal. However they all agreed to take care of their property and as quickly as possible. Mr. Connor was highly complimented for ordering those buildings repaired or torn down, especially by those who are making their homes in them, and by Harry H. J. Howe who years ago pointed out the danger to children falling through into the water.

The large brick dwelling in Middlesex place which is a landmark in that district has been ordered torn down, that is, a section of it and the owners, the Dugdale heirs, have men at work on the job. The building contains 20 tenements and is two and a half stories in height. Twelve tenements will be torn down, but it is not known what other plans the owners have in mind.

Charles Paille, the local plasterer, has applied for a permit from the municipal council for the removal of a two and a half story wooden structure now located at the corner of Ford and Allen streets. Mr. Paille recently purchased the building from James T. O'Flahaven and his plans are to remove the structure to Mt. Hope street, Pawtucketville, where a foundation has been built.

The house will travel by the Ford streets as far as Pawtucket street and across the Moody street bridge and into Colonial avenue as far as Mt. Hope street. Then the structure will be taken up Mt. Hope street and converted into a two-tenement house. Mr. Paille said he believes the removal of the building will cost him about $300.

The granting of the permit has been held by the council on the ground that the removal of the structure will interfere with traffic and will necessitate the removal of wires and trees enroute. It is understood that a protest will be entered if the house is removed over the proposed route.

On the site now occupied by the building purchased by Mr. Paille a four-tenement house with two stories on the second floor will be constructed by Mr. O'Flahaven and the latter is waiting until the old structure is removed to begin operations. The building will be of wood with brick veneer and will contain the most modern improvements.

Normal School
The legislature recently voted an appropriation of $1,000 for needed alterations at the Normal school in Broadway and now a large gang of men are at work on the said alterations. All the ceilings of the building will be kalsomined and the walls plastered. The brick work will be repaired and the sidewalks surrounding the building will be reconstructed, granolithic walks being put in.

Pine Street School
Employees of the public building department will be put to work on alterations at the Pine street school probably next week. The exterior of the structure will be painted and the work both outside and inside will be repaired. The work will cost approximately $500.

Irving Barlow, whose store formerly located on the Chelmsford street bridge crashed down to the railroad tracks some time ago, has not yet built a new store but he is doing business just the same, thanks to the courtesy of Commissioner Donnelly who supplied Mr. Barlow with one of the bathing booths of the city. The bathing booth was erected on the opposite side of street and will remain there until Mr. Barlow has made plans for a permanent place or until the state primary elections which will be held in September.

Mrs. Ida P. Farrington is having a residence built at 120 Warwick street. The building will be of wood and will contain seven rooms with bath and a steam heating system will be installed therein. The house will be two stories in height and its dimensions will be 24 by 30 feet.

Mrs. Herman J. Smith has had plans drawn for the erection of a conservatory at 266 Andover street. The structure will be of wood with glass sides and roof and will be one story in height.

The Latham company has men at work on the foundry building at their plant in West Street. The roof of the foundry building will be raised and an addition put in for furnaces. The total cost of the work will be about $200.

In order to conform himself with the orders of the inspector of buildings James Riley of Providence, R. I., owner of the building numbered 133-131 Suffolk street has taken out a permit for alterations to the said building.

When you feel confused, nervous, tired, worried or dependent it is a sure sign you need MOTT'S NERVE-PILLS. They renew the normal vigor and make life worth living. Be sure and ask for Mott's Nerve-Pills. Price 21.00. WILLIAMS' MED. CO., Proprietors, Cleveland, Ohio. For sale by Lusk & Burdick.

permit for alterations to the said building. The foundation walls will be repaired and new sills will be built. The piazza in the rear suspended over the canal will be rebuilt and proper supports will be erected. Mr. Riley is waiting until the water is drawn from the canal before putting men on the job.

M. D. McCallan and C. T. Lennon are remodeling their property at 33 Carter street. A story is being added to the ell and new floor space will be utilized for a kitchen.

Work has been started on the foundation for a six-tenement house at 23 Fifth street. Each tenement will contain four rooms with pantry and bath. The building will be of wood and its dimensions will be 34 by 52 feet. It is being erected by D. M. Kazanlian.

Real Estate Dealers

The sale of the one-family dwelling at the corner of South Walker and Corner streets and numbered at 37 So. Walker street. The house contains eight rooms, pantry and bath. It is equipped with open plumbing, furnace heat and set tubs. The lot contains 4000 feet of land with a frontage on So. Walker street of 50 feet. The property was sold for Charles E. and Frederick N. Tilton and the purchaser was Hugh E. McPherson of the Swift and Warren.

The sale of the two-apartment house at 27-35 Grace street. This house was built for personal occupancy and is of sound construction. Each apartment contains seven rooms, pantry and bath with both steam and hot water heat. Land to the extent of nearly 6000 feet was conveyed with the house. The purchaser was Mr. George K. Toppan.

The Central street tailor, One year ago Mr. Toppan purchased through this office the adjoining two-apartment house. Mr. Toppan purchased solely for investment and will continue to rent the house.

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate broker, office at Central street, corner Prescott reports the following sales negotiated during the past week ending Friday, July 3rd.

The sale of two building sites situated on the easterly side of Parkview avenue just beyond its junction with Grace street. They aggregate 18,348 square feet and are assessed at the rate of 60 per foot, totalling $1000. The sale is effected on behalf of Mr. Clarence W. Whitted, the purchaser being Mr. J. Robie Cove of the Massachusetts mills.

The sale of a leading house situated at 30 Kirk street at the head of Paige street. The house has thirteen excellent rooms, heated by steam and equipped with every possible convenience. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Mrs. Anna E. Porter, the purchaser being Mrs. George H. Potter. Miss Potter has already taken possession of the premises.

Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a cottage property situated near Liberty street in the Highlands section. The house occupies 4000 square feet of land assessed at 100 per foot, the assessed value on land and buildings totalling $2050. The sale is effected on behalf of a resident owner, the purchaser coming from out-of-town.

Preliminary papers have been signed which will relate in connection with a small manufacturing concern. The company will locate in a mill property situated in the Belvidere section. This will be a branch of the parent company situated in Boston and operating.

The sale of a property in the immediate vicinity of the city hall will be given as soon as the final arrangements are definitely settled. Contracts have been closed on the purchase and sale of a six-apartment property situated near Middlesex street in the Highlands section.

Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a two-apartment property situated near Westford street. The apartments are absolutely separate and are equipped with every possible convenience and luxury. The transfer is effected on behalf of a local estate, the purchaser buying for occupancy and investment both.

BENEFIT FOR SALEM SUFFERERS

At Merrimack Square Theatre Last Evening a Big Success

Very Fine Program Produced Mainly by Local Talent.

Commissioner Donnelly Had Charge of the Program

JAS. E. DONNELLY Organizer

The benefit entertainment conducted at the Merrimack Square theatre last night for the victims of the recent Salem fire was a flattering success, both financially and artistically. The house was crowded to the doors and the receipts were very substantial. The program was elaborate and highly enjoyed. Those who attended with a contributing to a worthy cause had no reason to complain over the entertainment, for the hall, which was of the vaudeville kind, was one of the best.

SLEEPLESSNESS

FROM INDIGESTION

A slight disturbance of the stomach is enough to keep a person awake all night, though it is scarcely realized.

Dys-pepsia promotes indigestion, corrects poor stomach, and promptly relieves many cases of sleeplessness. They are absolutely free from all narcotics and should be kept at every bedside as a convenient, agreeable and harmless remedy for this very trying and wearing trouble.

At all druggists, 10c, 25c, or $1.

produced by local talent for a long time. The majority of the participants consisted of Lowell people and their efforts in entertaining were greatly appreciated.

The audience was a cosmopolitan one, which shows that Lowell people are willing to unite when it comes to a good cause. Those in charge of the affair deserve much credit for the results attained. Things moved smoothly and although the program was one of unusual length it was carried through in a comparatively reasonable time.

The first number on the program was a concert by the Merrimack Square theatre orchestra, which was augmented for the occasion and directed by Ed. M. Lederman. Edward Hanley's Honey Boy Minstrels came next and their offering, which consisted of musical numbers and witty sayings, was a very worthy one.

James Callahan, a Lowell boy, who has been on the stage for some time, for the occasion sang songs and recitations while Edward Hanley's Honey Boy Minstrels came next and their offering, which consisted of musical numbers and witty sayings, was a very worthy one.

Miss Ella Thompson, a soprano soloist of rare ability, rendered several selections which were well received.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Senate Passes Fisher-Ellis Railroad Bill After Strong Defence by Senator Fisher

BOSTON, July 3.—The senate, after a long debate, yesterday passed to be engrossed, by a vote of 37 to 2, the Fisher-Ellis bill, which authorizes the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to dispose of its stock in the Boston Railroad Holding company and also authorizes the holding company to sell the Boston & Maine stock and securities now owned by the holding company. The bill was put through without amendment in the form in which it passed the house.

The senate had two sessions yesterday, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. The debate on the railroad bill began at the morning session, when the question came on ordering the bill to a third reading, and was continued in the afternoon. Pres. Coolidge left the chair and took the floor to speak in behalf of an amendment proposed by him to put the bill back into the form in which it was originally agreed to by the New Haven people.

Pres. Coolidge's Argument
Pres. Coolidge, speaking for his amendment to restore the bill to its original form, without the "string" reserving for the state the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock from any holder, said:

"The New Haven has the right to reject this bill. It was the money of that corporation which bought the Boston & Maine stock now owned by the holding company, and this legislature cannot compel the New Haven to accept for that stock what it deems to be an unfair price or to sell it under unfair conditions.

"If we pass this act as it is now drawn the New Haven will refuse to accept it and the entire agreement made in Washington will be overthrown. Therefore, we will accomplish nothing in that direction, but will bring on litigation and trouble to everybody concerned.

"I offer my amendment to the bill in order to bring it back to its original shape, in which it will be acceptable to the railroad. Then the agreement will be in force and the railroad situation will be cleared up."

Fisher Explains the "String"
Sen. Fisher of Westford, whose name is one of those attached to the bill as it passed the house, began his argument in favor of the bill at the morning session of the senate and continued well into the afternoon session. He said:

"The senator who has just taken his seat has offered us the Moorfield Storey bill, the very bill that was referred to our committee on railroads in the first instance, the one which the committee would not approve.

"Why did we put the 'string' in the bill? Some good lawyers of Massachusetts say that the commonwealth has the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock no matter where it may be sold, whether in California or Mexico. The 'string' in this bill merely recognizes the right of Massachusetts to protect herself. But we don't put that 'string' in."

"The bill providing 'that it shall not be unlawful to operate an automobile on Sunday' was passed to be engrossed after considerable debate.

Mr. Beck charged the house with inconsistency in rejecting a bill to allow a man to work in his household garden on Sunday and then passing the Sunday auto bill.

Mr. Twombly offered an amendment to extend the provisions of the Sunday auto bill so that it might include Sunday baseball, but the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Washburn opposed the bill, saying that if legislation was going through giving more laxly to the Sunday laws, it should not be in favor of the men high in Bradstreet's, when the ordinary citizen was denied additional privilege.

Mr. Haines said that certain men have been prevented from operating auto lines on Sunday because competing street railway lines dug up an old law that everybody had forgotten.

"Five men are under indictment and we should not let them suffer for committing no crime except driving an auto," declared Mr. Haines.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by a voice vote.

Mr. Tufts sought to have killed in the enactment stage the bill providing for a license fee of $100,000 a year for the use of trading stamps. Messrs. Harrington of Fall River, Stebbins and Cargill urged that the bill be enacted. By a voice vote it was enacted.

Mr. Washburn made an unsuccessful effort to have reconsidered the vote whereby the house passed the bill providing for reorganization of the state board of insanity. By a rising vote, 43 to 63, reconsideration was refused. The house rejected the bill providing for an appropriation of $30,000 for the improvement of Lake Quannapowitt.

In the bill to have the commonwealth of Massachusetts buy that stock; we put it in that bill so that whoever buys that stock buys it with the knowledge that the commonwealth of Massachusetts has the right to step in and take that stock, buy it back.

Purpose to Protect Investor
"Adopt the amendment of our honored president and that stock can be sold in blocks tomorrow into foreign hands. The 'string' on that stock is going to bring about the sale of these shares in small blocks to the individual investor and is a protection to the small purchaser, not the speculator. If the 'string' depreciates value, it depreciates them only to speculators and not to legitimate investors.

"The question of the acceptance of this act by the New Haven railroad is not before us and it will not be before us until this bill is enacted. The New Haven railroad can accept this act. Let that company take the responsibility of not accepting it and going into the courts, if it wants to do so.

"Two of the leading railroad lawyers of the commonwealth, one of them an ex-chairman of the railroad commission, have said to me: 'The legislature is absolutely right—keep your 'string' bill.' The railroad commissioners, the governor and the house of representatives, all are agreed on the necessity for this legislation.

"The very fact that the New Haven objects to the 'string' is one reason why it should be kept in this bill. Protect our interests. Conserve the rights of the commonwealth, and do not rush headlong into legislation because of a threat of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad."

The House
The legislature will make an effort to bring this year's session to a close today. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the possibility of prorogation, but hopes of its accomplishment are freely expressed.

The house completed yesterday all the business on its calendar up to the hour of adjournment but has plenty of work for today.

The bill providing "that it shall not be unlawful to operate an automobile on Sunday" was passed to be engrossed after considerable debate.

Mr. Beck charged the house with inconsistency in rejecting a bill to allow a man to work in his household garden on Sunday and then passing the Sunday auto bill.

Mr. Twombly offered an amendment to extend the provisions of the Sunday auto bill so that it might include Sunday baseball, but the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Washburn opposed the bill, saying that if legislation was going through giving more laxly to the Sunday laws, it should not be in favor of the men high in Bradstreet's, when the ordinary citizen was denied additional privilege.

Mr. Haines said that certain men have been prevented from operating auto lines on Sunday because competing street railway lines dug up an old law that everybody had forgotten.

"Five men are under indictment and we should not let them suffer for committing no crime except driving an auto," declared Mr. Haines.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by a voice vote.

Mr. Tufts sought to have killed in the enactment stage the bill providing for a license fee of $100,000 a year for the use of trading stamps. Messrs. Harrington of Fall River, Stebbins and Cargill urged that the bill be enacted. By a voice vote it was enacted.

Mr. Washburn made an unsuccessful effort to have reconsidered the vote whereby the house passed the bill providing for reorganization of the state board of insanity. By a rising vote, 43 to 63, reconsideration was refused. The house rejected the bill providing for an appropriation of $30,000 for the improvement of Lake Quannapowitt.

Reconsideration was refused of the vote whereby the house rejected the bill transferring jurisdiction of telephone and telegraph companies from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commissioners.

The resolve providing for an investigation by the public service commission of the subject of street railway and street railroad service in the Metropolitan district was engrossed without debate.

SENSATIONAL MURDER MYSTERY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE REVEALS WIFE'S JEALOUS USE OF THE DICTOGRAPH

1-DR. EDWIN CARMAN 2-DR. CARMAN'S HOUSE, SHOWING HOW DICTOGRAPH WIRES WERE LAID 3- DIAGRAM SHOWING PATH OF MURDEROUS BULLET. PHOTOS © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

FREEPORT, N. Y., July 3.—The murder mystery in a doctor's office in this little Long Island town has turned out to be one of the country's latest sensational cases. Mrs. William D. Bailey, a wealthy resident of fashionable Hempstead, where she lived in comfort and happiness with her husband and two children, was shot to death in the private consulting room of Dr. Edwin Carman, a rich and prominent physician. It was said that she was a stranger to him and had gone to consult him about her health without her husband's knowledge. She was killed by a bullet that apparently was fired through the window of the office. Dr. Carman himself would have been shot, he says, if he had not dodged in time. He says he believes the shot was meant for him. It quickly developed that Mrs. Carman, who had become suspicious of her husband, had had a dictograph secretly installed in his office, running to her room upstairs, so that she could sit there and hear all that was going on in the consulting room when her husband had woman patients. She was jealous of him. She denied that she knew anything of the shooting, but acknowledged that she secretly ripped out the dictograph apparatus after the murder and hid it in the attic because she was afraid it would reveal her suspicions of her husband.

MRS. PARLOW, 23, GIVES BACK JEWELRY TAKEN AND LEAVES HER HUSBAND
PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 3.—Mrs. Georgiana Parlow, aged 23, wife of Cornelius Parlow, 50 years her senior, who ran away from her home last week, taking jewelry and money to the value of $100, claimed by her husband, was not arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. She and her brother, Bert Shaddock, were arrested in North Reading yesterday and brought to this city. The charge against the young wife was not pressed after she had surrendered the jewelry.

Mrs. Parlow, however, refused to live again with her husband, and she and her brother left on the early evening train for Massachusetts.

KIDNAPPER PLEADS GUILTY
Antonio Buono, Sali to Be "Brutus" of New York Gang, Gets From 12½ to 25 Years
NEW YORK, July 3.—Antonio Buono stopped his trial for kidnapping before Judge Wadhams in general sessions court yesterday by pleading guilty and was immediately sentenced to not less than 12½ years nor more than 25 years in Sing Sing prison.

Buono was one of the men charged with the kidnapping of Giuseppe Gilma. He is the third of the gang convicted, the others getting minimum sentences of 30 and 39 years. Matteo Pallazolo, another of the gang, turned state's evidence yesterday, with a result that Buono suddenly decided to plead guilty. Pallazolo declared Buono was "the brains of the job."

SLIDE FOR LIFE NO BILL IN FIRE CASE

Ship

It would seem as if all roads would lead to Moore street tomorrow afternoon and evening where the parishioners of the Sacred Heart parish are holding their fourth annual picnic on the large parochial grounds. There will be dancing after noon and evening to the musical accompaniment of a band and orchestra. The afternoon will be given over to games and the enjoyment of the one thing that is indispensable, the slide. Aerial roller and other refined mid-way features. The wonderful aerial ship secured with much difficulty will bring a positive thrill to all fortunate enough to secure a place in it as it whips through the air. A scene of rare beauty will be presented in the evening when the naturally beautiful grounds will be transformed into a fairyland by the lights, large and small. No one will need to leave the premises for lunch or supper as numerous booths will be placed about the grounds where refreshments of all kinds and soft drinks may be had.

The most talked of event will occur in the early evening when Prof. Heckhart will make his desperately dangerous slide from the roof of the school buildings in the grounds. This sensational accomplishment aerialist whose absolute daring thrilled the multitude who tested his last demonstration will positively appear. A very interesting vaudeville bill has been provided and will be presented on a stage placed in the centre of gently sloping lawn which make a splendid amphitheatre. About 10 o'clock a large variety of new and carefully selected effects in fireworks will be set off. The whole program for the day's enjoyment is one sufficient to satisfy anyone that the best place to spend the "glorious Fourth" is on the grounds of the Sacred Heart church on Moore street.

DEVELOPMENT OF REPUBLIC
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Although next to Cuba, the largest of the West Indies, the island which is divided between the Dominican Republic and Haiti is the least known and offers the greatest possibilities for future development. The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, of the department of commerce, has just issued an interesting monograph entitled "Development of the Dominican Republic" (Special Consular Report No. 65), which treats of the general features of the republic, its agricultural possibilities, its import and export trade in detail and the countries participating in it, its shipping facilities, and other information which should make the publication a useful compendium for consultation as to the country's trade resources. The monograph may be procured from the Superintendent of Documents, Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 5 cents per copy.

JURY PROBES FATAL MILFORD BLAZE—BELIEVES LAW AND INSPECTORS SHOULD BE MORE DRASTIC

WORCESTER, July 2.—A Worcester county grand jury which has been in special session since Wednesday morning investigating the fire of June 16th in the lodging house at 26 West street, Milford, which cost nine lives, reported no bill against Peter Thompson, proprietor of the building, in its report yesterday.

But the grand jury found "that the means to protect and safety of the occupants were not sufficient; that apparently there is no specific provision of law that would require means of escape or safety appliances other than those which actually existed; that, while others might have been ordered by the inspector, they were not because the question whether they should or should not be left entirely to his judgment, and in this case in his judgment the means of escape and safety which actually existed were sufficient."

"In our opinion," the jury says, "the law should be made more definite and drastic with reference to buildings of this character, and the inspectors should be more drastic in their requirements for additional safeguards."

It appeared in evidence that certain notices sent from the office of the state police to the authorities of the town of Milford, with reference to reporting the condition of ropes or other safety appliances, required under certain circumstances by the provisions of section 43 of Chapter 553 of the acts of 1913, had met with no response, and it further appeared that about one-third of all the towns in Massachusetts had likewise failed to report.

"We are of opinion that the officials of all the towns should more faithfully comply with the requirements of the statutes with reference to reporting, and that the building inspection department of the state police should be more drastic in their requirements of safety appliances and more vigilant in requiring towns to make such reports."

THE HOME RULE FIGHT

WHAT THE LIBERALS SAY OF THE BILL—THE UNIONIST STAND

Following is issued by the Irish press agency relative to the home rule controversy:

In his speech at Clonsilla recently, Mr. George said:

The liberal party were now approaching the final stages in the great struggle to make the democracy predominant in the government of the country. The parliament act was now maturing, and they were not going, as a government, to give up until they had reaped the harvest which had been sown at the command of the people who sent them there. There was a demand that the government should break up parliament and run away from the trust the people gave them. What wretched cowards they would be if they did that. Who would ever trust the liberal leaders again if they did it? The prime minister was not made of that kind of stuff."

Mr. Lloyd George, then, declares that to yield to the Tory demand for a general election now would be a betrayal of the trust of the people and would brand the liberals as "wretched cowards." It is clear, therefore, that there will be no general election until next year, and this fact is of first-rate importance to Ireland. The government will choose its own time for an appeal to the country, and the occasion will be one to suit the convenience of the government's friends, and not that of its enemies. As long as the Tory party persists in its opposition to home rule, so long will it be the interest of the Irish people to secure in office and in power a liberal government friendly to Ireland. The Tory cry for a general election is dishonest. It is satisfactory to know that the government has no intention of yielding to it. The government is not afraid of an appeal to the electors. But they are masters of the situation, and they apparently recognize their duty, and are prepared to discharge it, despite Tory hectoring and Carsonite bluff.

The Government and "Ulster"

Hardly less important than Mr. Lloyd George's speech at Clonsilla, was Lord Haldane's speech on June 17th at Oxford. He was formerly secretary of state for war, and a very efficient secretary, too. He is a Scotsman, a scholar, and a man of peace. He is also a statesman and a man of courage.

As to the question of Ireland, Lord Haldane declared, "the liberal government has made up its mind, and is determined to do its duty."

That statement was received with cheers. It can only mean that, while the government, as Lord Haldane said, further on in his speech would do everything possible to promote a peaceable solution of the "Ulster" difficulty, the cabinet has "determined to do its duty." In other words the government will not shrink the duty of preserving law and order and protection for life and property in "Ulster" if that duty be forced upon it by the action of the Carsonites. Evidently Lord Haldane and his colleagues in the cabinet are convinced that, despite the attempts by the Unionists, in high quarters and in low, to seduce the army, the army can be depended upon to do its duty in any crisis that may arise. Lord Haldane's statement will give general satisfaction in Ireland, and in Great Britain. Nobody in Ireland or in Great Britain wants to see rebellion or civil war in "Ulster."

The Unionist Position

In marked contrast to the attitude of the cabinet, as represented by the lord chancellor, is the attitude of the Unionists as evidenced in the speeches of Sir E. Carson and his aide-de-camp, Mr. P. E. Smith. Speaking at Belfast on Saturday last, Sir Edward Carson said:

"They had not long to wait for the climax in this controversy. The men most stick to their arms, and complete their preparations, but in a spirit of aggression. Ulster they were going to keep at all hazards."

According to Mr. A. V. Nicholson of the London Daily News, who has been in Belfast, the Carsonites are preparing to set up a provisional government in "Ulster," and their plans may take practical shape in the course of a month from now. But well-informed men on the spot do not credit this statement, nor another statement of Mr. Nicholson's, that the Belfast bankers are most anxious for this development. The Belfast banks would have to lose by the setting up of a provisional government with Carson as dictator.

plaintiffs, declines to discuss the case. Associated with him is the firm of Ely & Ely of Springfield, and Henry W. Ely of that firm explained last evening that the directors of the Hampden railroad are bringing the suit in an endeavor to collect $4,000,000 from the Boston & Maine.

This money, he said, had been expended by the Hampden railroad, but the Boston & Maine had not lived up to its part of the contract.

"A great deal of publicity has been given the Hampden railroad," he continued, "and many erroneous impressions are held by the public as to the status of the road. We are going to try and settle the matter on the strength of the agreement, and we believe the courts will see matters our way."

The road, which is about 15 miles long, runs from Bondsville in Palmer to Springfield, and was completed about a year ago.

Charles S. Mellen, then president of the Boston & Maine, made an agreement whereby that road was to lease and operate the Hampden, but after Mr. Mellen's retirement the Boston & Maine directors refused to confirm the lease.

Among the patents of local interest secured for Lowell people through the office of Gen. Gardner W. Pearson is one to Oliver Clement for closure devices. This is for a door for ice wagons and has been tried out very successfully.

GUY PHILLIPS ENDS LIFE

PACIFIC OFFICES IN NEW YORK
LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, July 3.—Guy Phillips, assistant secretary of the Missouri Pacific Railway Co., shot and killed himself in the offices of the company on the eighth floor of a big Broadway office building late last night. His physician said he had been a sufferer recently from despondency. Mr. Phillips, who was an officer or director of numerous corporations besides the Missouri Pacific, was seen early this evening alive and apparently at work at his desk in the record room of the Missouri Pacific offices. An hour later the watchman, who had noted Mr. Phillips' presence in the offices on a previous round, saw that the door of the room was still open and that Mr. Phillips was lying across the desk. Investigation showed the railroad man dead from a bullet wound in the temple. The revolver with which the shooting had been done was lying under the chair.

On a table lay a note which asked that his wife in Darien, Conn., be notified.

It also requested that notification be given to A. H. Chief, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific at Springfield, N. J., and Dr. Henry Moffatt, Mr. Phillips' physician in New York. Mr. Moffatt hastened down from Yonkers when notified of the fatality but Schuyler Phillips, a nephew of the dead man had already been communicated with and reached the company's offices before the physician arrived. Schuyler Phillips on identifying his uncle's body, immediately telephoned to his own mother, Miss S. A. Phillips in Darien, and through her Mrs. Guy Phillips was informed of her husband's death. Mrs. S. A. Phillips sent word that she would come to New York and claim the body for her sister.

Dr. Moffatt said Mr. Phillips had been a patient of his for many years and that during recent months he had suffered from depressive tendencies. The physician had feared for some time that his patient would have a nervous breakdown.

Mr. Phillips was slightly more than 50 years of age and had been for more than a quarter of a century associated with the Missouri Pacific. He was assistant secretary of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain and Southern Railway company, secretary of the Iron Mountain car trust, secretary-treasurer and a director of the Richmond & Chesapeake Bay Railway Co., assistant secretary and assistant treasurer, and a director of the Virginia Railway and Car Co., and a director of the Richmond & Chesapeake Bay Railway Co. and the Three States Realty company.

Mr. Phillips had one child, a daughter, Elsie, 19 years of age who, with her mother, is at the Phillips summer home in Darien.

THE SPELLBINDER

Speaking of private secretaries and other luxurious jobs that "are not consistent with good, economic and reform policies," Mayor Murphy has his private secretary and Commissioner Brown, not to be outdone, has a private secretary in the person of John C. King, and a private coachman into the bargain, in the person of George C. Evans, while Commissioner Morse, now enjoys the services of a private chauffeur, who like the others is not working for his health. While certain official organs try to convince their readers that last year's government is responsible for the increase in the tax-rate, as a matter of fact last year's administration had nothing to do with it, while these extra positions among other things will be found to be helping some in the boost of the tax-rate for 1914.

The Springfield Junkie

While they haven't been saying much about it some of the commissioners are rather raw over the manner in which Mayor Murphy put it over them on that Springfield junkie. The honor had agreed to go along with the bunch and it is said that made all preliminary arrangements. Then came the newspaper criticism and his honor decided to remain away, improving his time by trying a case, which while the decision went adversely, was better than junketing.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

at Springfield. The Citizen, it will be recalled, lauded his honor for remaining in Lowell and earning the $7 per day which the city pays him, by trying a private case that took up the entire day and when the other members read the pretty things the papers had said about the mayor for not accompanying them they came to the conclusion that the mayor put something over on them.

How Did "Red" Vote

Of course you recall the visit of Detective Burns to the board of trade banquet when the famous detective took occasion eloquently to laud Superintendent Welch to his face as one of the greatest police heads the country has ever known, subsequently saying the same thing about the "police heads of all the cities in which he spoke." At the recent convention of chiefs of police held at Grand Rapids, Mich. at which Supt. Welch was in attendance, the name of Detective Burns was proposed for honorary membership and was thrown down with a resounding slam. As Al Winn used to say to his ball players when things were breaking bad: "It is not who won the battle, but how did you fight?" Ergo, whether or not the famous detective was "run down" by the country's chiefs of police, it is how did Redmond Welch vote on the question. After the fine lot of bouquets presented to Burns handed the local superintendent of police in the presence of the city's substantial citizens one would expect in the reports of the Grand Rapids convention to read of Lowell's chief using his eloquence in behalf of Burns, but the papers contained no such information.

Police Station Crowded

While we have it from Supt. Welch, since his return from Grand Rapids, that Lowell is particularly free from crime, it was necessary Saturday night and Sunday to "double-up" at the police station by reason of the fact that there were not enough cells to accommodate all who were taken in. During the past campaign the fact that there were more prisoners than cells in the police station at one time would call forth criticism from the opposition press. The fact that a 17-year-old boy was arrested for drunkenness recently and no apparent effort was made to ascertain where he obtained his liquor also would have called forth violent criticisms from press and pulpit, but now nothing is said. Evidence in the cases of the houses of ill-fame that have been taken to court recently showed that they all started in Lowell since the first of the year, but that fact attracted no comment as the "Big Chief" says: "Lowell is particularly free from crime." Conditions in Lowell are no better, it is not worse than they ever were, but they are being more successfully hidden from the public.

"knows all the society grips from the 33rd degree Mason to the Hibernian Rifles." But Pa had nothing on his enterprising grandson, Victor, for Vic is there with the glad-hand for all comers, and can say "Conashtantu," "Comment ca va" or just plain "How be yer" with equal eloquence and sincerity. By the time that Vic gets ready to run for senator he will have become proficient in the language of ward 2, as she is spoke today, and will be there with the "Glicynas," which, phonetically spelled, is handing the "how-do-you-do" in modern Greek.

Speaking of Road Oil

A correspondent who evidently is interested in oil sends me a marked copy of the annual report of the superintendent of streets of the city of Cambridge for 1913, with a few personal observations written in lurid red pencil on the cover of the report. The portion marked reads as follows:

"Several different kinds of road oil were used during the season. We applied ourselves, 115,555 gallons of kerosene, 22,750 gallons of Standard 40, Dustoline, Indian Asphalt oil, Asphaltol, Texas oil and Tavis D. In addition to this amount, there were 124,225 square yards treated with Standard 30 at one and two-cents cents per square yard."

My correspondent writes beside the words "Texas oil," the following:

"This oil can be laid for 1.5 cent per yard."

On the cover of the report he writes as follows:

"Why does Charlie Morse buy oil for the roads and pay the sprinkler company $1.2 cents per yard for laying when he can have the whole thing done by contract for 1 cent or 12-10 cents per square yard and they furnish the oil. Why? The other cities are doing it and are saving money and getting better results. Wake up, Charlie."

That Postoffice Transfer

There is considerable criticism and indignation among the employees of the local postoffice over a little political trick that was recently pulled off at the federal building. It seems that a Lowell man who has been employed in the postoffice department at Washington has been transferred to the permanent clerical force at the local postoffice taking a position for which another local young man has been holding for some time. This substitute was in line for promotion after long and faithful work and it is said was within reaching distance of the permanent position when the man from Washington stepped in and took the place which the other man will be obliged to continue as a substitute for several more years. Occasionally a carrier or a clerk may exchange positions with a man in another city and in this case no injustice is done, but in the case of the transfer the substitute has been getting but little work during his preliminary service and after faithfully fulfilling his duties he is suddenly notified that some one has been jumped over his head and that he must continue as a substitute.

Why Not Show Us

The "Nota Bene" man in the Courier-Citizen a few days ago remarked: "If we do spend $250,000 on the water system, let's be sure we are going to use it when it is done. A lot of costly work was done in the past two years that seems never yet to have been of any use whatever."

As there are some of us from Missouri with the "Nota Bene" man kindly point out a couple of cases of costly work done in the past two years that has been of no use.

young men regret that the colonel did not act sooner so that their labor might be avoided. But the commissioner shoulders the responsibility. Years ago one "Bob" Adams annually built a bonfire at the corner of Bridge and First streets and annually was arrested for so doing, but there was always money galore to pay his fine when he appeared in police court, his only trouble being to get the police out of the way long enough to get the fire started. In the present case with the recent rains, the bonfires must be pretty well soaked so that there might be considerable difficulty in getting them to burn. Still, the piles are likely to be "set off" on schedule time unless guarded by the police.

The Grand Jury's Report

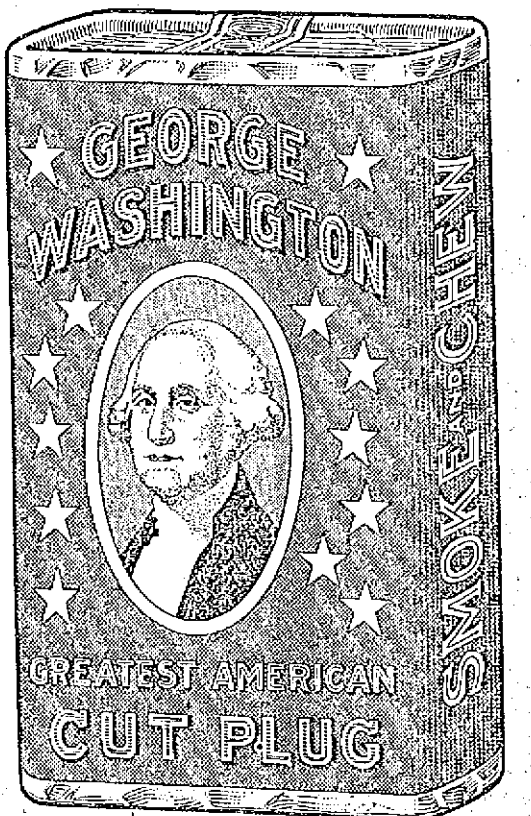

Over a year ago, former Mayor O'Donnell, in an address on the Lowell charter, before the League of American Municipalities at Buffalo, N. Y., pointed out some of the weak spots of our charter and if I remember rightly was roundly criticized therefor by the Courier-Citizen. Now the Courier-Citizen is criticizing the grand jury for not indicting certain members of the former administration, the grand jury's action simply emphasizing the fact as pointed out by the former mayor that our charter has weak spots. The grand jury finds that while certain commissioners have expended more than the total amount of their respective appropriations, it would be impossible to convict them for so doing as the charter is at present formed. The one little word "knowingly" which the committee of 60 who framed the charter, whether "knowingly" or not, inserted in the section making it a criminal offence to overrun an appropriation makes it impossible in the opinion of the grand jury to get a conviction in this particular case. The burden of proof would be on the government to show that the commissioner overran his appropriation "knowingly" with malice aforethought, as it were. Another weak point in this section comes in the opening sentence which reads: No officer of said city, except in the case of extreme emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property shall expend knowingly, in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation therefor duly made in accordance with law, etc.

That "extreme emergency" is farcical even as is the word "knowingly" and its uselessness was shown through another section when Commissioner Morse recently came to the sudden conclusion that he needed an automobile of certain make and attached another alleged emergency clause that permitted him to make an immediate purchase, "the preservation of the public peace, health and safety," requiring the immediate purchase of an automobile and the employment of a chauffeur to ride the commissioners to Springfield and subsequently to ride the commissioner of streets about town. The effort of Commissioner Morse to remove Superintendent of Streets Putnam demonstrates another weak spot in the charter. If a commissioner is to be held responsible for the departments under him he should have the power to choose his own subordinates from the head of the department down the line. Suppose the head of a department is unfriendly toward the commissioner over him; but has three votes in the municipal council, as the charter reads now, those three votes can hold him in office even though he may make life miserable for the man over him and who is responsible for his actions. It is understood that one of the local representatives is training up some new legislation relative to the city charter of Lowell. On the whole the charter is right and the representative mustn't make the mistake of trying to make changes of a radical nature, but there are a few weak spots in it that should be attended to, especially the section relative to overrunning appropriations.

TRANS ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Less Than 2000 Miles

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The possibility of a transatlantic ocean flight in a heavier-than-air machine in 13 hours is pointed out in a communication to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C., from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and former president of the society.

"The distance from Newfoundland to Ireland is less than 2000 miles," says Dr. Bell. "This means that if you go at 100 miles an hour you will cross the Atlantic in 20 hours—less than a day. We have flying machines that go at a greater speed than that. We already have machines that could cross the ocean if their engines can keep going for 20 hours. Of course, these are exceptional machines; but even the ordinary machines of today make 50 miles an hour with ease.

"Now, a flying machine flies faster as you go higher up, because the rarer air offers less resistance to the motion, while the propeller gives the same push with the same power, whatever the elevation. As you get into the rarer air the propeller spins around faster. A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles in the air—and we have machines that have gone twice as high as that—will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Then at an elevation of two miles high in the air there is a constant wind blowing in the general direction of Europe having a velocity anywhere from 25 to 50 miles an hour.

"As a net result of all these things, there can be little doubt that any ordinary machine that is able to support itself in the air at an elevation of two miles high will attain a speed of at least 100 miles an hour in the air."

rection of Europe, and that means going from America to Europe in a single day. Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in 13 hours. I hardly dare say it aloud for publication. It is sufficiently startling to know that it is not only possible, but probable, that the passage may be made in a single day. But if, as I imagine, it can be done in 13 hours, you make take an early breakfast in Newfoundland and a late dinner in Ireland the same night."

TYLER KIRK WON RACE

JAMES S. HANSON'S SEAL BROWN GELDING TOOK EVENT AT JERSEY CITY IN STRAIGHT HEATS

The seal brown gelding, Tyler Kirk, owned by James S. Hanson, which caused so much favorable comment among local horsemen while in this city, showed decided class in his first work of the season at Jersey City Thursday. Tyler Kirk, by Council Chimes, took the event in straight heats, 2:27, 2:28 and 2:29.

The horse is said to have a big future by those who have seen him in his fast workouts. His stride is even and strong and Mr. Hanson has had several chances to dispose of him had he wanted to sell.

Tyler Kirk is at the stables of Dr. Brown where the local owner will probably keep him during the present racing season for conditioning. The horse was bought by Mr. Hanson in Colorado.

COTTON-SEED PRODUCTS

No subject has been of more general interest during the past year than the cotton-seed products of the United States. The importance of the cotton-seed products of the United States has been brought to the attention of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, department of commerce, dealing with the export of cotton-seed products. It is a report by Commercial Agent Edwin W. Thompson of a year's trip devoted to the study of various feeds and feeding methods in Europe. The investigation was undertaken for the purpose of determining the conditions under which cotton-seed meal and cake and similar articles were sold and used in Europe, with the hope that such information might prove useful in promoting the export of these products.

According to this report there is an enormous consumption of oil meals of various kinds, as shown by the following (expressed in metric tons of 2205 pounds): Germany, 1,417,926; United Kingdom, 1,205,108; Denmark, 564,715; Netherlands, 457,646; total of these countries, 3,645,395. Besides the cotton-seed meal imported from the United States and Russia and that manufactured in Germany and England from Egyptian and Indian cotton seed, much meal is made from linseed, sunflower seed, rape seed, peanut, soy, hemp and palm kernels. Although American cotton-seed meal

Don't judge shingle-staining by the crude and tawdry colors made by the cheap builders and painters, which are nothing but coarse paints thinned with kerosene or some other inflammable cheapener. They give you no idea of the beautiful, velvety coloring effects of duced, as slow to change to the newer product. Denmark, which is called the greatest butter country in the world, feeds more than 200 pounds of cotton-seed cake per head of cattle per year. This demonstrates its great value and makes an object lesson that American exporters might use to advantage. If the 25,000,000 cattle in Germany, for instance, were to use American cotton-seed meal at that rate, they would need all of the 2,000,000 tons that are made in the United States. Thus there is ample potential market for all that can be made.

Suggestions for exploiting this trade, as well as much interesting matter relating to cattle feeding in general, will be found in this publication "Cotton-seed Products and Their Competitors in Southern Europe, Part I. Cotton-seed Cake and Meal," monograph No. 84, of the bureau foreign and domestic commerce, and may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, for 10 cents per copy.

15 OFFICERS "PLUCKED"

NAVY BOARD RETIRES MEN DISTINGUISHED IN SERVICE—DANIELS TO ASK REPEAL OF LAW

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Fifteen naval officers, several of them captains with distinguished records, ended their active careers yesterday upon the recommendation of the dreaded "plucking board." Secretary Daniels made public the names of those selected for compulsory retirement this year, with a formal announcement that he expected to ask for the repeal of the law of 1893 under which the annual "plucking" is done.

The officers, with their present stations, follow: Captain John H. Gibbons, commanding battleship Utah; Captain Frank W. Kellogg, of Watertown, Conn., commanding battleship North Carolina; Captain John C. Leonard, commanding battleship Virginia; Captain Frank K. Hill, Army War college, Washington, D. C.; Captain George R. Evans, commanding battleship Nebraska. Commander George N. Hayward, collier Hannibal; Commander John B. Patton, commanding battleship Tennessee and receiving ship at New York; Commander Prevost Babin, en route to United States from Asiatic station; Commander William S. Whitted, inspector Cramp shipyard, Philadelphia; Lieutenant-Commander Walter M. Falconer, collier Leonidas; Lieutenant-Commander Chysses S. Macy, in charge of navy recruiting station, Philadelphia; Lieutenant-Commander Carlton R. Kear, gunboat El Cano; Lieutenant-Commander J. W. Schoenfeld, battleship Minnesota; Lieutenant Franklin W. Osburn, Jr., gunboat Castine; Lieutenant William J. Moses, cruiser Raleigh.

In addition to the plucking board's list, Secretary Daniels announced that the following six officers had been placed on the retired list at their own request:

Captain Harrison A. Bispham, navy yard, Philadelphia; Commander Emmett R. Pollock, battleship Vermont; Commander Irvin V. Gillis, battleship Michigan; Commander Raymond Stone, battleship New Jersey; Commander Simon P. Fullender, battleship Connecticut; and Commander Edwin H. De

Lany, waiting orders, Washington. A number of other officers had asked for voluntary retirement and had all the applications been accepted the board would have been relieved of the necessity of "plucking." But last year the president decided not to permit the voluntary retirement of any officer who has not had 20 years' service after graduation from the naval academy. The law requires the creation of 46 vacancies annually, with 15 compulsory retirements if necessary. Included in the list of "plucked" this year are the names of some officers who have been so prominent in naval circles as to cause great surprise among their colleagues at their retirement. Captain Gibbons has been superintendent of the naval academy and naval attaché to the American embassy in London, assignments given to officers of the highest professional ability. Captain Hill is one of the younger school of officers, who became prominent through his outspoken criticism of defects in the employment of armor on the older battleships, which led to radical changes in the design.

GUILTY OF THREATENING Frederick C. Gale, Treasurer of F. C. Gale & Co., Convicted in Boston Court

BOSTON, July 2.—Frederick C. Gale, treasurer of the F. C. Gale & Co. corporation, dealing in jewelry and silverware, was found guilty by Judge Parmenter in the municipal court yesterday afternoon of threatening bodily harm to Jacob L. Jackson, a merchant tanner at 12 West street. Judge Parmenter continued the case for disposition, as Gale intends to appeal. Jackson said that Gale, on June 5, entered his office and accused him of writing anonymous letters to Mrs. Gale in which he accused the defendant of improper conduct. He said Gale threatened to cut the witness's tongue out and "lay it on the street," and offered him $100 if he would just come where Gale could take a punch at him. Two employees of Jackson corroborated his story. Gale testified that since he was a witness for a woman who had an action against Jackson the latter had had it in for him and has annoyed his wife and himself. He said he warned Jackson not to write any more letters to Mrs. Gale, but did not threaten him. Gale lives at 556 Newbury street.

49. JOHN STREET

TO REMOVE PUTNAM SUPT. OF STREETS

Formal Charges Presented to the Municipal Council—Hearing to be Given—An Order to Borrow $225,000 for Water Dept.

At a meeting of the municipal council, held this forenoon, the following order for the removal of Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets was submitted by Charles J. Morse, commissioner of streets and highways, and read by the mayor:

Order, removing Newell F. Putnam from the office of superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell and reasons therefor.

Ordered, by the municipal council of the city of Lowell, that Newell F. Putnam be removed from the office of superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell pursuant to the provisions of law contained in section 40, chapter 645 of the acts of 1911 for the following reasons:

First, That the removal of Newell F. Putnam from the office of superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell is for the good of the public service.

Second, That the conduct of the said Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell has caused great financial loss to the city of Lowell in that he has been regardless of the best interests of the city in the performance of his services in that he knowingly, without right, sold eighty-three thousand six hundred and twenty-five ($83,625), paving blocks belonging to the city of Lowell to the Boston & Northern Street Railway company and caused the payment therefor to be diverted from the general treasury to the credit of the appropriation for the street department.

Third, That the said Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell has caused embarrassment to this present government of 1914 because of his attempt to purchase materials and supplies during the years 1910 and 1911; said materials and supplies having been received by him for the benefit of the street department, he well knowing that the power to purchase materials and supplies, pursuant to law, vested in the purchasing agent upon requisition and approval of the head of the department for which such supplies were intended, the said purchase referred to being of materials from the New England Road Machinery company to the amount of $300, and from the Good Road Machinery company amounting to $335.10.

Fourth, That the said Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell during the year 1913 did unreasonably and without just cause fail to take the benefits of the provisions contained in a certain contract entered into by J. Walter Bowers, on the one part, and the city of Lowell, on the other part, by and through its purchasing agent in the great loss and damage of the city of Lowell.

Fifth, That the continued retention of Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets is not for the best interests of the city of Lowell for the reason that either by his advice or by his own initiative he caused to be sold more than 300,000 paving blocks, which sale caused great financial loss to the city of Lowell.

Sixth, That the commissioner of streets and highways of the city of Lowell who by law is empowered with the management and control of all matters pertaining to the conduct of the department of streets and highways has not that confidence and reliance upon the judgment and ability of said superintendent of streets, Newell F. Putnam, in the discharge of the duties of his office because of all the irregularities that have appeared in the management and the administration of the affairs of the said department.

Seventh, That the said Newell F. Putnam while he has been superintendent of streets.

On motion of Alderman Morse, it was moved that a hearing be given Mr. Putnam on Tuesday, at 11 a. m., and that Mr. Putnam be given due notice of the hearing.

Order to borrow $225,000

James H. Carmichael, commissioner of fire department and water works, submitted an order to borrow $225,000 for the necessary improvements of the water works of the city of Lowell, the interest and principal to be paid out of the receipts of the water department. On motion of Mr. Carmichael it was voted that the matter be properly advertised and that a hearing be held, Tuesday, July 14, at 11 a. m. The order submitted by Alderman Carmichael is in accordance with the report of Consulting Engineer F. A. Barbour who has been engaged in investigating the present condition of the water supply system. The order was submitted by Alderman Carmichael and Andrew E. Barrett. The order as presented by Mr. Carmichael was, in substance, as follows:

It is estimated that the cost of the work proposed, including the excavation of the well system, the publication plant, and the low lift pumping apparatus, will amount to two hundred and ten thousand dollars ($210,000.00). To allow for contingencies and to provide for the expense of the preliminary investigation already made, including the driving of test wells, the operation of the experimental plants at the boulevard and creek wells, and the engineering, I would recommend that we borrow the sum of two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars ($225,000.00), to complete the work of the purification of the boulevard supply.

FUNERALS

McAVINNE—The funeral of the late Marie Gertrude McAvinne, the charming young daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank McAvinne, who died at a deep gloom over her many friends in Pawtucketville, took place yesterday morning from the home of her parents, 339 Main street, and was largely attended for the little lady had endeavored herself to all with whom she came in contact. High mass of requiem was sung at 10 o'clock at St. Columba's church by Rev. John J. Deagan, pastor. At the services were a large representation of the children of the Pawtucket school at which the deceased was a most promising and popular pupil. Among the many beautiful floral tributes were a large one from the family, classmates in Pawtucket school, John McManus and family, Amy, Ruth, Vernon and Eva French. Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Comerford, Roberts family, Dr. William M. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Grant and family, John F. McGinley, Harry, Harold and Alexander Moir, Mrs. William and Ethel Hayes, Mae Sexton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Connelley and family, Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mealey, McDonald Bros., John Hanton and family, Lowell staff of Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., Mary Hayes, Mary Maguire, Mrs. John Walsh, Mrs. John Brennan and Mrs. Alice Deagan. The bearers were John McGinley, Ernest McDonald, John Walsh, John Gardner, Charles O'Donnell and Harry Maguire. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. John Deagan read the funeral prayers. Undertaker Peter H. Savage in charge.

Dr. and Mrs. McAvinne have the deepest sympathy of a large circle of friends in this hour of affliction.

ANOTHER APPEAL MADE FOR SALEM SUFFERERS

Relief Committee Takes Steps to Swell the Local Fund—Appeal Extraordinary Issued Today by the Committee of Seventy—Treasurer O'Hearn Tells of Conditions in Salem

At a meeting of the Salem relief committee held in the Aldermanic chamber at city hall this forenoon it was stated that the entertainment held in the Merrimack Square theatre last night netted the Salem relief fund $225 with $50 outstanding. As a result of a suggestion offered by Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, the committee treasurer, who said he believed there were 3000 people in Lowell who could give $5 more than they had given and there were 300 or 400 who could give $25 more, the following appeal, extraordinary, was issued:

TO THE PEOPLE OF LOWELL

An Appeal from the Committee on Salem Relief.

In the city of Salem, owing to the destruction of shops and factories, a daily payroll of from $15,000 to $20,000 is wiped out, and many thousand people have no means of support whatever.

It is absolutely necessary that money be raised to supply the bare daily wants of these people, in the way of food alone. There is also pressing need of furniture and bedding.

The disaster seems worse daily, rather than better.

The sums thus far contributed in Lowell are far below what is necessary, and do not yet represent what we believe to be the reasonable giving power of our people as a whole. This can only be because the extent of the Salem disaster is not generally understood.

We, therefore, make this urgent appeal to all people of Lowell to awaken to the dire necessity which confronts the destitute population of Salem and to send at once gifts of money and supplies—but especially money—to the relief committee at the Union National bank, or the Lowell Trust company. Checks payable to P. O'Hearn, treasurer.

This is the Fourth of July. Shall we celebrate it by burning up our money or shall we celebrate it by sending our money to those whose homes and whose chance of earning daily bread have already been burned?

(Signed)

Dennis J. Murphy, Mayor; Patrick O'Hearn, Treasurer; Philip S. Maiden, Secretary.

By order of the committee.

Received at the Banks

Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, chairman of the relief committee, told a very interesting and very pathetic story of conditions in Salem as observed and investigated by himself and he urged those who had already given to give more—to the extent, if necessary, of straining a point. He allowed that any man who went to Salem, possessed of the milk of human kindness would give half of what he had in his possession before leaving there. Mr. O'Hearn announced the amounts in the banks as follows: Union National bank, $225.20; Lowell Trust company, $1289.

1000 Loaves of Bread

It was stated at the meeting that the Page Co., had sent 1000 loaves of bread to Salem and that the Bay State Street railway had transported a carload of furniture, clothing, etc., for which the women of Grace Universalist church were chiefly responsible.

The mayor announced additional subscriptions to his fund aggregating $381.50, Richard C. Hemmen, treasurer of the Harvard brewery, contributing $250.

Mayor Murphy made special mention of two Lowell families who are in a bad way in Salem and in need of immediate relief. He said that two members of the family are seriously ill and he thought that a cash donation of $50 would relieve the situation.

On motion of George M. Harrigan it was voted that the treasurer of the committee, Mr. O'Hearn, use his best judgment in attending to the case, and that he pay what money he considered necessary out of the receipts.

Greek Helpers Appointed

It was suggested by one of the members that the Greek colony had been slighted, unintentionally of course, in the Salem relief movement and, on motion of the mayor, the following committee was appointed to attend to that quarter: Nicholas Spyropoulos, Peter Tzoumbras, Harry Houpis and Peter Chagradis. These men were authorized to collect money for the Salem sufferers.

Grand Challenge Cup

HARVARD SECOND DEFEATED WINNIPEG, CANADA, IN FIRST SEMI-FINAL

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 3.—The third day of the royal regatta opened with all the interest centered in the semi-finals of the Grand Challenge cup, the Bino Ribbon of English amateur rowing, from which all the English crews had been eliminated and only American, Canadian and German rowers were left in to continue the contest.

Harvard was drawn against Winnipeg in the first of these semi-finals and Boston was to meet Mayence later in the day.

In the individual sculling competition the Diamond Sculls had been eliminated yesterday except E. G. Williams and C. M. Stuart, two Englishmen, Robert Dibble of Toronto, Ontario, and Giuseppe Sinigaglia of Como, Italy. The two Englishmen were drawn together in the first semi-final heat today while Dibble, who is American and Canadian amateur sculling champion, was to meet the Italian giant in the second semi-final.

The crowds along the banks of the Thames and in the houseboats and launches moored alongside both sides of the course seemed to be greater than ever today in spite of the fact that the weather was as bad as it possibly could be and showed little prospect of improvement. The day opened with a drizzling rain, which later developed into a downpour accompanied by a strong cold north wind which kicked up miniature white caps on the course. For this reason, the usual morning sculls were abandoned, the rowers contenting themselves with a sharp row to the starting post in order to warm up.

Even the grandstands and royal enclosures offered little protection from the weather and the wind at times threatened to tear the canvas to shreds.

Harvard second day defeated Winnipeg, Canada, in the first semi-final of the Grand Challenge cup.

Harvard won by three-quarters of a length in seven minutes flat.

C. M. Stuart of Trinity hall, Cambridge, beat E. G. Williams of the Viking Rowing club by a length and a half in the first semi-final of the Diamond Sculls. His time was 8.45.

The Union Boat club of Boston won the second semi-final in the Grand challenge cup, beating the usual morning sculls were abandoned, the rowers contenting themselves with a sharp row to the starting post in order to warm up.

who will supervise the relocation of streets and construction of buildings in the burned district.

Contributions of $7,500 for the local relief fund were received today, making the total amount raised in this city $78,000.

BILL PERMITTING SALEM TO ABATE TAXES PASSED IN THE HOUSE

BOSTON, July 3.—A bill permitting the city of Salem to abate taxes in the district destroyed by fire last week and allowing the city to borrow $100,000 in anticipation of taxes was passed in the house of representatives today. This was the second of the Salem fire relief measures, the house yesterday having authorized a loan of $700,000 outside the debt limit.

DEATHS

LAMPSON—Joseph Lampson, aged 52 years, died late yesterday afternoon at the Chelmsford street hospital. Deceased leaves a sister, Miss Theresa Lampson of Lowell. The body was later removed to the rooms of Undertaker Joseph Albert in Alken street.

GOMES—Olivia Gomes, aged 6 months, died Thursday evening at the home of her parents, Anthony and Francis Gomes, 128 Charles street.

LOCAL SALOON ROBBERED

The liquor shop of John J. Mahoney at 550 Merrimack street was broken into during the night and the owner stated this morning that the intruders got away with between $25 and $30.

According to the owner the thieves gained an entrance into his place by tearing away the steel screening in the rear of the store and forcing a window. None of the goods about the place was removed, which showed that the motive of the intruders was purely larceny of money. The police have been notified of the break.

FEDERAL AID FOR THE SALEM FIRE SUFFERERS

Pres. Wilson Sends Message to Congress Urging an Appropriation of $200,000 as Result of Appeal from Gov. Walsh

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Wilson sent a special message to congress today urging immediate appropriation of $200,000 for the relief of those made homeless and destitute in the Salem fire. He inclosed a telegram from Gov. Walsh, saying that 3000 families were in need. The message was as follows:

"The governor of Massachusetts has sent me the following telegram:

"The Salem fire is increasing slowly. The expense of rehabilitation will be enormous as 3000 families are homeless and without work. If the national government could appropriate $200,000 it would assist greatly. I am informed that the action of the national government at the time of the San Francisco disaster furnished a precedent. Can anything stand in the way of a substantial contribution from the national government?"

"In view of the great number of homeless and destitute in Salem, I very earnestly urge the immediate appropriation by congress of $200,000 as requested by the government to be expended under the direction of the secretary of war," wrote the president.

MAYOR HURLEY PROHIBITS DISCHARGE OF FIREWORKS IN SALEM

SALEM, July 3.—A proclamation prohibiting the discharge of fireworks on the fourth of July was issued by Mayor John F. Hurley at a meeting of the city council today. In the proclamation the mayor suggested that the people of the city might better spend their time in giving thanks that no greater damage was done by the fire that laid waste more than one-third of the city on June 26.

Several applications for building permits were received today. All were temporarily refused pending the appointment by Governor Walsh of a rebuilding commission of five citizens

GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

HARVARD SECOND DEFEATED WINNIPEG, CANADA, IN FIRST SEMI-FINAL

THE BUILDING OPERATIONS

Much Activity in Constructing New Dwellings — Real Estate Market

Inspector Frank Connor of the public building department is getting after the owners of some of the dilapidated shacks in this city and has started a crusade against them that will stop only when the old dangerous buildings have been torn down or repaired in a manner that will not endanger the lives of those living therein. In the course of the past week the inspector has notified several owners as to the condition of their properties and also ordered them to repair or tear down the same and in one instance he gave orders to tear down a part of a large brick dwelling.

A number of buildings along the banks of the canal in Suffolk street which were in a rather bad condition and a menace to people, especially in the rear where the large and rickety piazzas hung over the water, were condemned and the owners stated that they could not do anything until the water is drawn from the canal which will probably be Sunday. However they all agreed to take care of their property and as quickly as possible Mr. Connor was highly compensated for ordering those buildings repaired or torn down, especially by those who are residing in the houses in them, and by Harry H. J. Howe who years ago pointed out the danger to children falling through into the water.

The large brick dwelling in Middlesex place which is a landmark in that district has been ordered torn down, that is, a section of it and the owners, the Dugdale heirs, have men at work on the job. The building contains 20 tenements and is two and a half stories in height. Twelve tenements will be torn down, but it is not known what other plans the owners have in mind.

Charles Paille, the local plasterer, has applied for a permit from the municipal council for the removal of a two and a half story wooden structure now located at the corner of Ford and Allen streets. Mr. Paille recently purchased the building from James P. O'Flahaven and his plans are to remove the structure to Mt. Hope street, Pawtucketville, where a foundation has been built. The proposed road the house will travel will be up Ford street as far as Pawtucket street and across the Moody street bridge and onto Colonial avenue as far as Mt. Hope street. Then the structure will be taken up Mt. Hope street and converted into a two-tenement house. Mr. Paille said he believes the removal of the building will cost him about $300.

The granting of the permit has been held up by the council on the grounds that the removal of the structure will interfere with traffic and will necessitate the removal of wires and trees along the street. Mr. Paille recently proposed that a protest will be entered if the house is removed over the proposed route.

On the site now occupied by the building purchased by Mr. Paille a four-tenement house with two stores on the street floor will be constructed by Mr. O'Flahaven and the latter is waiting until the old structure is removed to begin operations. The building will be of wood with brick veneer and will contain the most modern improvements.

The legislature recently voted an appropriation of $17,000 for much needed alterations at the Normal school in Broadway and now a large gang of men are at work on the said alterations. All the ceilings of the building will be taken down and the walls plastered. The brick work will be repaired and the sidewalks surrounding the building will be reconstructed, granolithic walks being put in.

Employees of the public building department will be put to work on alterations at the Pine street school probably next week. The exterior of the structure will be painted and the woodwork both outside and inside will be repaired. The work will cost approximately $500.

Irving Barlow, whose store formerly located in the Chelmsford street bridge crashed down the railroad tracks some time ago, has not yet built a new store but he is doing business just the same, thanks to the courtesy of Commissioner Donnelly who supplied Mr. Barlow with one of the veling booths of the city. The panel building was erected on the opposite side of street and will remain there until Mr. Barlow has made plans for a new store or until the state primary elections which will be held in September.

Mrs. Ida P. Farrington is having a residence built at 129 Warwick street. The building will be of wood and will contain seven rooms with bath and a steam heating system will be installed therein. The house will be two stories in height and its dimensions will be 24 by 30 feet.

Mrs. Norman J. Smith has had plans drawn for the erection of a conservatory at 366 Andover street. The structure will be of wood with glass sides and roof and will be one story in height.

The Lanson company has men at work on the foundry building at their plant in Walker street. The roof of the foundry building will be raised and an addition put in for furnaces. The total cost of the work will be about $2200.

In order to conform himself with the orders of the inspector of buildings James Riley of Providence, R. I., owner of the building numbered 159-161 Suffolk street has taken out a permit for alterations to the said building. The foundation walls will be repaired and new sills will be built. The piazza in the rear suspended over the canal will be rebuilt and proper supports will be erected. The piling is waiting until the water is drawn from the canal before putting men on the job.

M. D. McMillan and C. T. Lennon are remodeling their property at 59 Carter street. A story is being added to the old and new floor space will be utilized for a kitchen.

Work has been started on the foundation for a six-tenement house at 23 fifth street. Each tenement will contain four rooms with pantry and bath. The building will be of wood and its dimensions will be 34 by 52 feet. It is being erected by D. M. Kazanjian.

Real Estate Dealers

Abel R. Campbell, real estate and insurance broker, with offices at 403-405 Sun building reports the following sales for the week ending July 2d.

The sale of the one-family dwelling at the corner of South Walker and Corner streets and numbered at 57-59, Walker street, the house contains eight rooms, pantry and bath. It is equipped with open plumbing, furnace heat and set tubs. The lot contains 4000 feet of land with a frontage on South Walker street of 50 feet. The property was sold for Charles E. and Frederick N. Tilton and the purchaser was Hugh B. McPherson of the Swift and Bailey Co. Mr. McPherson will occupy his new home within a few days.

The sale of the two-apartment house at 49 Grace street. This house was built for personal occupancy and is of sound construction. Each apartment contains seven rooms, pantry and bath and set tubs. The house is equipped with both steam and furnace heat. Land to the extent of nearly 4000 feet was conveyed with the house. The structure in this sale was Miss Grace Scribner of Liberty street and the purchaser was Mr. George K. Topjian, the Central street tailor. One year ago Mr. Topjian purchased through this office the adjoining two-apartment house Mr. Topjian purchased solely for investment and will continue to rent the house.

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate broker, offices 64 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week ending Friday, July 2d.

The sale of two building sites situated on the easterly side of Parkview avenue just beyond its junction with Grove street. They aggregate 16,948 square feet and are assessed at $1000. The sale was effected on behalf of Clarence W. Whitted, the purchaser being Mr. J. Roble Cove of the Massachusetts mills.

Also the sale of a lodging house situated at 50 Kirk street at the head of the street. The house has thirteen excellent rooms, heated by steam, equipped with every possible convenience. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Mrs. Anna E. Potter, the purchaser being Miss George H. Potter. Miss Potter has already taken possession of the structure.

Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a fine cottage property situated near Liberty street in the Highlands section. The house occupies 4000 square feet of land assessed at 100 per foot, the assessment being 400.00. The sale is effected on behalf of a resident owner, the purchaser coming from out-of-town.

Preliminary papers have been signed which will locate in Lowell a new small manufacturing concern. The company will locate in a mill property situated in the Bolyards section. This will be a branch of the parent company situated in Boston and operations will be commenced on the signing of final papers in the immediate future. Names and full details will be given as soon as the final arrangements are definitely settled.

Contracts have been closed on the purchase and sale of a six-apartment property situated near Middlesex street in the Highlands section. Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a two-apartment property situated near Westford street. The apartments are absolutely separate and are equipped with every possible convenience and luxury. The sale is effected on behalf of a local estate, the purchaser buying for occupancy and investment both.

BENEFIT FOR SALEM SUFFERERS

At Merrimack Square Theatre Last Evening a Big Success

Very Fine Program Produced Mainly by Local Talent.

JAS. E. DONNELLY, Organizer

The benefit entertainment conducted at the Merrimack Square theatre last night for the victims of the recent Salem fire was a satisfactory success, both financially and artistically. The house was crowded to the doors and the receipts were very substantial. The program was elaborate and highly enjoyed. Those who attended while contributing to a worthy cause had no reason to complain over the entertainment, for the bill, which was of the vaudeville kind, was one of the best.

CANOE CAPSIZED AND OCCUPANTS BECAME ENTPANGLED IN BARBED WIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, July 2.—In an attempt to save the life of Miss Bernice Gibson, 17, who was thrown out of a canoe by a collision with a market boat, Stuart Barber, 13, lost his own life at Riverside park here last night. Barber, who was a strong swimmer, leaped from the canoe in which he was riding with a girl companion and after reaching her both became entangled in barbed wire and were drowned.

Switzerland in America

Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is in North-western Montana. It is the most talked about region in the country today. It seems to be the one place most desired by Summer Tourists who delight in outdoor life.

It's a curious thing how one can be induced to visit Switzerland, beautiful as it is, before exploring the wonders of Glacier National Park, and particularly is this so as that luxurious train the "Oriental Limited" takes one through from Chicago to the Glacier Park without change.

Within the Park comfortable quarters are to be had at Glacier Park Hotel and elsewhere; and the Glaciers, the lofty mountains, the crystal lakes filled with gamey trout; the atmosphere of big game ruling everywhere, are wonders never to be forgotten.

Those in charge of Glacier Park have seen to it that the cost of visiting and living there is not excessive, and I would like to send you some of our illustrated booklets which tell you all about it, and about the cost of going there and seeing all there is to see. If you will send me your address, I will gladly send you copies free of charge, and answer any questions about the Park that you may wish to ask.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Senate Passes Fisher-Ellis Railroad Bill After Strong Defence by Senator Fisher

BOSTON, July 3.—The senate, after a long debate, yesterday passed by a vote of 37 to 2, the Fisher-Ellis bill, which authorizes the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to dispose of its stock in the Boston Railroad Holding company and also authorizes the holding company to sell the Boston & Maine stock and securities now owned by the holding company. The bill was put through without amendment in the form in which it passed the house.

The senate had two sessions yesterday, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. The debate on the railroad bill began at the morning session, when the question came on ordering the bill to a third reading, and was continued in the afternoon. Pres. Coolidge left the chair and took the floor to speak in behalf of an amendment proposed by him to put the bill back into the form in which it was originally agreed to by the New Haven people.

Pres. Coolidge's Argument

Pres. Coolidge, speaking for his amendment to restore the bill to its original form, without the "string" reserving for the state the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock from any holder, said:

"The New Haven has the right to reject this bill. It was the money of that corporation which bought the Boston & Maine stock now owned by the holding company, and this legislature cannot compel the New Haven to accept for that stock what it deems to be an unfair price, or to sell it under unfair conditions.

"If we pass this act as it is now drawn the New Haven will refuse to accept it and the entire agreement made in Washington will be overthrown. Therefore, we will accomplish nothing in that direction, but will bring on litigation and trouble to everybody concerned.

"I offer my amendment to the bill in order to bring it back to its original shape, in which it will be acceptable to the railroad. Then the agreement will be in force, and the railroad situation will be cleared up."

Fisher Explains the "String"

Sen. Fisher of Westford, whose name is one of those attached to the bill as it passed the house, began his argument in favor of the bill at the morning session of the senate and continued well into the afternoon session. He said:

"The senator who has just taken his seat has offered us the Moorfield Story bill, the very bill that was referred to our committee on railroads in the first instance, the one which the committee would not approve.

"Why did we put the 'string' in the bill? Some good lawyers of Massachusetts say that the corporation has the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock no matter where it may be sold, whether in California or Mexico. The 'string' in this bill merely recognizes the right of Massachusetts to protect herself. But we don't put that 'string' in."

In the bill to have the commonwealth of Massachusetts buy that stock; we put it in that bill so that whenever the stock is sold it will be sold to the commonwealth of Massachusetts with the right to stop in and take that stock, buy it back.

Purpose to Protect Investor

"Adopt the amendment of our honored president and that stock can be sold in blocks tomorrow into foreign hands. The 'string' on that stock is going to bring about the sale of these shares in small blocks to the individual investor and is a protection to the small purchaser, not the speculator. It depreciates values, it depreciates them only to speculators and not to legitimate investors.

"The question of the acceptance of this act by the New Haven railroad is not before us and it will not be before us until this bill is enacted. The New Haven railroad can accept this act. Let that company take the responsibility of not accepting it and going into the courts, if it wants to do so.

"Two of the leading railroad lawyers of the commonwealth, one of them an ex-chairman of the railroad commission, have said to me: 'The legislature is absolutely right—keep your 'string' bill.' The railroad commissioners, the governor and the house of representatives, all are agreed on the necessity for this legislation.

"The very fact that the New Haven objects to the 'string' is our reason why it should be kept in this bill. Protect our interests. Conserve the rights of the commonwealth, and do not rush headlong into legislation because of a threat of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad."

The House

The legislature will make an effort to bring this year's session to a close today. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the possibility of prorogation, but hopes of its accomplishment are freely expressed.

The house completed yesterday all the business on its calendar up to the hour of adjournment but has plenty of work for today.

The bill providing "That it shall not be unlawful to operate an automobile on Sunday" was passed to be engrossed after considerable debate.

Mr. Beck charged the house with inconsistency in rejecting a bill to allow a man to work in his household garden on Sunday and then passing the Sunday auto bill.

Mr. Twombly offered an amendment to extend the provisions of the Sunday auto bill so that it might include Sunday baseball, but the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Washburn opposed the bill, saying that if legislation was going through giving more laxity to the Sunday law, it should not be in favor of the men in Stratford, when the ordinary citizen was denied additional privilege.

Mr. Raines said that certain men have been prevented from operating auto lines on Sunday because competing street railway lines dug up an old law that everybody had forgotten. "Five men are under indictment and we should not let them suffer for committing no crime except driving an auto," declared Mr. Raines.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by a voice vote.

Mr. Tufts sought to have killed in the enactment stage the bill providing for a license fee of $103,000 a year for the use of trading stamps. Messrs. Harrington of Fall River, Sheehan and Cargoe urged that the bill be enacted. By a voice vote it was enacted.

Mr. Washburn made an unsuccessful effort to have reconsidered the vote whereby the house passed the bill providing for reorganization of the state board of insanity. By a rising vote, 43 to 63, reconsideration was refused.

The house rejected the bill providing for an appropriation of $30,000 for the improvement of Lake Quanaquaw.

Reconsideration was refused of the vote whereby the house rejected the bill transferring jurisdiction of telephone and telegraph companies from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commissioners.

The resolve providing for an investigation by the public service commission of the subject of street railway and street railway service in the Metropolitan district was engrossed without debate.

SENSATIONAL MURDER MYSTERY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE REVEALS WIFE'S JEALOUS USE OF THE DICTOGRAPH

1-DR. EDWIN CARMAN 2-DR. CARMAN'S HOUSE, SHOWING HOW DICTOGRAPH WIRES WERE LAID 3-DIAGRAM SHOWING PATH OF MURDEROUS BULLET. PHOTOS © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 3.—The murder mystery in a doctor's office in this little Long Island town has turned out to be one of the country's latest sensational cases. Mrs. William D. Bailey, a wealthy resident of fashionable Hempstead, where she lived in comfort and happiness with her husband and two children, was shot to death in the private consulting room of Dr. Edwin Carman, a rich and prominent physician. It was said that she was a stranger to him and had gone to consult him about her health without her husband's knowledge. She was killed by a bullet that apparently was fired through the window of the office. Dr. Carman himself would have been shot, he says, if he had not dodged in time. He says he believes the shot was meant for him. It quickly developed that Mrs. Carman, who had become suspicious of her husband, had had a dictograph secretly installed in his office, running to her room upstairs, so that she could sit there and hear all that was going on in the consulting room when her husband had woman patients. She was jealous of him. She denied that she knew anything of the shooting, but acknowledged that she secretly ripped out the dictograph apparatus after the murder and hid it in the attic because she was afraid it would reveal her suspicions of her husband.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 3.—Mrs. Georgiana Parlow, aged 23, wife of Cornelius Parlow, 50 years her senior, who ran away from her home last week, taking jewelry and money to the value of $100, claimed by her husband, was not arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. She and her brother, Bert Shaddock, were arrested in North Reading yesterday and brought to this city. The charge against the young wife was not pressed after she had surrendered the jewelry.

Mrs. Parlow, however, refused to live again with her husband, and she and her brother left on the early evening train for Massachusetts.

Antonio Buono, Said to Be "Heras" of New York Gang, Gets From 12½ to 25 Years

NEW YORK, July 3.—Antonio Buono stepped his trial for kidnapping before Judge Washington in general sessions court yesterday by pleading guilty and was immediately sentenced to not less than 12½ years nor more than 25 years in Sing Sing prison.

Buono was one of the men charged with the kidnapping of Giuseppe Guimaraes, the others getting minimum sentences of 20 and 30 years. Matteo Fallanzola, another of the gang, turned scales evidence yesterday, with a result that Buono suddenly decided to plead guilty. Fallanzola declared Buono was "the brains of the job."

MARY AUGUSTA IS WASHED UP ON ROCKS—CAPT. AND CREW LAND IN POWER BOAT

KENNEDUNK, Me., July 3.—The 37-year-old, two-masted schooner Mary Augusta, abandoned by her crew, was washed up on the rocks at Walkers Point yesterday. One of the masts was down and the cabin was awash. The schooner was built at Ellsworth and owned at Bangor. She registered 115 net tonnage.

Capt. Winfield Tabner of Winterport, his son Raymond and the third member of his crew landed in their power boat, having abandoned the schooner before she reached the rocks. The schooner was lying in a big sea while bound from St. George for Swans Island with 250 tons of soft coal, when the shrouds gave way and the mast went overboard.

She will be a total loss.

SLIDE FOR LIFE NO BILL IN FIRE CASE

Feature at Sacred Heart
Ship

It would seem as if all roads would lead to Moore street tomorrow afternoon and evening where the parishioners of the Sacred Heart parish are holding their fourth annual picnic on the large parochial grounds. There will be dancing after noon and evening to the musical music of a combined band and orchestra. The afternoon will be given over to games and the enjoyment of the evening circus, menagerie, slide shows, African dagger and other refined mid-way features. The wonderful aerial ship secured with much difficulty will bring a positive thrill to all fortunate enough to secure a place in it as it whirled through the air. A scene of rare beauty will be presented in the evening when the naturally beautiful grounds will be transformed into a fairland, aglow with lights, large and small. No one will need to leave the premises for lunch or supper as menus and seats will be placed about the grounds where refreshments of all kinds and soft drinks may be had.

The most talked of event will occur in the early evening when Prof. Hockhart will make his desperately dangerous dive from the roof of the school buildings to the grounds. This astonishingly accomplished aerialist, whose absolute daring thrilled the multitude who held his last demonstration will positively appear. A very interesting vaudeville bill has been provided and will be operated on a stage placed in the center of recently cleared lawn which make a splendid amphitheatre. About to be shown a large variety of new and carefully selected effects in fireworks will be set off. The whole program for the day's enjoyment is one sufficient to satisfy anyone that the best place to spend the "glorious Fourth" is on the grounds of the Sacred Heart church on Moore street.

DEVELOPMENT OF REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Although, next to Cuba, the latest of the West Indies, the island which is divided between the Dominican Republic and Haiti is the least known and offers the greatest possibilities for future development. The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, of the department of commerce, has just issued an interesting monograph entitled "Development of the Dominican Republic" (Special Consular Report No. 65), which treats of the general features of the republic, its agricultural possibilities, its import and export trade in detail and the countries participating in its shipping facilities, and other information which should make the publication a useful compendium for consultation as to the country's trade resources, etc. Copies of the monograph may be procured from the Superintendent of Documents, Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 5 cents per copy.

plaintiffs, declines to discuss the case. Associated with him is the firm of Ely & Ely of Springfield, and Henry W. Ely of that firm explained last evening that the directors of the Hampden railroad are bringing the suit in an endeavor to collect $4,000,000 from the Boston & Maine.

This money, he said, had been expended by the Hampden railroad, but the Boston & Maine had not lived up to its part of the contract. "A great deal of publicity has been given the Hampden railroad," he continued, "and many erroneous impressions are held by the public as to the status of the road. We are going to try and settle the matter on the strength of the agreement, and we believe the courts will see matters our way."

The road, which is about 15 miles long, runs from Haverhill in Palmer to Springfield, and was completed about a year ago. Charles S. Melton, then president of the Boston & Maine, made an agreement whereby that road was to lease and operate the Hampden, but after Mr. Melton's retirement the Boston & Maine directors refused to confirm the lease.

THE HOME RULE FIGHT

WHAT THE LIBERALS SAY OF THE BILL—THE UNIONIST STAND

Following is issued by the Irish press agency relative to the home rule controversy:

In his speech at Cricheth recently Chancellor George said: "The liberal party were now approaching the final stages in the great struggle to make the democracy predominant in the government of the country. The parliament act was now maturing, and they were not going, as a government, to give up until they had reaped the harvest which had been sown at the command of the people who sent them there. There was a demand that the government should break up parliament and run away from the trust the people gave them. What wretched cowards they would be if they did that. Who would ever trust the liberal leaders again if they did it? The prime minister was not made of that kind of stuff."

Mr. Lord George then, declares that to yield to the Tory demand for a general election now would be a betrayal of the trust of the people and would brand the liberals as "wretched cowards." It is clear, therefore, that there will be no general election until next year, and this fact is of first-rate importance to Ireland. The government will choose its own time for an appeal to the country, and the occasion will be one to suit the convenience of the government's friends, and not that of its enemies. As long as the Tory party persists in its opposition to home rule, so long will it be the interest of the Irish people to secure in office and in power a liberal government friendly to Ireland. The Tory cry for a general election is dishonest. It is satisfactory to know that the government has no intention of yielding to it. The government is not afraid of an appeal to the electors. But they are masters of the situation, and they are prepared to recognize their duty and are prepared to discharge it, despite Tory howling and Carsonite bluffs.

The Government and "Cister" Hardly less important than Mr. Lloyd George's speech at Cricheth, was Lord Haldane's speech on June 17th at Oxford. Lord Haldane is the liberal lord chancellor. He was formerly secretary of state for war, and a very efficient secretary, too. He is a Scotsman, a scholar, and a man of peace. He is also a statesman and a man of courage.

"As to the question of Ireland," Lord Haldane declared, "the liberal government has made up its mind, and is determined to do its duty."

That statement was received with cheers. It can only mean that, whilst the government, as Lord Haldane said further on in his speech, would do everything possible to promote a peaceable solution of the "Ulster" difficulty, the cabinet has "determined to do its duty." In other words the government will not shirk the duty of preserving law and order and protection for life and property in "Ulster" if that duty be forced upon it by the action of the Carsonites. Evidently Lord Haldane and his colleagues in the cabinet are convinced that, despite the attempts by the Unionists, in high quarters and in low, to reduce the army, the army can be depended upon to do its duty in any crisis that may arise. Lord Haldane's statement will give general satisfaction in Ireland, and in Great Britain. Nobody in Ireland or in Great Britain wants to see rebellion or civil war in "Ulster."

The Unlabeled Position

In marked contrast to the attitude of the cabinet, as represented by the lord chancellor, is the attitude of the Unionists as evidenced in the speeches of Mr. E. Carson and his aide-de-camp, Mr. P. E. Smith. Speaking at Belfast on Saturday last, Sir Edward Carson said:

"They had not long to wait for the climax in this controversy. 'The me must stick to their arms, and complete their preparations, but not in a spirit of aggression. Ulster they were going to keep at all hazards.'"

According to Mr. A. V. Nicholson of the London Daily News, who has been in Belfast, the Carsonites are preparing to set up a provisional government in "Ulster," and their plans may take practical shape in the course of a month from now. But well-informed statements to the effect do not credit this statement for another statement of Mr. Nicholson's that the Belfast bankers are most anxious to see this development. The Belfast banks would have most to lose by the setting up of a provisional government with Carson as dictator.

GUY PHILLIPS ENDS LIFE

SHOT HIMSELF IN MISSOURI PACIFIC OFFICES IN NEW YORK LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, July 3.—Guy Phillips, assistant secretary of the Missouri Pacific Railway Co., shot and killed himself in the offices of the company on the eighth floor of a big Broadway office building late last night. His physician said he had been an sufferer recently from despondency. Mr. Phillips, who was an officer or director of numerous corporations besides the Missouri Pacific, was seen early this evening alive and apparently at work at his desk in the record room of the Missouri Pacific offices. An hour later the victim was found dead. Mr. Phillips' presence in the office on a previous night, saw that the door of the room was still open, but that Mr. Phillips was lying across the desk. Investigation showed the railroad man dead from a bullet wound in the forehead. The revolver was lying under the chair.

On a table lay a note which asked that his wife in Darien, Conn., be notified. It also requested that notification be given A. H. Chief, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific at Southfield, N. J., and Dr. Henry Moffatt, Mr. Phillips' physician in Yonkers. Mr. Moffatt hastened down from Yonkers where he was on the fatality but Schuyler Phillips, nephew of the dead man had already been communicated with and reached the company's offices before the physician arrived. Schuyler Phillips on identifying his uncle's body, immediately telephoned to his own mother, Mrs. S. A. Phillips in Darien, and through her Mrs. Guy Phillips was informed of her husband's death. Mrs. S. A. Phillips sent word that she would come to New York and claim the body for her sister.

would come to New York and claim the body for her sister.

Dr. Moffatt said Mr. Phillips had been a patient of his for many years and that during recent months he had suffered from depressive tendencies. The physician had feared for some time that his patient would have a nervous breakdown.

Mr. Phillips was slightly more than 60 years of age and had been for more than a quarter of a century associated with the Missouri Pacific. He was assistant secretary of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain and Southern Railway company, secretary of the Iron Mountain car trust, secretary-treasurer and a director of the Richmond & Chesapeake Bay Railway Co., assistant secretary and assistant treasurer, and a director of the Virginia Railway and Car Co., and a director of the Richmond & Chesapeake Bay Railway Co. and the Three States Realty company.

Mr. Phillips had one child, a daughter, Elsie, 19 years of age who, with her mother, is at the Phillips summer home in Darien.

COMB STOPPED SHOT

NARROW ESCAPE FOR SHERIFF WHO KILLS ONE THIN ROBBER AND WOUNDS ANOTHER

PENNINGTON, Ore., July 3.—George MacDuff, a deputy sheriff of Heppner, Ore., fought a single handed battle with train robbers in the aisle of a chair car 50 miles east of here yesterday, killing one and wounding another. He missed death himself when the westerners inevitable pocket comb in the upper left hand vest pocket slowed down a bullet aimed at his heart.

The dead man was identified as Hugh Whitner, a desperado, known for depredations in Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. His wounded companion and a third robber were trailed by posse. They got about $200 from the express car of the train, one diamond ring valued at $700 and a few dollars. The robbers boarded the train when it slowed down to drop a helper engine. They herded the crew into the express car, and finding no great reward in the safe, decided to rob the passengers. A request that women be left undisturbed was agreed to, and one robber remained to guard the crew.

The others encountered MacDuff. After the shooting the wounded bandit dragged himself back to the express car, summoned his companion and escaped.

THOUT WILL BE PLENTIFUL Plans to completely restock all trout streams and lakes throughout the national forests of Colorado, Wyoming, and South Dakota, within a period of nine years, are well under way, as the result of the approval by the federal bureau of fisheries of a plan of operation prepared by the forest service. The bureau of fisheries has promised to furnish the necessary fish fry for distribution to the various forests; the shipments of fry to be directed to railroad stations nearest the waters to be stocked so that as many streams as possible may be supplied from a central point. The planting of all fry will be performed by forest officers, who will keep close check on the results of the work.

According to the estimates of the forest officers, approximately 20 million trout fry of the brook, rainbow, and black spotted varieties will be needed to meet the requirements of all the waters adaptable to the production of trout. Of this great number the bureau of fisheries is prepared to supply something over four and a half million this year and gradually decreasing number each successive year for a total of nine, at the end of which time it is expected that the complete restocking will have been accomplished. The estimates are said to cover 375 streams and lakes in the three states.

The restocking of national forest streams in all states where such forests are situated, including those now being acquired in the White mountains and the southern Appalachians, will be given attention as rapidly as supplies of fish fry become available for planting purposes. The forest service is indubitably organized to carry on work of this kind and does so with practical efficiency since the fish must be handled with the utmost haste and frequently during the late evening or early morning hours. The production of the excellent trout and state fish hatcheries is hardly adequate to meet all demands, however, and therefore the work has to be done in installments.

THE SPELLBINDER

Speaking of private secretaries and other luxurious jobs that "are not consistent with good, economic and reform policies," Mayor Murphy has his private secretary and Commissioner Brown, not to be outdone, has a private secretary in the person of John C. King, and a private coachman into the bargain, in the person of George C. Evans, while Commissioner Morse, now enjoys the services of a private chauffeur, who like the others is not working for his health. While certain official organs try to convince their readers that last year's government is responsible for the increase in the tax-rate, as a matter of fact last year's administration had nothing to do with it, while these extra positions among other things will be found to be helping some in the boost of the tax-rate for 1914.

The Springfield Junket

While they haven't been saying much about it some of the commissioners are rather raw over the manner in which Mayor Murphy put it over them on that Springfield junket. His Honor had agreed to go along with the bunch and it is said had made all preliminary arrangements. Then came the newspaper criticism and his Honor decided to remain away, improving his time by trying a case, which while the decision went adversely, was better than junketing.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

EXCUSE ME

The Sun 25 years ago:

"The Boston Record's political man has been looking over the political field and he finds that Pa Jewett

"knows all the society grips from the 33rd degree Mason to the Hibernian Rifles." But Pa had nothing on his enterprising grandson, Victor, for Vic is there with the glad-hand for all comers, and can say "Conastantino, 'Comment ca va' or just plain 'How be yer' with equal eloquence and sincerity. By the time that Vic gets ready to run for senator he will have become proficient in the language of ward 2, as she is spoke to, and will be there, with the 'Chickens', which, phonetically spelled, is handling the 'how-do-you-do' in modern Greek.

Speaking of Road Oil

A correspondent who evidently is interested in oil sends me a marked copy of the annual report of the superintendent of streets of the city of Cambridge for 1913, with a few personal observations written in lurid red pencil on the cover of the report. The portion marked reads as follows:

"Several different kinds of road oil were used during the season. We applied ourselves, 115,156 gallons of Road Oil, 22,000 gallons of Fuel Oil, 10,000 gallons of Asphaltum, 10,000 gallons of Tarsolite B. In addition to this amount, there were 124,225 square yards treated with Standard 30 at one and two-tenths cents per square yard."

My correspondent writes beside the words "Texas oil" the following: "This oil can be had for 1.2 cent per yard."

That Postoffice Transfer

There is considerable criticism and not a little indignation among the employees of the local postoffice over a little political trick that was recently pulled off at the Federal building. It seems that a Lowell man who has been employed in the postoffice department at Washington has been transferred to the permanent clerical force at the local postoffice taking a position for which another local young man has been substituting for some time. This substitution was in line for promotion after long and faithful work and it is said was within reaching distance of the permanent position when the man from Washington stepped in and took the plum while the other man will be obliged to continue as a substitute for several more years. Occasionally a carrier or a clerk may exchange positions with a man in another city and in this case no injustice is done, but in the case of the transfer the substitute has been getting but little work during his preliminary service and after faithfully fulfilling his duties he is suddenly notified that some one has been jumped over his head and that he must continue as a substitute.

Why Not Show Us

The "Nota Bene" man in the Courier-Citizen a few days ago remarked: "If we do spend $250,000 on the water system, let's be sure we are going to use it when it is done. A lot of costly work was done in the past two years that seems never yet to have been of any use whatever."

As there are some of us from Missouri will the "Nota Bene" man kindly point out a couple of cases of costly work done in the past two years that has been of no use.

Colonel, Why Did You

After all the hard work and planning of the hundreds of men and boys who were going to give us a "night before" celebration without expense to the city by means of huge bonfires, Col. Carmichael consulted the state police and they in turn sent back word to him to "can" the bonfires. The Fort Hill bonfire seemed to be a reasonable distance from any building until the Salem fire occurred, but now people are afraid. The State street pile is on the bank of the Concord river, though perhaps rather close to tenement property. The young men regret that the colonel did not act sooner so that their labor might be avoided. But the commissioner shoulders the responsibility. Years ago one "Bob" Adams annually built a bonfire at the corner of Bridge and First streets and annually was arrested for so doing, but there was always money galore to pay his fine when he appeared in police court, his only trouble being to get the police out of the way long enough to get the fire started. In the present case with the recent rains, the bonfires must be pretty well soaked so that there might be considerable difficulty in getting them to burn. Still, the piles are likely to be "set off" on schedule time unless guarded by the police.

The Grand Jury's Report

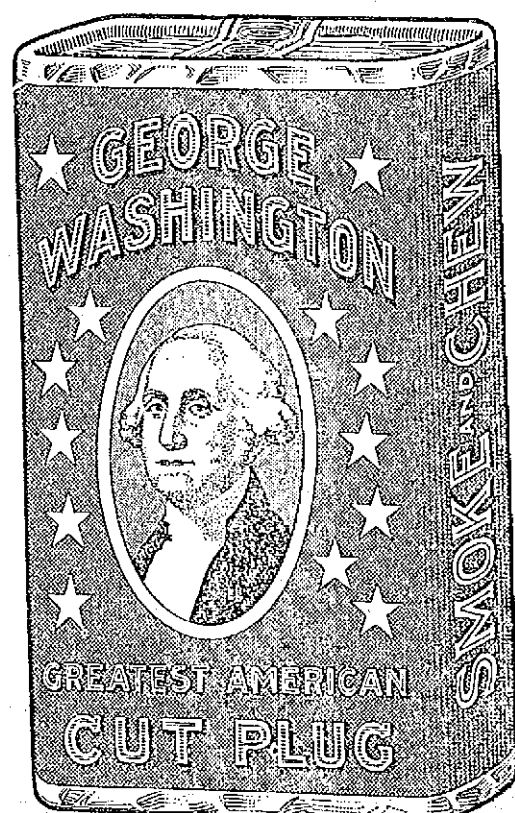

Over a year ago, former Mayor O'Donnell, in an address on the Lowell charter, before the League of American Municipalities at Buffalo, N. Y., pointed out some of the weak spots of our charter and if I remember rightly was roundly criticized therefor by the Courier-Citizen. Now the Courier-Citizen is criticizing the grand jury for not indicting certain members of the former administration, the grand jury's action simply emphasizing the fact as pointed out by the former mayor that our charter has weak spots. The grand jury finds that while certain commissioners have expended more than the total amount of their respective appropriations, it would be impossible to convict them for so doing as the charter is at present formed. The one little word "knowingly" which the committee of 60 who framed the charter, whether "knowingly" or not, inserted in the section making it a criminal offense to overrun an appropriation makes it impossible in the opinion of the grand jury to get a conviction in this particular case. The burden of proof would be on the government to show that the commissioner overran his appropriation "knowingly" with malice aforethought, as it were. Another weak point in this section comes in the opening sentence which reads: No officer of said city, except in the case of extreme emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property shall expend knowingly, in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation therefor duly made in accordance with law, etc."

That "extreme emergency" is farcical even as is the word "knowingly" and its uselessness was shown through another section when Commissioner Morse recently came to the conclusion that he needed an automobile of certain make and attacked another alleged emergency clause that permitted him to make an immediate purchase, "the preservation of the public peace, health and safety," requiring the immediate purchase of an automobile and the employment of a chauffeur to ride the commissioners to Springfield and subsequently to ride the commissioner of streets about town. The effort of Commissioner Morse to remove Superintendent of Streets Putnam demonstrates another weak spot in the charter. If a commissioner is to be held responsible for the departments under him he should have the power to choose his own subordinates from the head of the department down the line. Suppose the head of a department is unfriendly toward the commissioner over him, but has three votes in the municipal court, as the charter reads now, those three votes can hold him in office even though he may make life miserable for the man over him and who is responsible for his actions. It is understood that one of the local representatives is framing up some new legislation relative to the city charter of Lowell. On the whole, the people are right and the representative mustn't make the mistake of trying to make changes of a radical nature, but there are a few weak spots in it that should be attended to, especially the section relative to overrunning appropriations.

TRANS ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Possibility of Crossing Ocean in Thirteen Hours is Asserted—Less Than 2000 Miles

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The possibility of a transatlantic ocean flight in a heavier-than-air machine in 13 hours is pointed out in a communication to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C., from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and former president of the society.

"The distance from Newfoundland to Ireland is less than 2000 miles," says Dr. Bell. "This means that if you go at 100 miles an hour you will cross the Atlantic in 20 hours—less than a day. We have flying machines that go at a greater speed than that. We already have machines that could cross the ocean if their engines can keep going for 20 hours. Of course, these are exceptional machines; but even the ordinary machines of today make 50 miles an hour with ease.

"Now, a flying machine flies faster as you go higher up, because the rarer air offers less resistance to the motion, while the propeller gives the same push with the same power, whatever the elevation. As you get into the rarer air the propeller spins around faster. A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles in the air—and we have machines that have gone twice as high as that—will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Then at an elevation of two miles high in the air there is a constant wind blowing in the general direction of Europe having a velocity anywhere from 25 to 50 miles an hour.

"As a net result of all these things, there is little doubt that any ordinary machine that is able to support itself in the air at an elevation of two miles high will attain a speed of at least 100 miles an hour in the direction of Europe, and that means going from America to Europe in a single day. Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in 13 hours. I hardly dare say it aloud for publication. It is sufficiently startling to know that it is not only possible, but probable, that the passage may be made in a single day. But if, as I imagine, it can be done in 13 hours, you make take an early breakfast in Newfoundland and a late dinner in Ireland the same night."

MEDIATION SESSIONS END

Huerta and Rebels Must Pick New Government—Carranza Delegates Due at Torreon

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 3.—With the departure last night of Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Minister Naon of Argentina the American delegation consisting of Justice Lamar, Frederick W. Lehman and H. Percival Dodge, diplomatic secretary, the Pan-American mediation conference, convened to find a solution of the Mexican problem, formally ended its sessions here.

Minister Suarez of Chili and the Huerta delegates will leave tomorrow. When and where the next meeting will be held depends for the present upon General Carranza, the constitutionalist chief, who is now consulting his subordinate chiefs about sending delegates to a conference with the Huerta delegates for the election of a new provisional president.

Minister Naon went to Buffalo for a day of sightseeing and will arrive in Washington Saturday. There he will confer informally with Luis Cabrera and other constitutionalist agents, Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehman will talk with Secretary Bryan tomorrow and perhaps President Wilson. The Huerta delegates, after visiting friends in Buffalo tomorrow, will go to New York on Saturday to await definite word there from the constitutionalists.

In the meantime mediation has been declared in indefinite recess. Formal notification of the Huerta to Carranza to send delegates and his reply were conveyed by the mediators to the American and Huerta commissioners in an identical note today. The note sets forth that there is no further need of sessions until the constitutionalist delegates are appointed. It declares the international conflict settled and remarks: "All that is left to be done is to establish and organize a provisional government in Mexico, a patriotic work pertaining exclusively to the two Mexican delegations."

The Huerta delegates replied to this communication in two separate notes, one expressing appreciation of the efforts of the mediators in bringing about a settlement of the international conflict, and the other, addressed indirectly to the constitutionalists, declaring in polite terms sincere desire to discuss internal affairs with them. This opens the way for direct communication between the constitutionalists and delegates.

The United States is willing to withdraw its troops from Vera Cruz when a new provisional government shall have been established, on which all Mexican factions are agreed and to which formal recognition can be extended by the United States and foreign governments generally.

The protocols thus far signed represent terms of peace between the United States and the Huerta government. The Mexican faction which interrupts the informal conferences now proposed will be held responsible for grave consequences that follow. That armed intervention, American occupation and further spoliation of Mexico might ensue if the two Mexican forces do not come to an agreement is calculated to have a suppressive effect on the proceedings and the mediators are confident that some solution of the problem will arise from the new conferences.

As yet General Carranza has not said whether or not he will send delegates but the text of his note made public today reveals, in the opinion of the mediators, a sincere desire to settle the revolution by peaceful means.

REBEL-BESIEGED CAPITAL QUIET, SAYS COMMANDER

CARTER

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Commander Carter of the gunboat Casline cabled the navy department last night that he had arrived at Santo Domingo city and found that rebel-besieged capital quiet.

Capt. Eberle of the armored cruiser Washington at Cape Mayten reported that a small rebel band attacked a fort near Cape Haitien the night of June 30, but after firing a few scattering shots retreated.

His despatch said it was rumored President Zamaro's forces were due at Grande Rivier yesterday or today for action against the rebels.

SEC. DANIELS HONORS

ADMIRAL FLETCHER

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Rear Admiral Fletcher, back from Vera Cruz from a vacation before becoming commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, was the honor guest last night at a reception given by Secretary and Mrs. Daniels. Members of the cabinet and congress, officers of the army and navy and hundreds of others prominent in official and social life of the capital attended.

CRUISER SOUTH DAKOTA LEAVES FOR SAN DIEGO—TROUBLE IS FEARED

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Mazatlan, Mexico, July 2.—(By wireless to San Diego, July 3)—The cruiser South Dakota departed last night for San Diego, carrying two battalions of marines for a summer encampment at Coronado, near San Diego. The remaining battalions of marines were to leave for San Diego aboard the cruiser West Virginia today.

Word was received today that merchants at Guaymas have refused to pay a forced loan of $10,000 to officers of the federal army and it is feared that trouble may result.

SIXTH REG'T COMPANIES

TO LEAVE FOR CAMP AT LAKEVILLE ON SUNDAY MORNING NEXT

The following camp appointments have been announced in a recent general order in relation to the annual encampment of companies of the Sixth and Second regiments, which will take place next week, beginning Sunday morning at which time the local companies will leave this city by special trains for Lakeville, Mass.

Colonel Sergeant John F. Leary of Lowell, in charge of the tentage and property at headquarters.

Musician Arthur J. Lawler, Co. G, to acting chief trumpeter.

Private Herbert H. Taylor, Co. K, mounted orderly to commissioned officers.

The commissioned officers of Companies C, G and K will each detail one private to Captain Lewis G. Hutton, commissary.

Company C will detail one private to Colonel Sergeant John C. Anderson, acting stable sergeant.

The following appointments of non-commissioned officers have been announced:

John William Anderson, corporal, Company G.

Russell Stack, corporal, Company C.

High L. Wier, corporal, Company C.

TYLER KIRK WON RACE

JAMES S. HANSON'S SEAL BROWN GELDING TOOK EVENT AT JERSEY CITY IN STRAIGHT HEATS

The seal brown gelding, Tyler Kirk, owned by James S. Hanson, which caused so much favorable comment among local horsemen while in this city, showed decided class in his first work of the season at Jersey City Thursday. Tyler Kirk, by Council Chimes, took the event in straight heats, 2:27, 2:29 and 2:29.

The horse is said to have a big future by those who have seen him in his fast workouts. His stride is even and strong and Mr. Hanson has had several chances to dispose of him had he wanted to sell.

Tyler Kirk is at the stables of Dr. Brown where the local owner will probably keep him during the present racing season for conditioning. The horse was bought by Mr. Hanson in Colorado.

LOOKS LIKE ABDICATION

WIFE AND NEW RULER OF ALBANIA LEAVES DURAZZO WITH HER CHILDREN

VIENNA, July 3.—Princess William of Wied, wife of the new ruler of Albania, today left Durazzo, the capital of that country, with her children in consequence of the critical situation there. She has gone to Bucharest, Rumania.

It is generally believed here that the departure of the princess from Albania foreshadows the abdication of Prince William.

PRINCE WILLIAM AND ADVISERS DISCUSS MEXICO'S INTERNAL DISTURBANCES

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A lengthy conference to discuss Mexico's internal disturbances confronted President Wilson and his advisers today. Some time would elapse, representatives of Carranza said, before the revolutionary leader would be able to obtain a vote of his military chiefs on the proposed conference.

Primed with instructions on the American government's attitude toward all phases of the problem, John R. Silliman planned to leave today for Carranza's provisional capital. He was to help in settling the breach between Villa and Carranza and to impress upon the revolutionary leaders the need for early restoration of peace through establishment of a provisional government such as has been suggested at the Niagara mediation proceedings. Mr. Silliman was to go to Saltillo, where Carranza temporarily had set up his headquarters.

Only a few weeks ago Silliman as American vice consul at Saltillo had been in custody of the federalists, accused of having helped their enemies. It was understood that on his mission he was to go virtually as President Wilson's personal agent. The president and Silliman were classmates at Princeton.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehman, the American delegates at Niagara, were to return to Washington today and report in person to Secretary Bryan. It also was thought possible that the war minister, the president, Minister Naon of Argentina probably will reach here tomorrow and immediately get in touch with Carranza's representative.

Reassuring reports were received today from the Panuco oil district above Tampico, where disturbances had been feared. Consul Miller, who went to Tampico to investigate, said the constitutionalist garrison was sufficient to preserve order.

DR. ROMULO NAON REMAINS AT BUFFALO

BUFFALO, July 3.—Dr. Romulo Naon, minister from Argentina and one of the South American mediators in the effort to compose the Mexican situation, remained quietly at his hotel here today. Later he planned a sight-seeing tour around the city and expected to leave for Washington on an early evening train.

ROBINSON'S PAL TAKEN

FIGURED IN ROBBERY OF CHIEF SEA STORE—WANTED IN CONNECTION WITH HOLDUP

BOSTON, July 3.—A man who gave his name as John J. Robinson, and who is believed by the police to be a "pal" of Lawrence Robinson, the Michigan gunman who shot and killed Police Inspector Joseph J. Norton in the Boylston case, was arrested last night in a cafe on Columbus avenue near Dartmouth street.

Suspected of Holdup

He was wanted in connection with an assault made by three men Wednesday night on Samuel Cohen, a pawn broker, in Cohen's shop, 153 Broadway, Chelsea. It was an attempt to hold up and rob Cohen.

The police also arrested Adam Sawyer, clerk of a Columbus avenue hotel, in connection with the same affair. Both men were turned over to the Chelsea police.

BILLERICA

A safe and sane Fourth is promised in Billerica this year and what also there is in the village will probably be caused by the blowing of horns or the explosion of small fireworks. Saw the storekeepers were refused permits to sell fireworks a few years ago the Fourth has been spent in a quiet way in the town, although the youngsters always turn out in large numbers the "night before" for their usual antics. No public celebration will be held in either the Centre or the North village.

WOMEN WRECK MANSION

Militants Set Fire to and Burned Ballyimnoch, Near Holy Wood, Containing Priceless Relics

BELFAST, Ireland, July 3.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes today set fire to and burned the grand Ballyimnoch, near Holy Wood, a great residential mansion containing many priceless art treasures, all of which were destroyed. The mansion was the residence of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, who was mayor and lord mayor of Belfast for many years and who sat in parliament for a short time as member for the city of Belfast.

The suffragettes left strewn about in the vicinity the customary evidences of their presence but they themselves escaped.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN

DIED IN LONDON, ENG.

Was Prominent for Many Years as a Leader of British Politics—Wife Daughter of Late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts

LONDON, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlain, prominent for many years as a leader in British politics, died here last night.

Death came as a surprise as the condition of his health was not publicly known to be any worse than at any time in the past two or three years.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who was the daughter of the late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, secretary of war in President Cleveland's cabinet, never let her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago and she and her step-son, Austen Chamberlain, were with him when death occurred.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home on May 6 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn and appeared very emaciated and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledging their salutes.

The cause of Mr. Chamberlain's death was officially announced today to have been gradually sinking since Tuesday the members of the family had feared that his desperate condition should not become publicly known.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Third Within a Few Weeks Occurred at Danbury, Conn., Today—Tie Wedged Into Frog

DANBURY, Conn., July 3.—Another attempt at train-wrecking, the third within a few weeks, occurred today on the Central New England railroad in this city, the obstruction, a portion of a railroad tie wedged into the frog of a switch being discovered shortly after the arrival of a Federal express bound from Washington to Boston.

A freight locomotive running light into the yards struck the obstruction. Although the engine was moving slowly its pilot was twisted and broken and the ties were splintered for a distance of several hundred feet.

Both of the previous attempts at wrecking were made in a similar manner, in one a portion of a tie and in the other a piece of steel being jammed into the frog.

WIFE IS GIVEN PLACE FIRE ESCAPES LACKING

OCCUPIED BY HER HUSBAND ON THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 3.—Recognition of a woman who has the courage of her convictions, even though she is compelled to disagree with her husband on public matters, was given to Mrs. Chas. O. Selness by Mayor Harrison, when he appointed her a member of the board of education, to succeed Mr. Selness, who incurred the displeasure of the executive by voting against Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of the Chicago city schools. The appointment was sent to the city council last night, and it is understood that Mrs. Selness has agreed to accept.

ON BUILDING IN WHICH LIVES WERE LOST IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 3.—Disregard of state laws in regard to fire escapes is asserted by the authorities here to have been responsible for the loss of three lives in a lodging house fire at 1111 Elm street yesterday morning.

Mayor Charles C. Hayes inspected the burned premises today accompanied by Fire Chief Thomas W. Lane, and it was declared here that prosecutions will follow if responsibility can be fixed.

Those dead in the fire are John Reed, 35, a stable worker of Brookline, Mass.; Mederie Cronan, a wood chopper, 30, and Albert Lachance, a cigarmaker, 35, of Manchester.

Reed was fatally injured when he jumped from a third story window. He died on the way to the hospital. The other two men were suffocated in their rooms on the fourth floor of the building which was a frame structure. Several other lodgers who jumped from windows were slightly hurt.

It is asserted here by officials of the fire department that the only escape from the building was by means of a ladder fire escape which descended perpendicularly along the side of the building and stopped at the second floor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE IN SESSION

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—Following the usual early morning watch services sectional meetings of the ninth annual international convention of the Epworth league were held in three halls today. STATE POLICE OPPOSE ALL BONFIRE PERMITS

Col. Carmichael, Head of Fire Department, Says He Will Grant No Permits—Risk too Great in City Like Lowell

In all probability no permits for bonfires on the night before the Fourth will be granted by the chief of the Lowell fire department and any person who lights any of the structures which have been built in the various parts of the city to usher in the glorious holiday will be liable to arrest. Statements to that effect were made by both Chief Saunders and Col. Carmichael, commissioner of the fire department yesterday and both declared that no permits would be issued under any consideration.

The above decision was made as a result of a letter received today from the office of the district police in Boston who says that a city like Lowell faces too great a danger in allowing bonfire piles to be ignited. Therefore, it looks as if the huge stacks built by the young men in this city will have to be torn down instead of burned amid cheers of thousands of onlookers as in the past.

If the Fourth passes without a bonfire blazing at midnight this year it will be the first time in many years, as the younger element of the city has always looked forward to these events as the biggest thing on the program for the Fourth. Col. Carmichael said that as head of the department he did not think it would

ARMY OF GIRLS BUSY ON TAG DAY WORK

For Salem Relief Fund — Women Out Early at City Hall and Along Streets and Stores Tagging Everybody

Talk not of hustling till thou hast seen the tag sellers at work.

This is tag day in Lowell and of course this isn't news, because everybody knows it, yet it is necessary to mention it in order to start this story right.

Yesterday forenoon a little band of women met at city hall and formulated plans for tag day as suggested by the Salem Relief fund of 10. They didn't have much time for preparation. It was a quick call, but they were equal to the occasion, as women usually are.

Several of these women were at city hall as early as 6.30 o'clock this morning and before 9.30 o'clock 500 tags had been disposed of. This movement, of course, is for the benefit of the Salem sufferers and if you haven't been tagged it's the day's best bet that you have kept yourself in seclusion, for the energetic, sympathetic, patriotic women interested in tag day proceedings didn't let anybody get by—not if they knew it.

Mrs. John E. Graham started in at the railroad depot in Middlesex street at 5.30 o'clock this morning and before 9 o'clock she and her assistants had disposed of 500 tags. They got good prices for the tags, too, and at 9.15 o'clock Mrs. Graham was back at city hall looking for more tags.

The day is fair to prove the greatest success that Lowell has ever witnessed in any enterprise along a similar line, for everybody seems disposed to help the Salem sufferers and the women and girls engaged in the work are leaving no stone unturned to make it a success. The Tag Day committee has bought up every tag there is in Lowell and they cannot supply the demand of the tag sellers.

MISS ALICE SHEEHAN
The Girl Who Tagged The Sun Office

The scene at city hall this morning was one of great activity. The tag sellers met in the mayor's reception room, some of them, as heretofore stated, arriving there as early as 6.30 o'clock. The boxes and tags were all in readiness for them, but there were no strings to the tags and the women had to do their own stringing. This meant the use of a big darning needle and a mile and a half or so of twine, but that didn't delay proceedings the least little bit. The women went to the work with a will and some of them were on the street, selling tags, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Among the very first in the street were the Misses Vera and Lucinda Groves. They succeeded in getting tags last evening and they sold $3 worth before reaching the hall at 8 o'clock. The list of tag-sellers is as follows:

Miss Mabel Cassidy, Miss Anna McEneaney, Miss Gladys McElroy, Miss V. Groves, Miss Emma Groves, Mrs. Blanche Jaffey, Mrs. Alice Goodwin, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Miss G. E. Jantzen, Miss M. E. O'Neil, Miss Alice McHugh, Miss Rose Geary, Miss Alice Masterson, Miss Ida J. Flint, Miss Isabel M. Ellis, Mrs. Horace Lang, Mrs. Patrick, Mrs. S. W. Davis, Mrs. Huntley, Miss Jennie Brandt, Mrs. Carl D. Burt, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Anna McCarron, Miss Alice Besse, Miss Nellie Hobson, Miss Ruth Sawyer, Miss Adelaide Walsh, Miss Margaret Pierce, Miss Julia Slattery, Miss Loretta Whiteley, Miss Mary Rogers, Miss Maude Greene, Miss L. O'Sullivan, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. John E. Graham.

The tag-sellers were hawking for more tags, but no tags were given them, because the committee had exhausted the local supply. Several printers were getting out rush orders and it cannot be denied that a great deal of valuable time was lost because of a scarcity of tags. Mrs. Graham working at the depot, sold out of tags at 10 o'clock and was unable to obtain any more until about the noon hour. The women were not to blame. In fact nobody was to blame because nobody expected such big success. Two collectors arrived at the hall early with their boxes "filled to the brim".

We are not mentioning any names because the general chairman, Miss Besse, has asked us not to. The fact remains, however, that the first hot opened contained $39.40, and the second $18.81. If that isn't going some, we'll eat the tags.

WATER IS PLENTIFUL

But Pipes are Rusty and Corroded, Interfering With Supply, Says Expert Bowers in Report

Former City Engineer George Bowers has submitted his report to Col. Carmichael, as the result of his labors as an expert engineer. The report, which is in printed form, bears the following rather imposing title: "Report of George Bowers, M. Am. Soc. C. E. on the improvement of the water supply of the City of Lowell," and reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., June 12, 1914.
Col. James H. Carmichael, Com. of Water Works and Fire Protection, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir—Acting on your request that I submit to you a report on what improvements I consider necessary in the present water supply to make it satisfactory in quality, also give you an estimate as to the daily draft of water that may be reasonably estimated as obtainable from the boulevard system, based on such developments of the present and adjacent areas as is economically possible, also the amount of water that can be counted on from the present boulevard system, and suggesting the plan for the development of the well system so that the people of the city would be sure of a sufficient supply of good water for a reasonable time to come, I would report as follows:

Boulevard Wells
I have examined the boulevard system and measured the elevation of water in the test wells and find the conditions most favorable for a continued supply of water. At the "upper plant," so called, I examined the pipe and strainers as they were pulled up, and found the pipe badly rusted, the strainers nearly filled with rust, and badly corroded, and the connecting pipes in the same poor condition. This would account in a great degree for the small amount of water that has been pumped from these wells during the past few years. In regard to the relocated wells here, I have measured the amount of water and tested its quality and find it practically the same as the first wells driven. The upper boulevard plant was constructed in 1910 and 1911. It contained 130 wells and yielded nearly 6,000,000 gallons per day of excellent water. When the work which is now being done is finished, I see no reason why it should not yield the same amount as formerly. When to this amount is added the water from 17 wells located east of the boulevard, and between the upper and lower stations you must have at the least 6,000,000 gallons per day of good water that needs no treatment.

Water to Be Treated
The wells located east of the lower pumping station and those north of the boulevard, should together yield from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 gallons per day of water that would probably require treatment. If more water is needed, it is easily obtainable here.

Adjacent Areas
I have carefully inspected the land on the northerly side of the boulevard, between the well plant and the entrance to Tyngs Island. The only location that looked favorable for obtaining well water was on the land lying just west of the present plant and owned by the heirs of Phineas Whiting and by Samuel E. R. Adams. Here a line of ten test wells, 96 feet apart, was washed down by employees of the water department in a search for water bearing material. Hard pan and rock were encountered at depths varying from 8 to 22 feet below the surface. We were obliged to abandon these wells, as the men had no tools suitable for driving in hard material and if water could be obtained here, it would be a very expensive place for which to sink wells.

Cook Wells
I would recommend that the water of the Cook wells be treated for carbonic acid gas, also that the work of lowering the suction mains and pumps begun several years ago, be finished, thus greatly increasing the yield of water at these wells. This plant can be extended but little up or down the river meadow brook, as the ground water does not apparently follow the low land of the valley of the brook.

Supply of Water
The increased yield at the Cook wells, added to the water from the boulevard wells, if these wells are properly cared for, should give the city of Lowell an adequate supply of good water for many years to come.

In conclusion I would call your attention to my letter of April 7 in which I urged the exclusive use of brass screens and of cement lined connections between the wells and suction pipes.

Respectfully,
George Bowers.

Having had the kind relief as to the condition of the water supply the public now awaits with breathless interest the presentation of Mr. Bowers' bill for his services as expert.

FIRE AT EXETER, N. H.
MAIN BUILDING OF PHILLIPS-BAXTER ACADEMY RUINED—LOSS $100,000
EXETER, N. H., July 2.—An investigation failed to determine the cause of the fire that ruined the main building of Phillips-Baxter academy early today. A survey of the building and its contents indicated that the loss would be about $100,000, two-thirds of which was covered by insurance. Many valuable portraits were destroyed.

IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

MAN WHO DREW A REVOLVER IN A SALOON BRAWL, WAS LATER ARRESTED

A man who registered at the police station as Angelo Panallir, created considerable excitement in a Middlesex street saloon last evening when, during the heat of an argument, he produced a 32 calibre revolver and held his companions at bay until put under control by other men who were in the place at the time. Patrolmen Drowett and Cullen were summoned to the scene of action and they brought their man to the station where he was booked on a charge of drunkenness.

It is alleged that the defendant and a few fellow countrymen were drinking in the saloon and when it came Panallir's turn to buy the drinks he refused and resented being asked to do such a thing. When his companions demanded that he pay or stop drinking, it is claimed, he flourished the revolver and pointed it toward the other men, but was overcome by bystanders before he had an opportunity to pull the trigger.

Patrolman Drowett was sent for and when he reached the place the man was overpowered by several men who were standing nearby at the time as he immediately put the handcuffs on him and sent for the patrol wagon. At this point Patrolman Cullen put in an appearance and assisted in taking the man to the police box.

Carrying a loaded pistol without a permit and drunkenness were the charges preferred against Panallir when arraigned in court this forenoon. He pleaded guilty through his counsel, who told the court that the defendant had a family in this city depending upon him for support.

A man who was in the saloon at the time the trouble broke out, drew the revolver and pointed it at him while they were standing beside the bar. He also stated that the prisoner carried a knife and inflicted a slight scar on the side of his face during the scuffle. He could give no positive fact and said he had only known him a short time.

Patrolman Drowett presented the revolver, which was fully loaded, and an ugly looking knife with a sharp point. The court imposed a fine of $50 on the charge of carrying a pistol and placed the drunkenness matter on file.

Disposing of Arch

Francis X. Archambault, the young man who was arrested in Lawrence on Wednesday while attempting to dispose of a horse and buggy, which he hired from Frank Dimodana of this city, appeared on continuance today and entered a plea of guilty. His attorney, George F. Toye, asked the court that the imposing of the sentence be suspended until Monday and the request was granted.

Ordered From City

Two young men, who claim to be employed on a farm in Bedford, blew into the city early last evening for the purpose of buying some clothes for the Fourth but before they had gotten down to the end of Middlesex street they indulged in too many highballs and were arrested about 2.30 o'clock by Patrolman Cullen while hitting up pedestrians for spare cash. They pleaded guilty to drunkenness in court today and after telling a long story were given two hours in which to leave the city's dust behind their heels.

The pair answered to the names of Thomas J. Burns and John Kelley. Patrolman Cullen testified that he received several complaints about them soliciting money from people walking up and down Middlesex street and when he approached them they were talking to a group of about a half-dozen. Both men claimed Spring street, East Cambridge, as their home when questioned by the court, but said that they had been working on a Bedford farm for several weeks. They had about $10 when arrested and did not remember asking anybody for more. Judge Emmet placed the cases on file on condition that they like to foreign beings immediately and both promised faithfully that they would do so.

George B. Reynolds and John Floris slept together in a Bridge street lodging house last night and when the latter awoke this morning he missed his pocketbook containing a small sum of money. As a result Reynolds was arraigned in court charged with the larceny of $1.02 and the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Reynolds claimed that he is a Salem N. H. blacksmith and had the money with him when he came to this city, but the court records showed that he was arrested the day before for drunkenness and at that time had no money. His Honor ordered the case continued until Monday for further consideration.

Three second-offenders were fined $5 each and one other was given a suspended sentence of five months in the Lowell jail. Nine first offenders were released by the probation officer.

Yesterday afternoon capases were issued for the arrests of nine men who have failed to pay fines imposed by the court. The total amount of the fines amounts to over $100.

THREE KILLED IN TENEMENT FIRE

Woman and Her Daughter Burned to Death in New York Tenement House Fire and Man Who Was Injured Died in Hospital—Policeman Rescued Six by Swinging Them Across 5 ft. Chasm

NEW YORK, July 3.—Mrs. Hannah Nickoli, 45, and her daughter Sarah, 17, were burned to death and four other persons were seriously injured in a fire early today in the five-story tenement at number 1 East 112th street. The police and firemen rescued a score of women and children who rushed to windows in a panic following the first alarm. The property loss was small. Jacob Finklestein, one of the injured, died in the hospital, bringing the death list up to three. Otto Schasberger, a policeman, singlehanded, saved a family of six from death by swinging them across a five foot chasm between buildings.

Bonfires May Burn Without Permits — Concerts Arranged for Accompaniments

In spite of the fact that no formal permits are granted, it is quite probable that the bonfires built on the Perry street grounds and at State street will go up on schedule time. The young men who built the piles are divided in their opinions as to what should be done; but the leaders refuse to be guardians for the bonfires and they think that where firecrackers are lying thick and fast the bonfires will be in great danger of ignition at the witching hour of midnight.

The concerts arranged will start at 10.30, Tabor's band at Rogers street, near Perry, and the Lowell National at State street. It is quite probable that for a few hours after midnight there will be no need of electric lights at either place.

Col. Carmichael Talks
A representative of The Sun talked with Col. Carmichael and Chief Sanders of the fire department, this morning, in reference to the bonfires prepared for tonight.

"Would it not be just as well to have these bonfires burned up under the supervision of firemen at the time appointed?" the colonel was asked.

"While I would like to accommodate the young men who are taking such an interest in these bonfires, I cannot see how I can legally grant the permit for any of the bonfires."

"In the first place," continued the colonel, "the chief of the district police has sent out a letter forbidding the bonfires and furthermore, there is remonstrance to the bonfires at Fort Hill and State street, the claim being made that the bridge at State street would be endangered. Under the circumstances I cannot take the responsibility of giving official sanction to the bonfires. I have been informed that they will be lighted anyway and in such case the responsibility will be on those who participate in the affair."

"As for sparing firemen to attend the bonfires for several hours, I could not do that without crippling the department. Every man will be required to be at his post ready for instant response all during the night and tomorrow."

"Our first duty is to protect property against fire and I do not think we would be doing our duty if we granted permits for the bonfires."

"If we sanctioned one, we should have to sanction all, and that," said the colonel, "is more than I can do in justice to myself or the citizens of Lowell."

"At the same time I sympathize with the young men who built the piles, but in such cases they should ascertain whether they can get a permit before building the bonfires."

FIRST JULY 4TH VICTIM
CHICAGO, July 3.—John Sullivan, 13, became Chicago's first Fourth of July victim today when he died of burns caused by exploding fireworks.

Young Sullivan and three companions, who were also severely injured, unearthed the explosives from a rubbish pile at the abandoned plant of a fireworks company which went out of business with the success of the same South movement. The boys found their lives on a wagon and then climbed on themselves. What caused the explosion has not been ascertained.

HERE'S A GENIUS

Trenton Man Electrodes Flies Instead of Swatting Them—Invented Electrical Trap for Purpose

TRENTON, July 3.—Grawling tired of swatting flies, John Gallagher, a Trenton fireman, decided to make easier his part in fly extermination, so he invented a trap, which has proved a wonder.

The remarkable feature of the trap is that it dispenses of flies by electrocution. It is made of wire and closely resembles the old fashioned cone trap. The device is charged with electricity, and as fast as the flies alight upon it they are electrocuted.

Lowell Defeated Fitchburg in League's Only Contest Yesterday

In spite of the threatening weather yesterday, which turned into a fine day as the sun came out, the game between Lowell and Fitchburg was played. Lowell won by a score of 4-0.

Sam Sherk was in the points for Lowell and he worked in the same way as he did in the first game. He was a scratch, however, but he was not a scratch in the points.

Lowell scored all four runs in the third inning. Collins was hit freely in this session and an error by Sweett helped things along. Not a man reached third base for Fitchburg.

Matthews, Dukette and Sherk did Lowell's feature batting, each of them getting in two safe blows. The local team played errorless ball. The score:

DAY BY DAY WITH THE DEYS

Now Let Us Think This Over

By CLARE VICTOR DWIGGINS

NEW ENGLAND FAIRS

Many Fairs and Racing Meets to be Held in Coming Fall—Good List Offered for Sportsmen

With a few dates yet to be fixed and a few reports missing, all indications point toward a record breaking number of agricultural fairs and light harness horse racing meetings in New England during the 1914 season. A list of dates, compiled by the Fitchburg Sentinel for the New England Newspaper Alliance, an organization of 16 of New England's leading newspapers, and of which The Sun is a member, shows that there will be 122 fairs and race meetings during the year in the six New England states.

The figures available at the present time show that Massachusetts again leads with 47, not including two race meetings already held. Maine is second with 33, Connecticut is third with 18; Vermont has 16; Rhode Island and New Hampshire four each.

Three race meetings—the first in June for a decade in the east—have already been held in New England, one at Dover, N. H., another at Bangor, Me., and the third, that ending today at Kenosha park, Haverhill, where the second meeting in the new Bay State short ship circuit was held.

Matinee and amateur racing are not included in the appended list, which is intended to include all the fairs, cattle shows, agricultural exhibits and harness racing for purges, these meetings, with one exception—Rockingham park, Salem, N. H.—being held over half-mile tracks.

The Alliance newspapers will publish from time to time revised lists of fair dates, believing such information to be of wide interest and valuable for reference. To assist in making the list the most complete and accurate published, the cooperation of readers of The Sun is invited by calling to the attention of the editorial department any errors or omissions in the appended list or any additions of dates which have been definitely fixed and not included in the list.

Following are the dates (*) indicating fairs and the (†) designating race meetings which are held without the racing adjunct:

- Massachusetts
- July 3-4—Worcester.
 - July 4—Ludlow.
 - July 5-11—South Framingham.
 - July 13-15—Springfield.
 - July 22-23—Lenox.
 - July 23-24—Westfield.
 - July 25-26—Northampton.
 - Aug. 12-13—Taunton.
 - Aug. 26-27—Nantucket.
 - Aug. 28-29—Marblehead.
 - Sept. 1-4—Barnstable.
 - Sept. 1-4—Falmouth.
 - Sept. 4-7—North Adams.
 - Sept. 7-8—Albion.

ANKLE IN PIMPLES ITCHED FEARFULLY

Suffered with Burning and Itching. Swollen Badly. Nothing Helped Until Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Healed Nicely.

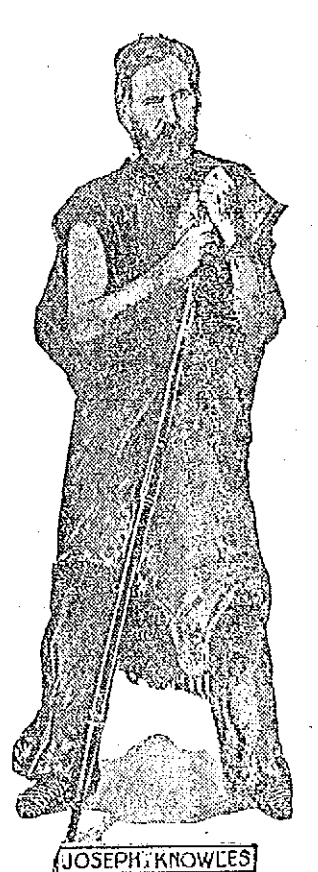

Washington, Mo.—"I was taken with a burning and itching on my ankle and suffered one summer with it. My ankle was swollen badly. It was broken out in pimples and itched fearfully and I used to get up nights and scratch it. "I would bathe my ankle in salt and water, also soda and rubbed it in flour trying to cool the burning feeling. I had a liquid that would relieve me some at times but later it would break out again. I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment which did me lots of good and I then used a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment, washing with the Cuticura Soap every time the itching began and in a few weeks it was healed nicely." (Signed) Mrs. Robert Saksforth, Mar. 6, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail

Are your little ones suffering from itching, burning eczema, or other torturing, disfiguring skin troubles? Are you, yourself, worn out with long, sleepless nights and ceaseless anxiety in caring for them? Then you should know that a warm bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment will in most cases bring immediate relief, the little sufferers will sleep, will eat, and be happy and contented. Successful even when all else has failed. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 25¢ Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

"WILD MAN" KNOWLES

IS GOING TO REPEAT HIS PRIMITIVE MAN STUNT—OFFERS $500 IF PHOTOGRAPHED

Joseph Knowles, who last year went into the Maine woods without clothing and came out in two months with some which he made himself, as told by him in his book, left Chicago on his way to the Sierra Nevada mountains in California. He will seek to repeat his demonstration of living on food obtained without aid of other persons or weapons. This time he is so sure that nobody will see him while he is in seclusion that he will offer $500 reward if he is photographed.

ON HOME RULE BILL

THE PEERS TRY TO REACH A SETTLEMENT—WILL PASS AMENDING BILL

LONDON, July 3.—The debate in the house of lords yesterday on the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill was characterized by general recognition on the part of the unionist peers that some means of settlement must be found and that the amending bill offered the only chance for accomplishing this.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, had already announced that it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which threatened and that therefore the unionists would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage.

WOMAN KILLED HERSELF

SWANSPOTT, July 3.—Eluding relatives who had constantly watched her since the death of her two children last spring, Mrs. Harriett M. Russ shot herself through the right temple with a revolver yesterday, dying almost instantly. Her two young children were choked to death when they swallowed marbles, and she had been despondent since that time.

AUSTRIA BALKED PLAN

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS, AMERICAN MINISTER TO GREECE, ISSUES STATEMENT

ATHENS, July 3.—George Fred Williams, the American minister to Greece, who recently made public a report of his investigations in Albania, in which he denounced the international commission of control and declared that the present regime in Albania was impracticable, issued a new statement last night, justifying his former statement, and emphasizing the danger menacing Europe through the rapid advance of the Albanian rebels.

Mr. Williams prefaces his new statement by the declaration that it is made without any preliminary understanding with the Epirote insurgent leader, Zogoraphos, or the Greek government, and adds: "Although my first statement is criticized, as throwing too great a responsibility on Prince William of Wied, I contend the following statements, on which the accusations were based, cannot be denied by Prince William. Prince William (the Dutch commander), killed in an insurgent attack on Durazzo, appointed by Prince William commissary general at Argencastro and Koritza, arranged with Zogoraphos conditions of conciliation. Prince William of Wied now directed the political affairs of Albania without regard to the international commission. Col. Thomson's return the Albanian ministry rejected the terms he had arranged, and Essad Pasha demanded 25,000 men for the purpose of undertaking the campaign against the Epirote. Col. Thomson expressed this, meaning that such a campaign would mean bloodshed and provoke religious hatred that would last many years. "Essad Pasha's plan was dropped, but the prince recalled Col. Thomson. Prince William of Wied is a weak character and the powers he nominated him must be held responsible for his actions."

Mr. Williams adds that in the face of a serious situation—Albania menaced from the north by the Mussulman insurgents and from the south by the Epirote—he counseled the leading men of that region to arrange an understanding with Zogoraphos and proclaim their independence, which, he says, would have been realized except that the arrival of the Austrian warships and a German delegate to the international commission stopped the negotiations.

He emphasizes the danger of the situation created by the parallel advance of Epirote and Mussulman and fears that the powers will not be able to prevent the outbreak of a religious war. He contends that it is Europe's duty to dispatch troops to defend Epirote and repeats his assertion that "Albania is fitted for self government if it can be disbarred of criminal foreign influences at work in Durazzo."

LEGAL NOTICES

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Middlesex:

Respectfully libels and represents James Roy, of Lowell, in said County, that he was lawfully married to Josephine Roy, now of parts unknown, at Montreal, P. Q., Dominion of Canada, on the fifteenth day of May, A. D. 1902, and thereafter his wife and she, as Josephine Roy, lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit, at New Bedford, Bristol County, that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations, but the said Josephine Roy, being wholly regardless of the same, at said New Bedford, on the twentieth day of January, 1905, utterly deserted your libellant, the said desertion continuing to the date of this libel, being more than three consecutive years.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Josephine Roy.

Dated this sixteenth day of June, A. D. 1914.

JAMES ROY.

Senate Passes Fisher-Ellis Railroad Bill After Strong Defence by Senator Fisher

BOSTON, July 3.—The senate, after a long debate, yesterday passed by a vote of 37 to 2, the Fisher-Ellis bill, which authorizes the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to dispose of its stock in the Boston Railroad Holding company and also authorizes the holding company to sell the Boston & Maine stock and securities now owned by the holding company. The bill was put through without amendment in the form in which it passed the house.

The senate had two sessions yesterday, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. The debate on the railroad bill began at the morning session, when the question came on ordering the bill to a third reading, and was continued in the afternoon. Pres. Coolidge left the chair and took the floor to speak in behalf of an amendment proposed by him to put the bill back into the form in which it was originally agreed to by the New Haven people.

Pres. Coolidge's Argument
Pres. Coolidge, speaking for his amendment to restore the bill to its original form, without the "string" reserving for the state the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock from any holder, said:

"The New Haven has the right to reject this bill. It was the money of that corporation which bought the Boston & Maine stock now owned by the holding company, and this legislature cannot compel the New Haven to accept for that stock what it deems to be an unfair price, or to sell it under unfair conditions.

"If we pass this act as it is now drawn the New Haven will refuse to accept it, and the entire agreement made in Washington will be overthrown. Therefore, we will accomplish nothing in that direction, but will bring on litigation and trouble to everybody concerned.

"I offer my amendment to the bill in order to bring it back to its original shape, in which it will be acceptable to the railroad. Then the agreement will be in force and the railroad situation will be cleared up."

Fisher Explains the "String"
Sen. Fisher of Westford, whose name is one of those attached to the bill as it passed the house, began his argument in favor of the bill at the morning session of the senate and continued well into the afternoon session. He said:

"The senator who has just taken his seat has offered us the Moorfield Storey bill, the very bill that was referred to our committee on railroads in the first instance, the one which the committee would not approve.

"Why did we put the 'string' in the bill? Some good lawyers of Massachusetts say that the commonwealth has the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock no matter where it may be sold, whether in California or Mexico. The 'string' in this bill merely recognizes the right of Massachusetts to protect herself. But we don't put that 'string' in the bill to have the commonwealth of Massachusetts buy that stock; we put it in that bill so that whoever buys that stock buys it with the knowledge that the commonwealth of Massachusetts has the right to step in and take that stock, buy it back.

Purpose to Protect Investor
"Adopt the amendment of our honored president and that stock can be sold in blocks tomorrow into foreign hands. The 'string' on that stock is going to bring about the sale of these shares in small blocks to the individual investor and is a protection to the small purchaser, not the speculator, if the 'string' depreciates values, it depreciates them only to speculators and not to legitimate investors.

"The question of the acceptance of this act by the New Haven railroad is not before us and it will not be before us until this bill is enacted. The New Haven railroad can accept this act. Let that company take the responsibility of not accepting it and going into the courts. If it wants to do so.

"Two of the leading railroad lawyers of the commonwealth, one of them an ex-chairman of the railroad commission, have said to me: 'The legislature is absolutely right—keep your 'string' bill.' The railroad commissioners, the governor and the house of representatives, all are agreed on the necessity for this legislation.

"The very fact that the New Haven objects to the 'string' is our reason why it should be kept in this bill. Protect our interests. Conserve the rights of the commonwealth, and do not rush headlong into legislation because of a threat of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad."

The House
The legislature will make an effort to bring this year's session to a close today. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the possibility of prorogation, but hopes of its accomplishment are freely expressed.

The house completed yesterday all the business on its calendar up to the hour of adjournment but has plenty of work for today.

The bill providing "That it shall not be unlawful to operate an automobile on Sunday" was passed to be engrossed after considerable debate.

Mr. Beck charged the house with inconsistency in rejecting a bill to allow a man to work in his household garden on Sunday and then passing the Sunday auto bill.

Mr. Twombly offered an amendment to extend the provisions of the Sunday auto bill so that it might include Sunday baseball, but the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Washburn opposed the bill, saying that if legislation was going through giving more laxity to the Sunday laws, it should not be in favor of the men high in Bradstreet's, when the ordinary citizen was denied additional privilege.

Mr. Haines said that certain men have been prevented from operating auto lines on Sunday because competing street railway lines dug up an old law that everybody had forgotten. "Five men are under indictment and we should not let them suffer for committing no crime except driving an auto," declared Mr. Haines.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by a voice vote.

Mr. Tufts sought to have killed in the enactment stage the bill providing for a license fee of $100,000 a year for the use of trading stamps. Messrs. Harrington of Fall River, Sheehan and Cargill of Fall River, the bill was enacted. By a voice vote it was enacted.

Mr. Washburn made an unsuccessful effort to have reconsidered the vote whereby the house passed the bill providing for reorganization of the state board of insanity. By a rising vote, 43 to 69, reconsideration was refused.

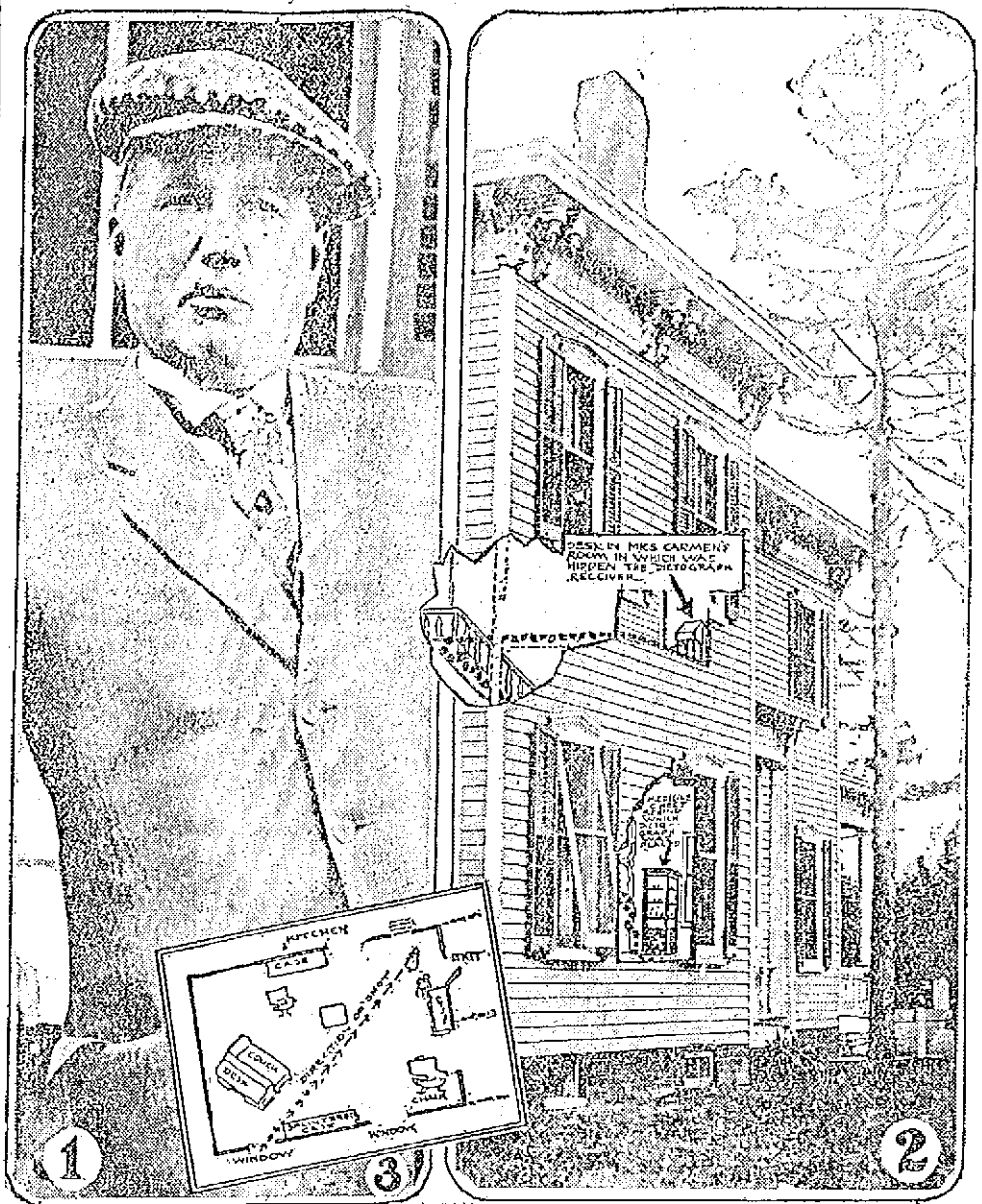

The house rejected the bill providing for an appropriation of $50,000 for the improvement of Lake Quannawhitt.

Reconsideration was refused of the vote whereby the house rejected the bill transferring jurisdiction of telephone and telegraph companies from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commissioners.

The resolve providing for an investigation by the public service commission of the subject of street railway and street car service in the Metropolitan district was engrossed without debate.

SENSATIONAL MURDER MYSTERY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE REVEALS WIFE'S JEALOUS USE OF THE DICTOGRAPH

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 3.—The murder mystery in a doctor's office in this little Long Island town has turned out to be one of the country's latest sensational cases. Mrs. William D. Bailey, a wealthy resident of fashionable Hempstead, where she lived in comfort and happiness with her husband and two children, was shot to death in the private consulting room of Dr. Edwin Carman, a rich and prominent physician. It was said that she was a stranger to him and had gone to consult him about her health without her husband's knowledge. She was killed by a bullet that apparently was fired through the window of the office. Dr. Carman himself would have been shot, he says, if he had not dodged in time. He says he believes the shot was meant for him. It quickly developed that Mrs. Carman, who had become suspicious of her husband, had had a dictograph secretly installed in his office, running to her room upstairs, so that she could sit there and hear all that was going on in the consulting room when her husband had woman patients. She was jealous of him. She denied that she knew anything of the shooting, but acknowledged that she secretly ripped out the dictograph apparatus after the murder and hid it in the attic because she was afraid it would reveal her suspicions of her husband.

SUN FASHION HINTS

Plated skirts and plated tunics are to be a la mode in the fall. Plats are seen in many smart models, a use of them shown on the gabardine gown pictured here being one that may commend itself to the woman who has an old gown with straight skirt. This long plated tunic may be adjusted over it, the wide satin girdle being added as a finishing touch. Large fancy buttons adorn the sleeves and the front of the bodice.

WIFE QUITS HUSBAND SCHOONER ABANDONED

MRS. PARLOW, 23, GIVES BACK JEWELRY TAKEN AND LEAVES HER HUSBAND

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 3.—Mrs. Georgiana Parlow, aged 23, wife of Cornelius Parlow, 30 years her senior, who ran away from her home last week, taking jewelry and money to the value of $100, claimed by her husband, was not arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. She and her brother, Bert Shaddock, were arrested in North Reading yesterday and brought to this city. The charge against the young wife was not pressed after she had surrendered the jewelry.

Mrs. Parlow, however, refused to live again with her husband, and she and her brother left on the early evening train for Massachusetts.

CARBONOL For Grimy Hands

When you do any kind of greasy work, the grease gets into the pores of the skin and soap and water are powerless to remove it. Put a little Carbonol into the basin and see the difference it makes!

Half the dirt in the world is greasy dirt, and that is why Carbonol, which dissolves grease, is so useful in almost any kind of cleaning.

Use it to take away stains on clothing and carpets. Put a little in the water used in house-cleaning and it will make the dirt and grime vanish like magic.

THE SPELLBINDER

Speaking of private secretaries and other luxurious jobs that "are not consistent with good, economic and reform policies," Mayor Murphy has his private secretary and Commissioner Brown, not to be outdone, has a private secretary in the person of John C. King, and a private coachman in the person of George C. Evans, while Commissioner Morse, now enjoys the services of a private chauffeur, who like the others is not working for his health. While certain officials try to convince their readers that last year's government is responsible for the increase in the tax-rate, as a matter of fact last year's administration had nothing to do with it, while these extra positions among other things will be found to be helping some in the boost of the tax-rate for 1914.

The Springfield Junket

While they haven't been saying much about it some of the commissioners are rather raw over the manner in which Mayor Murphy put it over them on that Springfield junket. His Honor had agreed to go along with the bunch and it was said had made all preliminary arrangements. Then came the newspaper criticism and His Honor decided to remain away, improving his time by trying a case, which while the decision went adversely, was better than junketing.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

at Springfield. The Citizen, it will be recalled, lauded His Honor for remaining in Lowell and earning the $7 per day which the city pays him, by trying a private case that took up the entire day and when the other members read the pretty things the papers had said about the mayor for not accompanying them they came to the conclusion that the mayor put something over on them.

How Did "Red" Vote

Of course you recall the visit of Detective Burns to the board of trade banquet when the famous detective took occasion eloquently to laud Superintendent Welch to his face as one of the greatest police heads the country has ever known, subsequently saying the same thing about the police heads of all the cities in which he spoke? At the recent convention of chiefs of police held at Grand Rapids, Mich., at which Supt. Welch was in attendance, the name of Detective Burns was proposed for honorary membership and was thrown down with a resounding slam. As Al Winn used to say to his ball players when things were breaking bad: "It is not who won the battle, but how did you fight?" Ergo, whether or not the famous detective was "run down" by the country's chiefs of police, it is how did Redmond Welch vote on the question. After the line lot of bouquets that Detective Burns handed the local superintendent of police in the presence of the city's substantial citizens one would expect in the reports of the Grand Rapids convention to read of Lowell's chief using his eloquence in behalf of Burns, but the papers contained no such information.

Police Station Crowded

While we have it from Supt. Welch, since his return from Grand Rapids, that Lowell is particularly free from crime, it was necessary Saturday night and Sunday to "double-up" at the police station by reason of the fact that there were not enough cells to accommodate all who were taken in. During the past campaign the fact that there were more prisoners than cells in the police station at one time, would call forth hot criticism from the opposition press. The fact that a 17-year-old boy was arrested for drunkenness recently and no apparent effort was made to ascertain where he obtained his liquor would have called forth violent criticisms from press and public, but now nothing is said. Evidence in the cases of the houses of ill-fame that have been taken to court recently showed that they all started in Lowell since the first of the year, but that fact attracted no comment as the "Big Chief" says: "Lowell is particularly free from crime." Conditions in Lowell are no better, if not worse than they ever were, but they are being more successfully hidden from the public.

But Pa had nothing on his enterprising grandson, Victor, for Victor is there with the glad-hand for all comers, and can say "Conashtant," "Comment ca va" or just plain "How be yer" with equal eloquence and sincerity. By the time that Vic gets ready to run for senator he will have become proficient in the language of ward 2 as she spoke today, and will be there with the "chievins" which, phonetically spelled, is landing the "how-do-you-do" in modern Greek.

Speaking of Road Oil

A correspondent who evidently is interested in oil sends me a marked copy of the annual report of the superintendent of streets of the city of Cambridge for 1913, with a few personal observations written in lurid red pencil on the cover of the report. The portion marked reads as follows:

"Several different kinds of road oil were used during the season. We applied ourselves, 115,885 gallons of Headley 22, Tascoll, Standard 40, Dustoline, Indian Asphalt oil, Asphaltol, Texas oil and Tarris B. In addition to this amount there were 124,825 square yards treated with Standard 30 at one and two-tenths cents per square yard."

My correspondent writes beside the words "Texas oil," the following: "This oil can be laid for 1.2 cent per yard."

That Postoffice Transfer

There is considerable criticism and not a little indignation among the employees of the local postoffice over a little political trick that was recently pulled off at the federal building. It seems that a Lowell man who has been employed in the postoffice department at Washington has been transferred to the permanent clerical force at the local postoffice taking a position for which another local young man has been bidding for some time. This substitution was in line for promotion after long and faithful work and it is said was within reaching distance of the permanent position when the man from Washington stepped in and took the plum while the other man will be obliged to continue as a substitute for several more years. Occasionally a carrier or a clerk may exclaim position with me in another city and in this case no injustice is done, but in the case of the transfer the substitute has been getting but little work during his preliminary service and after faithfully fulfilling his duties he is suddenly notified that some one has been jumped over his head and that he must continue as a substitute.

Why Not Show Us

The "Nota Bene" man in the Courier-Citizen a few days ago remarked: "If we do spend $250,000 on the water system, let's be sure we are going to use it when it is done. A lot of costly work was done in the past two years that seems never yet to have been of any use whatever."

As there are some of us from Missouri with the "Nota Bene" man kindly point out a couple of cases of costly work done in the past two years that has been of no use.

Colonel, Why Did You?

After all the hard work and planning of the hundreds of men and boys who were going to give us a "night before" celebration without expense to the city by means of huge bonfires, Col. Carmichael consulted the state police and they in turn sent back word to him to "man" the bonfires. The Fort Hill bonfire seemed to be a reasonable distance from any building until the Salem fire occurred, but now people are afraid. The State street pile is on the bank of the Concord river, though perhaps rather close to tenement property. The young men regret that the colonel did not act sooner so that their labor might be avoided. But the commissioner shoulders the responsibility. Years ago one "Bob" Adams annually built a bonfire at the corner of Bridge and First streets and annually was arrested for so doing, but there was always money galore to pay his fine when he appeared in police court, his only trouble being to get the police out of the way long enough to get the fire started. In the present case with the recent rains, the bonfires must be pretty well soaked so that there might be considerable difficulty in getting them to burn. Still, the piles are likely to be "set off" on schedule time unless guarded by the police.

The Grand Jury's Report

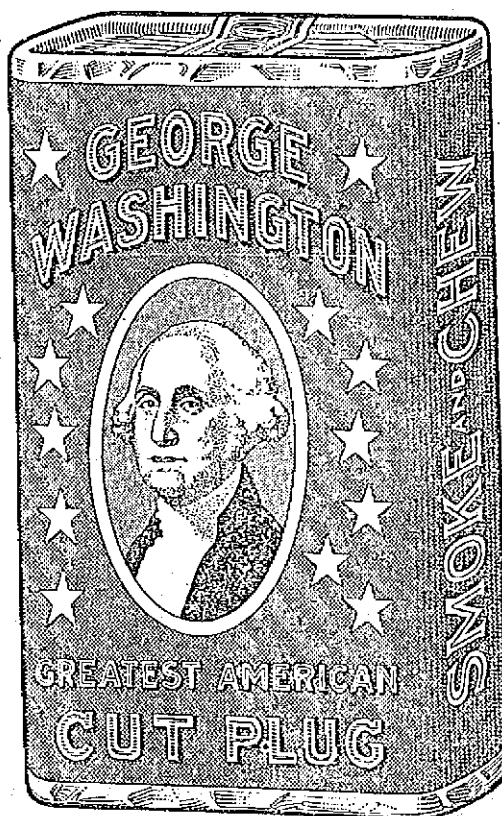

Over a year ago, former Mayor O'Donnell, in an address on the Lowell charter, before the League of American Municipalities at Buffalo, N. Y., pointed out some of the weak spots of our charter and if I remember rightly was roundly criticized therefor by the Courier-Citizen. Now the Grand Jury is criticizing the grand jury for not indicting certain members of the former administration, the grand jury's action simply emphasizing the fact pointed out by the former mayor that our charter has weak spots. The grand jury finds that while certain commissioners have expended more than the total amount of their respective appropriations, it would be impossible to convict them for so doing as the charter is at present framed. The one little word "knowingly" which the committee of 60 who framed the charter, whether "knowingly" or not, inserted in the section making it a criminal offense to overrun an appropriation makes it impossible in the opinion of the grand jury to get a conviction in this particular case. The burden of proof would be on the government to show that the commissioner overran his appropriation "knowingly" with malice aforethought, as it were. Another weak point in this section comes in the opening sentence which reads: "No officer of said city, except in the case of extreme emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property shall expend knowingly, in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation therefor duly made in accordance with law, etc."

That "extreme emergency" is farcical even as is the word "knowingly" and its uselessness was shown through another section when Commissioner Morse recently came to the sudden conclusion that he needed an automobile of certain make and attacked another alleged emergency clause, that permitted him to make an immediate purchase, "the preservation of the public peace, health and safety," requiring the immediate purchase of an automobile and the employment of a chauffeur to ride the commissioners to Springfield and subsequently to ride the commissioners of streets about town. The effort of Commissioner Morse to remove Superintendent of Streets Putnam demonstrates another weak spot in the charter. If a commissioner is to be held responsible for the departments under him he should have the power to choose his own subordinates from the head of the department down the line. Suppose the head of a department is unfriendly toward the commissioner over him, but has three votes in the municipal council, as the charter reads now, those three votes can hold him in office even though he may make a life miserable for the man over him and who is responsible for his actions. It is understood that one of the local representatives is framing up some new legislation relative to the city charter of Lowell. On the whole the charter is right and the representative mustn't make the mistake of trying to make changes of a radical nature, but there are a few weak spots in it that should be attended to, especially the section relative to overrunning appropriations.

FOURTH OF JULY

Whether it is that the American race is still young enough to be thrilled by patriotic things as children are, or that our matter of fact business life makes the reaction all the more acute, certain it is that the celebration of the Fourth of July, particularly but erroneously called the "national" holiday, is more spontaneous and enthusiastic than the national celebrations of any other people. It may be added that it is also more noisy, though happily this feature is becoming modified. Patriotism for the glorious Fourth and its night before is handed down from sire to son, and to young America it is the day of days, with the possible exception of Christmas. Without apparently realizing the cause for all the patriotic commotion or appreciating its significance, young and old, staid and solemn, native and immigrant, flock each other in the crowded streets, each reviving the other in the desire to work off the surplus enthusiasm that seems to bubble up in the American nature on the annual celebration of the day that commemorates the dawn of American Independence.

A stranger coming to one of our teeming American cities on the Fourth of July might well be pardoned if he supposed that the day was more in honor of license than of liberty, but he would not on investigation that deep down under the noisy externals, is a full appreciation of the liberties that followed the adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. Then the dissatisfaction that had been growing against the English king and the English government had found practical expression in the wars of the protesting colonies. Lexington and Concord had seen the glorious triumph of the gallant rebels over misrule; Washington had taken command and the siege and evacuation of Boston were over. The difficult task of throwing off tyranny was practically accomplished, and with a still higher purpose the founders of our government got together and framed the matchless Declaration of Independence which, after centuries of all manner of government, proclaimed to the world the right of the people to govern themselves. Indeed it is doubtful if the Magna Charta or any other document in the history of the world had the influence on after ages that this declaration of our own country had. Consequently without improperly all countries that enjoy any measure of democracy may unite with America in celebrating an event which is wise in its significance than can be measured in the space from the Atlantic to the Pacific shores of this free country.

It is to be regretted that to many the Fourth of July is a day of noise and American over-abundance of spirits, unrelated to any event that gives it dignity or spirituality. For such it loses its special significance and though the authorities are more than usually tolerant, it is questionable if the annual orgy of noise and sleepiness adds an iota to the prestige of America or counts for anything in the furthering of the patriotic spirit. With growing excess many progressive interests have sought to invest the occasion with more appropriate observances, and though a chance from the old noisy orgy may not be popular, it cannot be injurious to the growth of a healthy public spirit. In the greater cities it is becoming the practice to hold historical pageants and public celebrations, and the citizens enjoy the occasion quite as much as formerly without incurring the danger that frequently attended it. In the past, an aftermath of death and injury did much to cloud the patriotism of less restrained days.

In our own city it is to be hoped that the citizens will enter into the celebration of the Fourth with all their old zest, that they will be happy with their children, that they will attend the various patriotic observances and go on the common to be a part of the vanity fair for which Lowell has become famous. They should not forget, however, that horns, bells and explosives will have little meaning unless they are connected with the birth of genuine liberty in the stirring days of 1776 when the famous declaration of Independence was signed, and when modern America was born.

PENSION SYSTEMS

It is to be hoped that for the next few years applications for pensions will be made to state and city by all manner of public employees, as they have been made this year, for nothing would tend to a more speedy reform in pension conditions than utter abuse—and we are growing nearer to this stage daily. Even the people who now are the most enthusiastic about the payment of pensions to every variety of undeserving public servant will some day realize that the policy which bleeds all the people for the very much privileged few is a policy that will soon impose a greater degree of public hardship than the public will bear patiently. When reaction comes, as it must unless there is a change in conditions, those who really deserve pensions may be injured because of the pernicious activity of those who brazenly live on public benefaction.

A short time ago the legislature killed a bill which had for its object the establishment of a wholesale pension system, to be supported in part by contributions from state, county and city employees. If such a system were adopted it would reform many abuses of the present though it is not certain that it might not substitute some equally as glaring. It would, however, have established the saving principle that pensions are permissible on an insurance basis, the individual or group being pensioned paying in part for the protection which he or they later enjoy. This is the policy in vogue in Germany and is quoted by political economists as the latest in the pension idea, but it is a policy which is not yet very popular in Massachusetts. Why should a public official approve of a pension towards which he must contribute, when he can get one for the asking, towards which he contributed nothing, either in money or service? To pay any official a pension merely because he wishes to retire to private life is to admit that he was not sufficiently paid for his services, and there seems little difficulty as yet in filling the ranks of public employees.

The pensioning system in Massachusetts is chaotic and unscientific and what is more to the point it is extortionate to the public in the last degree. Three-fourths of the pensions granted are undeserved, and still, demands are made as though the treasury were bottomless. In view of this, the public clamor against the high cost of living and the high cost of government sounds somewhat inconsistent.

THE UNLIGHTED BONFIRES

To those who have seen the water-logged condition of the bonfires that were meant to usher in the Fourth, there will be little disappointment in the refusal of the state police to grant permission for their lighting. It would take a great deal of kerosene or some other such substance to get them going, and then it is to be feared the result would not be very spectacular, as there would be more smoke than flame. Those who have worked hard to pile up the great structures will undoubtedly feel chagrined, but they may find consolation in the fact that by waiting until the pile dries and disintegrating it for firewood in the neighborhood they will have done a greater service than by burning up such a fine pile of useful wood in a vain display.

THE RAILROAD BILL

The almost unanimous approval to the Fisher-Edlis bill in both branches of the legislature may not predict the ultimate settlement of the railroad question in this state but it indicates, at least, that the legislature recognizes the public disgust regarding the whole question and will welcome any measure that promises to end the present uncertainty. Evidently the protest of the railroad against the "string" provision had little weight with our legislators and it is not probable that the railroad view will influence the governor who has already expressed his approval of the successful bill. If the New Haven would effectually protest against the provision which provides that the state may eventually purchase the stock, it must take the matter to the courts.

The case of Brigadier-General Evans, who has charge of the eastern division of the army, again calls attention to the determination of President Wilson to prevent any misrepresentation of the administration by officials of the army or navy. General Evans was reported as criticizing the government in a speech made in New York last week, and the publication of his alleged remarks called for a speedy explanation from headquarters. In this President Wilson is certainly acting wisely as it is for army and navy officials to do as they are bid unquestioningly, and to say nothing derogatory to their superior officers while in active service.

Col. Carmichael and Chief Saunders may be excused if they take extreme precautions against the risks around the Fourth. The Salem calamity has demonstrated the need of the greatest care.

Those who have been driven out of town on previous years by the noise of the Fourth celebration and by the heat of the season are apt to stay at home this year.

The opening of the playgrounds on Monday is undoubtedly looked forward to by hundreds of those who have enjoyed the only relief from the heat of the season. The playgrounds are a most valuable asset to the city, and it is to be hoped that they will be well patronized. The playgrounds are a most valuable asset to the city, and it is to be hoped that they will be well patronized.

joyed them in previous years and by others to whom supervised play will be a revelation of delight. Summer playgrounds deserve a greater degree of support than Lowell gives them officially.

There will be no official celebration but, nevertheless, Independence Day will be observed with due respect and patriotic fervor.

The Tag Day girls made a splendid start and they have shown what a power woman is in a good cause.

Many of the mill people will enjoy their vacation next week. Let us hope they will have reasonable weather.

Lowell will apparently do her duty towards the Salem sufferers. The fund is growing rapidly.

Don't take any risks with dangerous fireworks on the Fourth.

Look out for your property against the risks on the Fourth.

Independence day, 1914.

BUSINESS AND THE MINIMUM WAGE
The Massachusetts minimum wage commission is making an earnest effort to get at the lowest possible figures at which a woman can maintain herself, week in and week out of her working life. Such investigations are of the highest importance to the state, for they tell us what the minimum wage should be, and they tell us what the minimum wage should be, and they tell us what the minimum wage should be.

TANGO TALK
"You may get to heaven if you tango, but you can't get there by the Binghamton Press. What about disputing for a moment the authority of the theological statement, 'We arise long enough to remark that if the altum is accepted there are a lot of people who will never struggle hard to get there, and some who might get there without it? It is the other place—minus the tango—Schenectady Union-Star."

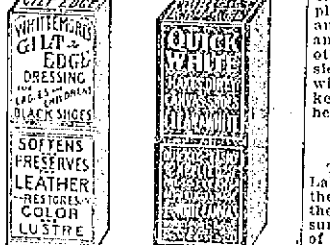

SALEM NEEDS
Cardinal O'Connell's cable from Rome about the collection of the collections in the archdiocese of Boston intended to have been taken Sunday for the negro and Indian missions be diverted to the most thoughtful and generous of the awful fire. In this case charity surely begins at home and for a while at least it is well to cease the giving of money abroad and in other parts of the country and to give it to the stricken ones whose loss comes so close to us.—Malden News.

SIMPLE CELEBRATION
The glorious Fourth is to be celebrated in a most informal manner in this city in 1914. The day is marked contrast to the elaborate observance last year when a parade was followed by a banquet which brought great credit to the city and to the various nationalities which make up the population. The bonfire will be about the only formal event, otherwise the day will be spent in the usual taste dictates.—Newburyport Herald.

SUFFRAGE QUESTION
President Wilson again tells the woman suffragists that suffrage is a state and not a federal question, and that if he were influential enough to the federal government would not consider the question of equal rights. This naturally does not satisfy the women, but what are they going to do about it? The states have the right, by their several constitutions, to establish the qualifications of their voters, and the United States cannot force the matter to the states.—Newport News.

BUSINESS IMPROVING
The trade journals report further improvement in collections of the trade and merchants in the wheat belt request shipment of goods purchased by the merchants as quickly as possible. Trade conditions are generally reported to be improving slowly. Optimism gradually is unseating pessimism on the trade and wagon.—Breckton Times.

ROOT OUT OF RACE WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

"YOUNG JIM" WADSWORTH MAY GET HIS SEAT IN UNITED STATES SENATE

JAMES W. WADSWORTH JR.

NEW YORK, July 3.—James W. Wadsworth—"Young Jim"—will probably be the choice of a majority of the republican organization leaders for the United States senatorship nomination, and it is anticipated that his friends will soon begin a canvass in his behalf, now that Senator Elihu Root is out of the race. William Barnes, state chairman, is expected to favor Wadsworth. Mr. Barnes fought long and hard for the nomination of Wadsworth for governor at the convention which renominated Governor Hughes.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KENT'S THEATRE
Arnold Daly, surrounded by a superb company, appears in the thrilling play, "The Port of Missing Men." at the B. F. Keith Theatre today and tomorrow. Yesterday very large audiences saw this absorbing five-act picture. The story told holds at every scene, and while there have been more sensational photo-dramas at this theatre, none has held any more coherent, pleasing story. A tale of intrigue and the effort to land a pretender on the throne of Estruria is told, with all of the details of the plot. How the real heir is hidden in Montana, while efforts are made to locate him, is the nub of the whole affair. The acting of Mr. Daly is just what one would expect from so fine an artist. In addition to this feature the Pathe picture, "The Dogs of War," and the "Sally, Willy, Harry," are shown. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children five cents.

VOYONS
"The Call of the Tribe," a two-part Indian picture by the Kalem company, is one of the best western pictures we have ever shown. The story is a little out of the regular run of this kind of a story, and the setting of the different parts is well taken care of by a selected cast.

The Pathe Weekly is full of wonderful happenings from the different cities and towns throughout the world. The Pathe Daily has a different subject each day similar to the Salem fire, "Beans," an Essanay comedy, will make you hungry just to watch how a young fellow cooks them.

THE OWL THEATRE
The latest story of the series of "The Perils of Pauline" will be shown on Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4. In the present adventure she is kidnapped by bad westerners engaged by one of her enemies, and she is later rescued by her sweetheart who rushes to her aid. The climaxes are stirring and as usual the photography is excellent. "The Voice at the Phone," is a two-part two-reel, one part being shown on Friday and Saturday, and the rest of the story will be flashed on Monday and Tuesday. It is of the rapid-fire dramatic kind, and will be enjoyed by lovers of good, clean, and clever plays. A scene of methods employed by detectives and police officers called the third degree is shown in one moment of the play, and the whole play abounds with unusual situations and good acting. "Across the Hall" and "The Telephone Strategy" are two other good dramas to be shown besides other good plays. Jack Dalton will sing, and the splendid roof will keep you cool, even in the most torrid heat.

LAKEVIEW PARK
The new program being offered at Lakeview theatre for the last half of the current week is proving one of the most attractive of the present summer and includes a liberal number of both comedy and dramatic subjects. As a special feature for July 3, the Lakeview management has arranged for a display of fireworks. The

ROOSEVELT STILL TALKING

CALLS DU BOIS "INSTRUMENT" ASSAILS ADMINISTRATION ON COLOMBIA TREATY MATTER

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 3.—If the Wilson administration puts through the treaty with Colombia, providing for the payment of $25,000,000, declared Theodore Roosevelt in a statement last night, it will forfeit the right to the respect of the people of the United States.

Col. Roosevelt's statement was drawn up by that of James T. Du Bois, former minister to Colombia, who assailed the acts of the Roosevelt administration in connection with the Panama revolution. The former president barely referred to the Du Bois statement, however, and plunged into a denunciation of the treaty before the senate.

"I have nothing to say about Mr. Du Bois," the colonel said in his statement. "He was merely an instrument. Mr. Wilson is responsible for the payment of the blackmail to Colombia. An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this treaty for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited the right to the respect of the people of the United States."

Colonel Roosevelt's reference to Mr. Du Bois as an "instrument" related to a draft of a treaty with Colombia prepared by Mr. Du Bois which Secretary Bryan made public recently with the object of showing that the Taft administration was willing to express regret to Colombia for the acts of the Roosevelt administration. It was said later, however, that this draft never was approved by the Taft administration.

CLUTE MURDER TRIAL
GIFFORD DEFENSE RESTS—CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO THE JURY AT ALBANY TONIGHT

ALBANY, July 3.—Testimony in the Clute murder trial was closed yesterday when Malcolm Gifford, Jr., the defendant, being called to the witness stand. Today William Travers Jerome will sum up for the defense, and Dist. Atty. Alexander probably will present the case of the prosecution. The charge of Judge Addington is not expected to be long, so the jury may retire by nightfall.

Dist. Atty. Alexander recalled Samuel D. Gibson, principal witness for Gifford, and subjected him to a harassing examination. Gibson swore yesterday that he passed within two feet of Clute and his passenger shortly before the murder and he was positive the latter was not Gifford.

Mrs. Thomas Benjamin of Troy, and George Boville of Schenectady, both contradicted Gibson's testimony concerning how he fixed the date he saw Clute's passenger. They were not questioned about the main points of Gibson's story, however.

COLDEST IN 26 YEARS
BOSTON FORECASTER SAYS YESTERDAY WAS ALSO MOST DISAGREABLE JULY 2ND

BOSTON, July 3.—Yesterday was the coldest July 2 for the past 26 years, according to the records of the local forecaster. With the cold weather and an abundance of rain combined, it was altogether the most disagreeable July 2 during that same period of years. The forecast for July 4 is "unsettled."

Early in the morning the mercury atop the Federal building registered as low as 54.6 degrees and by 8 o'clock was only 57 degrees. The rain fell fitfully, but copiously when it came, and the wind blew at a rate of 25 miles an hour from the east.

There was a thick fog off Highland Light, and a 35-mile wind blowing from the east, and when once clothing had become soaked with rain and spray.

At 3 p. m. the weather man's thermometer registered 54 degrees. That showed it to be the coldest day on record since July 2, 1888, when the lowest temperature recorded was 53 degrees.

The weather man predicts a fair day today, with the temperature much higher. He also says that on account of a new storm brewing in the west, the fourth of July will be rather unsettled weather, he expects that just about

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The possibility of a transatlantic ocean flight in a heavier-than-air machine in 13 hours is pointed out in a communication to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C., from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and former president of the society.

"The distance from Newfoundland to Ireland is less than 2000 miles," says Dr. Bell. "This means that if you go at 100 miles an hour you will cross the Atlantic in 20 hours—less than a day. We have flying machines that go at a greater speed than that. We already have machines that could cross the ocean if their engines can keep going for 20 hours. Of course, these are exceptional machines, but even the ordinary machines of today make 50 miles an hour with ease.

"Now, a flying machine flies faster as you go higher up, because the rarer air offers less resistance to the motion, while the propeller gives the same push with the same power, whatever the elevation. As you get into the rarer air the propeller spins around faster. A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles in the air—and we have machines that have gone twice as high as that—will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Then at an elevation of two miles high in the air there is a constant wind blowing in the general direction of Europe having a velocity anywhere from 25 to 50 miles an hour.

"As a net result of all these things, there can be little doubt that any ordinary machine that is able to support itself in the air at an elevation of at least 100 miles an hour in the direction of Europe, and that means going from America to Europe in a single day. Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in 13 hours. I hardly dare say it aloud for publication. It is sufficiently startling to know that it is not only possible, but probable, that the passage may be made in a single day. But if, as I imagine, it can be done in 13 hours, you make take an early breakfast in Newfoundland and a late dinner in Ireland the same night."

TYLER KIRK WON RACE

JAMES S. HANSON'S SEAL, BROWN GELDING TOOK EVENT AT JERSEY CITY IN STRAIGHT HEATS

The real brown gelding, Tyler Kirk, owned by James S. Hanson, which caused so much favorable comment among local horsemen while in this city, showed decided class in his first work of the season at Jersey City Thursday. Tyler Kirk, by Council Chimes, took the event in straight heats, 2:27, 2:29 and 2:29.

The horse is said to have a big future by those who have seen him in his fast workouts. His stride is even and strong and Mr. Hanson has had several chances to dispose of him had he wanted to sell.

Tyler Kirk is at the stables of Dr. Brown where his local owner will probably keep him during the present racing season for conditioning. The horse was bought by Mr. Hanson in Colorado.

VIENNA, July 3.—Princess William of Wiede, wife of the new ruler of Albania, today left Durazzo, the capital of that country, with her children in consequence of the critical situation there. She has gone to Bucharest, Rumania.

It is generally believed here that the departure of the princess from Albania foreshadows the abdication of Prince William.

BANK STOCK PLEDGED TO SAFFORD & CO.—ASSIGNEE SEEKS IT AFTER MANY YEARS

BOSTON, July 3.—The title to 25 shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile National bank of Salem standing in the name of James O. Safford & Co., has raised a question of law, which Judge Jenney, before whom the case came in the equity division of the superior court, will report to the full bench of the supreme judicial court.

The suit is brought by Walter G. Wehrle, assignee in insolvency of Robert K. Jacobs of Peabody, and the defendants are the Mercantile National bank and the administrators of the estates of James O. Safford & Co.

On Oct. 14, 1874, Mrs. Jacobs, who was married to Safford & Co., transferred to the firm a quantity of shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile National bank owned by her. In October, 1878, the stock, at the request of Safford & Co., was registered in the name of the firm.

On Oct. 19, 1880, Mrs. Jacobs filed a voluntary petition in insolvency in Essex county, and Frederick W. Conant of Beverly later was appointed assignee. He died in 1891, and it was not until Dec. 24, 1912, that Mr. Wehrle succeeded Mr. Conant.

It is claimed that Mrs. Jacobs in 1855 paid her debt to Safford & Co., but took no measures to have the stock returned to her. Mr. Wehrle is now seeking to get the stock for the benefit of her estate, and unclaimed dividends, which the bank has held since 1891.

The defendants claim that the plaintiff is barred by the statute of limitations, but the plaintiff contends that an express trust was created which never was repudiated, and that therefore the statute of limitations does not run.

COTTON SEED PRODUCTS

No subject has been of more general interest during the past year than the cost of living in all of its phases. Diminishing herds of cattle and the import of beef have come in for more than the usual share of comment. Therefore a new publication of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, department of commerce, dealing with cattle feeding in Europe will be read with unusual interest. It is a report by Commercial Agent Edwin W. Thompson of a year's study devoted to the study of various feeds and feeding methods in Europe. The investigation was undertaken for the purpose of determining the conditions under which cotton-seed meal and cake and similar articles were sold and used in Europe, with the hope that such information might prove useful in promoting the export of these products.

According to this report there is an enormous consumption of oil meals of various kinds, as shown by the following (expressed in metric tons of 2205 pounds): Germany, 1,417,820; United Kingdom, 1,206,105; Denmark, 354,715; Netherlands, 457,616; total of these countries, 3,436,256. Besides the cotton-seed meal imported from the United States and Russia and that manufactured in Germany and England from Egyptian and Indian cotton seed, much meal is made from peanuts, sunflower seed, rape seed, linseed, soy beans, and palm kernels.

Although American cotton-seed meal is a prime favorite in some of these countries, it comprises only 14 percent of the total of oil meals of all kinds consumed in Europe. This indicates that greater effort is needed to push this product abroad. This could be done by explaining its advantages to those feeders who, having been accustomed to linseed and other cakes before cotton seed was introduced, as slow to change to the newer product. Denmark, which is called the greatest butter country in the world, consumes more than 200 pounds of cotton-seed cake per head of cattle per year. This demonstrates its great value and makes an object lesson that American exporters might use to advantage. If the 20,000,000 cattle in Germany, for instance, were to use American cotton-seed meal at that rate, they would need all of the 2,000,000 tons that are made in the United States. Thus there is ample potential market for all that can be made.

Suggestions for exploiting this trade, as well as much interesting matter relating to cattle feeding in general, will be found in this publication, "Cotton-seed Products and Their Competitors in Northern Europe, Part I, Cotton-seed Cake and Meal," monograph No. 34, of the bureau of foreign commerce, which may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, for 10 cents per copy.

WOMEN WRECK MANSION

Militants Set Fire to and Burned Ballyimnoch, Near Holy Wood, Containing Priceless Relics

BELFAST, Ireland, July 3.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes today set fire to and burned to the ground Ballyimnoch, near Holy Wood, a great residential mansion containing many priceless art treasures, all of which were destroyed. The mansion was the residence of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, who was mayor and lord mayor of Belfast for many years and who sat in parliament for a short time as member for the city of Belfast.

The suffragettes left strewn about in the vicinity the customary evidences of their presence but they themselves escaped.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION WANTS TO BE ARRESTED

PRES. WILSON AND ADVISERS DISCUSS MEXICO'S INTERNAL DISTURBANCES

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A lengthy conference to discuss Mexico's internal disturbances confronted President Wilson and his advisers today. Some time would elapse, representatives of Carranza said, before the revolutionary leader would be able to obtain a vote of his military chiefs on the proposed conference.

Primed with instructions on the American government's attitude toward all phases of the problem, John H. Silliman planned to leave here today for Carranza's provisional capital. He was to help in settling the breach between Villa and Carranza and to impress upon the revolutionary leaders the need for early restoration of peace through establishment of a provisional government such as has been suggested at the Niagara mediation project.

Mr. Silliman was to go to Saltillo, where Carranza temporarily had set up his headquarters. Only a few weeks ago Silliman as American vice consul in Saltillo had been in custody of the federalists, accused of having helped their enemies.

It was understood that on his mission he was to go virtually as President Wilson's personal agent. The president and Silliman were classmates at Princeton.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates at Niagara, were to return to Washington today and report in person to Secretary Bryan. It also was thought possible they would confer with the president. Minister Naon of Argentina probably will reach here tomorrow and immediately get in touch with Carranza's representatives.

Reassuring reports were received today from the Panuco oil district above Tampico, where disturbances had been feared. Consul Miller, who went to Tampico to investigate, said the constitutionalist garrison was sufficient to preserve order.

DR. ROMULO NAON REMAINS AT BUFFALO

BUFFALO, July 3.—Dr. Romulo Naon, minister from Argentina and one of the South American mediators in the effort to compose the Mexican situation, remained quietly at his hotel here today. Later he planned a sight-seeing trip around the city and expected to leave for Washington on an early evening train.

ROBINSON'S PAL TAKEN

FIGHTED IN ROBBERY OF CHIEF SEA STORE—WANTED IN CONNECTION WITH HOLDUP

BOSTON, July 3.—A man who gave his name as Harry Cramer, and who is believed by the police to be a "pal" of Lawrence Robinson, the Michigan gunman who shot and killed Police Inspector Joseph J. Norton in the Boston Police station last night, is in a cello on Columbus avenue near Dartmouth street.

Suspected of Holdup He was wanted in connection with an assault made by three men Wednesday night on Samuel Cohen, a pawn broker, in Cohen's shop, 155 Broadway, Chelsea. It was an attempt to hold up and rob Cohen.

The police also arrested Adam Sawyer, clerk of a Columbus avenue hotel, in connection with the same affair. Cohen's men were turned over to the Chelsea police.

BILLERICA

A safe and sane Fourth is promised in Billerica this year and what noise there is in the village will probably be caused by the blowing of horns or the explosion of small firecrackers. Since the storekeepers were refused permits to sell fireworks a few years ago the Fourth has been spent in a quiet way in the town, although the youngsters always turn out in large numbers the "night before" for their usual antics. No public celebration will be held in either the Centre or the North village.

DIED IN LONDON, ENG.

Was Prominent for Many Years as a Leader of British Politics—Wife Daughter of Late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts

LONDON, July 3.—Joseph Chamberlain, prominent for many years as a leader in British politics, died here last night.

Death came as a surprise as the condition of his health was not publicly known to be any worse than at any time in the past two or three years.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who was the daughter of the late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, secretary of war in President Cleveland's cabinet, never left her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago and she and her step-son, Austen Chamberlain, were with him when death occurred.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home on May 5 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn and appeared very emaciated and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledging their salutes.

The cause of Mr. Chamberlain's death was officially announced today to have been heart failure. Although he had been gradually sinking since Tuesday the members of the family had preferred that his desperate condition should not become publicly known.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Third Within a Few Weeks Occurred at Danbury, Conn., Today—Tie Wedged Into Frog

DANBURY, Conn., July 3.—Another attempt at train-wrecking, the third within a few weeks, occurred today on the Central New England railroad in this city, the obstruction, a portion of a railroad tie wedged into the frog of a switch being discovered shortly after the arrival of a Federal express bound from Washington to Boston.

A freight locomotive running light into the yards struck the obstruction. Although the engine was moving slowly its pilot was twisted and broken and the ties were splintered for a distance of several hundred feet.

Both of the previous attempts at wrecking were made in a similar manner. In one a portion of a tie and in the other a piece of steel being jammed into the frog.

WIFE IS GIVEN PLACE FIRE ESCAPES LACKING

ARRANGED BY HER HUSBAND ON THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 3.—Recognition of a woman who has the courage of her convictions, even though she is compelled to disagree with her husband on public matters, was given to Mrs. Chas. O. Selness by Mayor Harrison, who has appointed her a member of the board of education to succeed Mrs. Selness, who incurred the displeasure of the executive by voting against Mrs. Ella Flagg Young as superintendent of the Chicago city schools. The appointment was sent to the city council last night, and it is understood that Mrs. Selness has agreed to accept.

Those dead in the fire are John Reed, 25, a stable worker of Brookline, Mass.; Mabelle Caron, a wood chopper, 30, and Albert Lachance, a cigarmaker, 35, of Manchester.

Reed was fatally injured when he jumped from a third story window. The other two men were suffocated in their rooms on the fourth floor of the building, which was a frame structure. Several other lodgers who jumped from windows were slightly hurt.

It is asserted here by officials of the fire department that the only escape from the building was by means of a ladder fire escape which descended perpendicularly along the side of the building and stopped at the second floor.

UPWORTH LEAGUE IN SESSION BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—Following the usual early morning watch services sectional meetings of the ninth annual international convention of the Upworth league were held in three halls today. The principal topics discussed simultaneously were "The opportunity of the rural league" and "The league as a leader in community recreation."

MEDIATION SESSIONS END

Huerta and Rebels Must Pick New Government—Carranza Delegates Due at Torreon

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 3.—With the departure last night of Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Minister Naon of Argentina the American delegation consisting of Justice Lamar, Frederick W. Lehmann and H. Percival Dodge, diplomatic secretary, the Pan-American mediation conference, convened to find a solution of the Mexican problem, formally ended its sessions here.

Minister Suarez of Chili and the Huerta delegates will leave tomorrow. When and where the next meeting will be held depends for the present upon General Carranza, the constitutionalist chief, who is now consulting his subordinate chiefs about sending delegates to a conference with the Huerta delegates for the election of a new provisional president.

Minister Naon went to Buffalo for a day of sightseeing and will arrive in Washington Saturday. There he will confer informally with Luis Cabrera and other constitutionalist agents. Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehmann will talk with Secretary Bryan tomorrow and perhaps President Wilson. The Huerta delegates, after visiting friends in Buffalo tomorrow, will go to New York on Saturday to await definite word there from the constitutionalists.

In the meantime mediation has been declared in indefinite recess. Formal notification of the invitation to Carranza to send delegates and his reply were conveyed by the mediators to the American and Mexican commissioners in an identical note today. The note sets forth that there is no further need of sessions until the constitutionalist delegates are appointed. It declares the international conflict settled and remarks: "All that is left to be done is to establish and organize a provisional government in Mexico, a patriotic war reserved exclusively to the two Mexican delegations."

The Huerta delegates replied to this communication in two separate notes, one expressing appreciation of the efforts of the mediators in bringing about a settlement of the international conflict, and the other, addressed indirectly to the constitutionalists, declaring in polite terms sincere desire to discuss internal affairs with them. This opens the way for direct communication between the constitutionalists and delegates.

The United States is willing to withdraw its troops from Vera Cruz when a new provisional government shall have been established, on which all Mexican factions are agreed and to which formal recognition can be extended by the United States and foreign governments generally.

The protocols thus far signed represent terms of peace between the United States and the Huerta government. The Mexican faction which interrupts the informal conferences now proposed will be held responsible for grave consequences that follow. That armed intervention, American occupation and further spoliation of Mexico might ensue if the two Mexican forces do not come to an agreement is calculated to have a impressive effect on the proceedings and the mediators are confident that some solution of the problem will arise from the new conferences.

As yet General Carranza has not said whether or not he will send delegates but the text of his note made public today reveals, in the opinion of the mediators, a sincere desire to settle the revolution by peaceful means.

CRUISER SOUTH DAKOTA LEAVES FOR SAN DIEGO—TROUBLE IS FEARED

ON BOARD U. S. S. CALIFORNIA, Mazatlan, Mexico, July 2.—(By wireless to San Diego, July 3)—The cruiser South Dakota departed last night for San Diego, carrying two battalions of marines for a summer encampment at Coronado, near San Diego. The remaining battalions of marines were to leave for San Diego aboard the cruiser West Virginia today.

Word was received today that merchants at Guaymas have refused to pay a forced loan of $75,000 to officers of the federal army and it is feared that trouble may result.

SIXTH REG'T COMPANIES TO LEAVE FOR CAMP AT LAKEVILLE ON SUNDAY MORNING NEXT

The following camp appointments have been announced in a recent general order in relation to the annual encampment of companies of the Sixth and Second regiments, which will take place next week, beginning Sunday morning at which time the local companies will leave this city by special trains for Lakeville, Mass.

Color Sergeant Sanford F. Leary of Lowell, in charge of the tentage and property at headquarters.

Musical Arthur J. Lawler, Co. G, to acting chief trumpeter.

Private Herbert H. Taylor, Co. K, mounted orderly to commissioned officers.

The commissioned officers of Companies C, G and K will each take one private to Captain Lewis G. Hinton, commissary.

Company C will detail one private to Color Sergeant John C. Anderson, acting stable sergeant.

The following appointments of non-commissioned officers has been announced:

John William Anderson, corporal, Company G.

Russell Stack, corporal, Company C.

Hugh L. Wier, corporal, Company C.

It was learned yesterday that Miss Marie Martin, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in Warrenville some time ago, worked at the Abbott Worsted Co. in Forge Village until last Wednesday, but her present whereabouts is not known.

ARMY OF GIRLS BUSY ON TAG DAY WORK

For Salem Relief Fund — Women Out Early at City Hall and Along Streets and Stores Tagging Everybody

Talk not of hustling (H) thou hast seen the tag sellers at work. This is tag day in Lowell and of course this isn't news, because everybody knows it, yet it is necessary to mention it in order to start this story right.

Yesterday forenoon a little band of women met at city hall and formulated plans for tag day as suggested by the Salem Relief fund of 70. They didn't have much time for preparation. It was a quick call, but they were equal to the occasion, as women usually are.

Several of these women were at city hall as early as 6.30 o'clock this morning and before 9 o'clock $500 tags had been disposed of. This movement, of course, is for the benefit of the Salem sufferers and if you haven't been tagged it's the day's best bet that you have kept yourself in seclusion, for the energetic, sympathetic, patriotic women interested in tag day proceedings didn't let anybody get by—not if they knew it.

Mrs. John E. Graham started in at the railroad depot in Middlesex street at 6.23 o'clock this morning and before 9 o'clock she and her assistants had disposed of 500 tags. They got good prices for the tags, too, and at 9.15 o'clock Mrs. Graham was back at city hall looking for more tags.

Tag day bids fair to prove the greatest success that Lowell has ever witnessed in any enterprise along a similar line, for everybody seems disposed to help the Salem sufferers and the women and girls engaged in the work are leaving no stone unturned to make it a success. The Tag Day committee has bought up every tag there is in Lowell and they cannot supply the demand of the tag sellers.

MISS ALICE SHEEHAN
The Girl Who Tagged The Sun Office

The scene at city hall this morning was one of great activity. The tag sellers met in the mayor's reception room, some of them, as heretofore stated, arriving there as early as 6.30 o'clock. The boxes and tags were all in readiness for them, but there were no strings to the tags and the women had to do their own stringing. This meant the use of a big darning needle and a mill and a half or so of twine, but that didn't delay proceedings the least little bit. The women went to the work with a will and some of them were on the street, selling tags, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Among the very first in the street were the Misses Vera and Imelda Groves. They succeeded in getting tags last evening and they sold $5 worth before reaching the hall at 8 o'clock. The list of tag-sellers is as follows:

Miss Mabel Cassidy, Miss Anna McKelock, Miss Gladys McElown, Miss V. Grove, Miss Imelda Groves, Miss Blanche Jolley, Mrs. Alice Goodwin, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Miss G. E. Jamison, Miss M. E. O'Neill, Miss Alice McGill, Miss Rose Geary, Miss Alice MacLeron, Miss Ida J. Flint, Miss Isabel M. Ellis, Mrs. Horace Lane, Mrs. Patrick Farrell, Mrs. S. W. Hanks, Mrs. Huntley, Miss Jennie Bradt, Mrs. Carl D. Burd, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Anna McCarron, Miss Alice Besse, Miss Sallie Hobson, Miss Ruth Sawyer, Miss Adelaide Walsh, Miss Margarette Plarce, Miss Julia Slattery, Miss Josephine Walker, Miss Mary O'Sullivan, Miss Maude Greene, Miss Lulu O'Sullivan, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. John E. Graham.

The tag-sellers were loitering for more tags, but no tags were given them, because the committee had exhausted the local supply. Several printers were getting out rush orders and it cannot be denied that a great deal of valuable time was lost because of a scarcity of tags. Mrs. Graham, working at the depot, sold out of tags at 10 o'clock and was unable to obtain any more until about the noon hour. The women were not to blame. In fact nobody was to blame because nobody expected such big success. Two collectors arrived at the hall early with their boxes "filled to the brim." They are not mentioning any names, because the general chairman, Miss Besse Hadley, asked us not to. The fact remains, however, that the first box opened contained $39.40, and the second $46.84. If that isn't going some, we'll eat the tags.

WATER IS PLENTIFUL

But Pipes are Rusty and Corroded, Interfering With Supply, Says Expert Bowers in Report

Former City Engineer George Bowers has submitted his report to Col. Carmichael, as the result of his labors as an expert engineer. The report, which is in printed form, bears the following rather imposing title: "Report of George Bowers, M. Am. Soc. C. E. on the improvement of the water supply of the City of Lowell," and reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., June 12, 1914.
Col. James H. Carmichael, Com. of Water Works and Fire Protection, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir—Acting on your request that I submit to you a report on what improvements I consider necessary in the present water supply to make it satisfactory in quality, also give you an estimate as to the daily draft of water that may be reasonably estimated as obtainable from the boulevard system, based on such developments of the present and adjacent areas as is economically possible, also the amount of water that can be counted on from the present boulevard system, and suggestions for the further development of the well system so that the people of the city would be sure of a sufficient supply of good water for a reasonable time to come, I would report as follows:

Boulevard Wells
I have examined the boulevard system and measured the elevation of water in the test wells and find the conditions most favorable for a continued supply of water. At the "upper plant," so called, I examined the pipe and strainers as they were pulled up, and found the pipe badly rusted, the strainers nearly filled with rust, and badly corroded, and the connecting pipes in the same poor condition. This would account in a great degree for the small amount of water that has been pumped from these wells during the past few years. In regard to the relocated wells here, I have measured the amount of water and tested its quality and find it practically the same as the first wells driven. The upper boulevard plant was constructed in 1899 and 1901. It contained 130 wells and yielded nearly 5,000,000 gallons per day of excellent water. When the work which is now being done is finished, I see no reason why it should not yield the same amount as formerly. When to this amount is added the water from the wells located east of the boulevard, and between the upper and lower stations you must have at the least 5,000,000 gallons per day of good water that needs no treatment.

Water to Be Treated
The wells located east of the lower pumping station and those north of the boulevard, should together yield from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 gallons per day of water that would probably require treatment. If more water is needed, it is easily obtainable here.

Adjacent Areas
I have carefully inspected the land

on the northerly side of the boulevard, between the well plant and the entrance to Tyngs Island. The only location that looked favorable for obtaining well water was on the land lying just west of the present plant and owned by the heirs of Phineas Whiting and by Samuel E. R. Adams. Here a line of ten test wells, 26 feet apart, was washed down by employees of the water department in a search for water bearing material. Hard pan and rock were encountered at depths varying from 8 to 22 feet below the surface. We were obliged to abandon these wells, as the men had no tools suitable for driving in hard material and if water could be obtained here, it would be a very expensive place in which to sink wells.

Cook Wells
I would recommend that the water of the Cook wells be treated for carbonic acid gas, also that the work of lowering the suction mains and pumps begun several years ago, be finished, thus greatly increasing the yield of water at these wells. This plant can be extended but little up or down the river meadow brook, as the ground water does not apparently follow the low land of the valley of the brook.

Supply of Water
The increased yield at the Cook wells, added to the water from the boulevard wells, if these wells are properly cared for, should give the city of Lowell an adequate supply of good water for many years to come. In conclusion I would call your attention to my letter of April 7 in which I urged the exclusive use of brass screens and of cement lined connections between the wells and suction pipe.

Respectfully,
George Bowers.

Having had his mind relieved as to the condition of the water supply the public now awaits with breathless interest the presentation of Mr. Bowers' bill for his services as expert.

FIRE AT EXETER, N. H.

MAIN BUILDING OF PHILLIPS-EXETER ACADEMY RUINED—LOSS $100,000.

EXETER, N. H., July 3.—An investigation failed to determine the cause of the fire that ruined the main building of Phillips-Exeter academy early today. A survey of the building and its contents indicated that the loss would be about $100,000, two-thirds of which was covered by insurance. Many valuable portraits were destroyed.

IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

MAN WHO DREW A REVOLVER IN A SALOON BRAWL WAS LATER ARRESTED

A man who registered at the police station as Angelo Panallia, created considerable excitement in a Middlesex street saloon last evening when, during the heat of an argument, he produced a .38 calibre revolver and held his companions at bay until put under control by other men who were in the place at the time. Patrolman Drewett and Cullen were summoned to the scene of action and they brought their man to the station where he was booked on a charge of drunkenness.

It is alleged that the defendant and a few fellow countrymen were drinking in the saloon and when it came Panallia's turn to buy the drinks he refused and resented being asked to do such a thing. When his companions demanded that he pay or stop drinking, it is claimed, he flourished the revolver and pointed it toward the other men, but was overcome by bystanders before he had an opportunity to pull the trigger.

Patrolman Drewett was sent for and when he reached the place the man was overpowered by several men who immediately put the handcuffs on him and sent for the patrol wagon. At this point Patrolman Cullen put in an appearance and assisted in taking the man to the police box.

Carrying a loaded pistol without a permit and drunkenness were the charges preferred against Panallia when arraigned in court this forenoon. He pleaded guilty through his counsel, who told the court that the defendant had a family in this city depending upon him for support.

A man who was in the saloon at the time of the brawl drew the revolver and pointed it at him while they were standing beside the bar. He also stated that the prisoner carried a knife and inflicted a slight scar on the side of his face during the scuffle. He could give no motive for the man's alleged attempt to do harm and said he had only known him a short time.

Patrolman Drewett presented the revolver, which was fully loaded, and an ugly looking knife with a sharp point. The court imposed a fine of $50 on the man for carrying a pistol and placed the drunkenness matter on file.

Disposing of Tem

Francis X. Archambault, the young man who was arrested in Lawrence on Wednesday while attempting to dispose of a horse and buggy, which he hired from Frank Dimodana of this city, appeared on continuance today and entered a plea of guilty. His attorney, George T. Tye, asked the court that the imposing of the sentence be suspended until Monday and the request was granted.

Ordered From City

Two young men, who claim to be employed on a farm in Bedford, blew into the city early last evening for the purpose of buying some clothes for the Fourth but before they had gotten down to the end of Middlesex street they indulged in too many highballs and were arrested about 9.30 o'clock by Patrolman Cullen while hitting up pedestrians for spare cash. They pleaded guilty to drunkenness in court today and after telling a long story were given two hours in which to leave the city's dust behind their heels.

The pair answered to the names of Thomas J. Burns and John Kelley. Patrolman Cullen testified that he received several complaints about them soliciting money from people walking up and down Middlesex street and when he approached them they were talking to a group of about a half-dozen. Both men claimed Spring street, East Cambridge, as their home when questioned by the court, but said that they had been working on a Bedford farm for several weeks. They had about $10 when arrested and did not remember asking anybody for more. Judge Barzill placed the cases on file on condition that they hike to foreign fields immediately and both promised faithfully that they would do so.

George B. Reynolds and John Floris slept together in a Bridge street lodging house last night and when the latter awoke this morning he missed his pocketbook containing a small sum of money. As a result Reynolds was arraigned in court charged with the larceny of $1.02 and the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Reynolds claimed that he is a Salem, N. H., blacksmith and had the money with him when he came to this city, but the court records showed that he was arrested the day before for drunkenness and at that time had no money. His Honor ordered the case continued until Monday for further consideration.

Three second-offenders were fined $6 each and one other was given a suspended sentence of five months in the Lowell jail. Nine first offenders were released by the probation officer.

Yesterday afternoon capias were issued for the arrests of nine men who have failed to pay fines imposed by the court. The total amount of the fines amounts to over $100.

THREE KILLED IN TENEMENT FIRE

Woman and Her Daughter Burned to Death in New York Tenement House Fire and Man Who Was Injured Died in Hospital—Policeman Rescued Six by Swinging Them Across 5 ft. Chasm

NEW YORK, July 3.—Mrs. Hannah Nickoli, 45, and her daughter Sarah, 17, were burned to death and four other persons were seriously injured in a fire early today in the five-story tenement at number 1 East 112th street. The police and firemen rescued a score of women and children who rushed to windows in a panic following the first alarm. The property loss was small. Jacob Finklestein, one of the injured, died in the hospital, bringing the death list up to three. Otto Schasberger, a policeman, singlehanded, saved a family of six from death by swinging them across a five foot chasm between buildings.

Bonfires May Burn Without Permits — Concerts Arranged for Accompaniments

In spite of the fact that no formal permits are granted, it is quite probable that the bonfires built on the Perry street grounds and at State street will go up on schedule time. The young men who built the piles are divided in their opinions as to what should be done; but the leaders refuse to be guardians for the bonfires and they allege that where firecrackers are flying thick and fast the bonfires will be in great danger of ignition at the wailing hour of midnight.

The concerts arranged will start at 10.30, Tabor's band at Rogers street, near Perry, and the Lowell National at State street. It is quite probable that for a few hours after midnight there will be no need of electric lights at either place.

Col. Carmichael Talks
A representative of The Sun talked with Col. Carmichael and Chief Sanders, of the fire department, this morning, in reference to the bonfires prepared for tonight.

"Would it not be just as well to have these bonfires burned up under the supervision of firemen at the time appointed?" the colonel was asked.

"While I would like to accommodate the young men who are taking such an interest in these bonfires, I cannot see how I can legally grant the permit for any of the bonfires."

HERE'S A GENIUS

Trenton Man Electrocuter Flies In—Sneak of Swatting Them—Invented Electrical Trap for Purpose

TRENTON, July 3.—Growing tired of swatting flies, John Gallagher, a Trenton fireman, decided to make easier his part in fly extermination, so he invented a trap, which has proved a wonder.

The remarkable feature of the trap is that it disposes of flies by electrocution. It is made of wire and closely resembles the old fashioned cone trap. The device is charged with electricity, and as fast as the flies alight upon it they are electrocuted.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

This Speaker came into his own yesterday in the Red Sox-Athletics double header at Philadelphia. The Boston American outfielder, slugging out five hits in his ten trips to the plate and broke up the first game with his clutch clutch in the last inning. Boston took four out of the five games in the series.

Sam Shuck has evidently recovered from his sore arm. Fitchburg looked at his delivery yesterday afternoon in spite of the cold weather, which made it more difficult for the pitcher. One of the two hits gotten out of Shuck was a scratch.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, had the better of Kaye Mars last night in their ten round bout at Cincinnati. Although no decision was given, the experts at the time picked the champion as the winner without a question.

The Englishmen fared badly in the three races yesterday. All of the three from across the water were eliminated while the Union Boat club crew and Harvard second won their trial heats. The next round ought to provide some stirring finishes.

Raymond Quimet, brother of the famous Francis, open champion of the United States Golf association, promises to make a big name for himself on the links. He was returned the winner of the junior championship of the Massachusetts Golf association yesterday afternoon. His older brother coached him around. The younger Quimet is only 17 years old.

Dear Mr. Sporting Editor: Please settle the question of what is an amateur, semi-pro and professional baseball player. A fan.

The term "amateur" is generally applied to a ball player who plays the game simply for the sport; derived therefrom. A semi-pro player is one who plays for remuneration yet is not started by a team recognized by organized baseball. A professional player usually means one who is tied up with a contract to some club under the government of the National baseball commission.

The opening of the Shortship Circuit races scheduled for yesterday at Worcester was postponed until today on account of the heavy track. The three days' program has been saved over and only the classiest of the events will be run off, or rather trotted and paced. More than 250 ponies are in the track stables.

Harry Lord, former captain of the White Sox, has at last decided to play ball once more. His friends were greatly surprised, however, when Lord announced that he intended to play semi-pro ball for the remainder of the season. He plays his first game tomorrow as member of the Livermore Falls club.

Joe Tinker landed his Chicago club at the head of the Federal League yesterday by defeating Indianapolis 7-2. With the Chicago outlaws playing left edge ball the Cubs and White Sox will suffer tremendously in spite of the fact that they also are handling out a great brand of the national game.

Charlie White, the lightweight who shaded Champion Willie Ritchie in their recent fight at Milwaukee, will probably get another chance at White after the Ritchie-Welsh squabble. If Ritchie pulls out a winner, and producers are mostly in the affirmative, White will doubtless try him out over the twenty round route.

WON 4-0 GAME

Lowell Defeated Fitchburg in League's Only Contest Yesterday

In spite of the threatening weather yesterday, which turned into a drizzle as Empire Keeler called the game, Lowell and Fitchburg battled nine innings to a 4-0 decision in favor of Jimmy Gray's boys on Fred Lake's diamond.

Sam Shuck was in the points for Lowell and he worked in the same form which he displayed early in the season. Only two hits, one of which was a scratch, were gotten off his delivery while he passed out one batter.

Lowell scored all four runs in the third inning. Collins was hit freely in this position and an error by Sweet helped things along. Not a man reached third base for Fitchburg.

Matthews, Dukette and Shuck did Lowell's feature batting, each of them setting in two safe blows. The local team played errorless ball. The score:

NO ARREST FOR MURDER

Slayer of Mrs. Bailey Not Yet Apprehended—Sheriff Says Arrest Will be a Woman

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 3.—Search of the grounds of the Carman home, which extended even to an examination of wells, has failed to reveal the weapon with which Mrs. Louise Bailey of Hempstead was murdered on Tuesday night while preparing to leave the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

District Attorney Smith announced today that he had found two men, both negroes, who declared they had seen a man run away from the window of Dr. Carman's office through which the shot was fired that killed

Mrs. Bailey. The best description they could give of him was that he was of medium size. Sheriff Pettit spent three hours with Dr. and Mrs. Carman last night.

"If there is an arrest it will be a woman," Sheriff Pettit said. "Every man in the case has been eliminated."

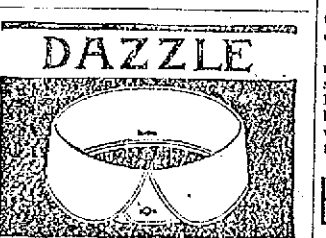

Two men and two women who were in Doctor Carman's office when the shot was fired, are expected to be the chief witnesses at the inquest today. One of these witnesses, George Golden, a teamster, told the prosecutor that ten minutes before the murder he saw a woman dressed in white standing in front of the house.

Pawtucketville Boy Tries Out His Home Made Cannon

The first Fourth of July accident was reported this morning from Pawtucketville.

For some time past Walter Bachman, aged 17, of 4 Dunfee street, has been preparing for the celebration, intending to have something original in the line of a noise-provoker. He manufactured a small cannon out of a piece of gas-pipe and some wood and this morning decided to give his invention a try-out.

He took the cannon to the woods in the rear of Mammoth road and after carefully loading it touched it off.

When Dr. William M. Collins arrived on the scene he found it necessary to have Walter removed to the Lowell General Hospital as he was badly burned about the face and eyes, while the cannon is out of commission for all time.

BULLET HOLE IN HAND

MAN WHO FOILED ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE HOUSE OF PRESIDENT BORN SHOT

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—Details of what is believed to have been an attempt to destroy the residence of E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., were made public today when it became known that Robert Miller, a steam-heating contractor, was in a Wilkesburg hospital with a bullet hole in his hand. According to the story, Miller saw a man creeping about a hedge at the Herr residence Tuesday night. He attempted to intercept the man and three shots were fired at him, one bullet going through his hand. Four pounds of dynamite with a 20 foot fuse attached were found on the Herr lawn. The police were today hunting for the man who shot Miller.

Bang!

That's the way P. A. strikes the smoke-test of thousands of fighting men, afloat or ashore, and fighting men of business. Everybody that smokes it gets enthused for P. A., because it has the quality and the flavor and the something that makes the bell ring when they touch a match to it. You stuff a charge of

into a jimmy pipe or roll a pinch of it into a cigarette and you're on. Tomorrow's the day we get busy celebrating our national independence—and the right day for taking on independence from a parched, stung and smoke-bitten tongue. P. A. means freedom from all that. Get the something that makes a P. A. fan of everyone that trades a dime for the tidy red tin or a nickel for the topky red bag. P. A. in a pipe won't bite you, won't sting you, won't make you run for water. Smoke it all day and it's all the same. You know, the bite is taken out by an exclusive, patented process. Join in the joy-noise of the P. A. army and help get the lights burning early.

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in topky red bags, 5c tins, 10c tins, also in handsome pound and half-pound humidor.

FIND BODIES IN SWAMP

Thought That Man Killed Wife and Mother-in-law and Then Ended His Own Life

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3.—The bodies of S. F. Bennett and two unidentified women were found in a swamp at East Point, a suburb of Atlanta, early today. Wounds indicated that all three had been shot. The bodies of the women were covered with brush, while that of Bennett lay in the open a few yards away.

According to the police there were indications that Bennett killed the two women with a shotgun and after covering their bodies with brush fastened the gun to a stump, stood before it and discharged it with a twirl. The charge tore a great hole in his chest.

While the women have not yet been identified it is thought they were Bennett's wife and mother-in-law. Bennett, who lived in East Point, was last seen on Thursday. He formerly resided at Logansville, Ga.

WHITE SLAVE OPERATORS

Terrible Conditions Unearthed by New York Police—Several Victims Rescued

NEW YORK, July 3.—Standing before County Judge Gibbs, acting as a magistrate in the Bronx county court house last night, Mrs. Della Neely Hanson, a young widow of Bridgeport, Conn., repeated a story of horror which a few hours before had resulted in a roundup of men and women who, District-Attorney Martin said, represented the most daring white slave dealers in New York.

While Mrs. Hanson talked seven men and two women prisoners scowled at her, and four girls who had been caught in the raids sat on a bench on a further side of the room. The girls are being held as material witnesses.

Mrs. Hanson, who is twenty-nine years old and the widow of John Hanson, is the mother of four children. According to her story, she left Bridgeport to come to New York on May 25, and visit Albert Carson of One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street and Brook avenue. Alighting from a train at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and starting for Carson's home she lost her way.

Met a "Police" Young Man
"I inquired my way of a policeman," Mrs. Hanson told the court. "He directed me, and then a young man came up. He was very polite and offered to guide me."

"At the time I had $53 in my pocket, but I had no fear of the man, he appeared so well-mannered. He asked me to have a soft drink and I consented."

"That is the last I remember until next day when I found myself in a park. My clothes were torn and I was in a fearful condition. I realized that I had not found my money. It was safe, but I had no fear of the man, he appeared so well-mannered. He asked me to have a soft drink and I consented."

"That is the last I remember until next day when I found myself in a park. My clothes were torn and I was in a fearful condition. I realized that I had not found my money. It was safe, but I had no fear of the man, he appeared so well-mannered. He asked me to have a soft drink and I consented."

and literally forced me to a house on Morris avenue.

Made Prisoner, She Says
"There they beat me horribly and made me a prisoner. I cannot describe how fearfully I was treated. Men constantly were coming to the house. They took me and threatened to kill me took me to a house in East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street."

"There I was abused more, and days later I was put into an automobile and, guarded by two men, was taken to the saloon of Francesco Masillotti in Portchester. Again I was subjected to fearful treatment. I had been so beaten that my eyes were almost closed and my face was horribly cut."

"Again they put me into an automobile and brought me to a house in East One Hundred and Fifty-fourth street."

It was in this house that Mrs. Hanson was found Tuesday night by City Marshal John C. Moelling, who had gone to serve a dispossess notice. The house was locked from cellar to roof. The marshal broke down a door and found the women alone in the house. She had been stripped of her clothing and was almost a madman. She was taken to Lehigh hospital and was well enough to be taken to court yesterday. Her condition, however, still is serious.

Four Girls Rescued
The story of Mrs. Hanson first was told District-Attorney Martin and he started out with his detectives to make arrests.

In a house in East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street, where Mrs. Hanson for a time was held, the detectives came upon Francis Torretti of No. 25 East One Hundred and Forty-fifth street; Corinne Hanson, No. 519 East One Hundred and Thirtieth street; and Nora Murphy, No. 275 East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street.

These girls, according to the detectives, were being held in the house just as Mrs. Hanson said she had been held, except they were not subjected to beating. These girls at once were taken charge of by the police and held as witnesses.

Next the detectives went to Masillotti's saloon in Portchester where they arrested him and Enrico Grasso of No. 125 Mulberry street. There also the detectives found Amelia De Gray, nineteen, of Greenfield, Mass.

The girl said that she had been brought to New York by Grasso, who told her he was going to take her to visit his sister. He then installed her in the Portchester place. She, too, was held as a witness.

Information given by the Bridgeport widow and the four girl prisoners to Mr. Martin led to warrants being sworn out for Victor Costa, 21, of No. 308 East One Hundred and Fifty-third street; Rosie De Piero, 25, of 65 Eldridge street; Fred Carson, No. 225 East One Hundred and Forty-ninth street; Vincenzo Gafara, and Amelia Gafara and Michael Guarino.

To Make More Arrests
"There are only a few of the arrests I expect to make," said Mr. Martin after all the prisoners had been held. "I have evidence that these prisoners have been supplying girls for $10 each to lower Manhattan, Brooklyn, Harlem, Bridgeport and other towns in the east. Unless I am greatly mistaken we will find other girls who have been traded in by this gang."

In Bridgeport it was learned last night that Mrs. Hanson lived at No. 644 Broad street. She has been working as a servant since the death of her husband and for a time was employed in New York.

Before starting for New York, it was said, she borrowed $25. She then was boarding with a Mrs. J. F. Daley. The day she left for New York a taxi cab called for her and took her to the station. She then left her trunk and much of her clothing in Mrs. Daley's home.

Mrs. Daley told the Bridgeport police last night that a few days later the taxi cab driver had called at her house and said he had come after Mrs. Hanson's clothing. Mrs. Daley would not give up the clothing, saying that if Mrs. Hanson wanted it she would have to call for it in person and pay her board bill. The clothing was still in Mrs. Daley's possession last night.

NEW ENGLAND FAIRS

Many Fairs and Racing Meets to be Held in Coming Fall—Good List Offered for Sportsmen

With a few dates yet to be fixed and a few reports missing, all indications point toward a record breaking number of agricultural fairs and light horse racing meetings in New England during the 1914 season. A list of dates, compiled by the Fitchburg Sentinel for the New England Newspaper Alliance, an organization of 16 of New England's leading newspapers, and of which The Sun is a member, shows that there will be 122 fairs and race meetings during the year in the six New England states.

The figures available at the present time show that Massachusetts again leads with 30, including two race meetings already held; Maine is second with 33; Connecticut is third with 13; Vermont has 15; Rhode Island and New Hampshire four each.

Three race meetings—the first in June for a decade in the east—have already been held in New England, one at Dover, N. H., another at Bangor, Me., and the third, that ending today at Kenosha park, Haverhill, where the second meeting in the new Bay State short chip circuit was held.

Following are the dates (*) indicating fairs and the (†) designating race meetings which are held without the racing adjutant:

International League
NEW YORK, July 3.—There will be no chance in the baseball circuit of the International League this season and the clubs will play out their regular schedule on the dates and in the cities as arranged last spring. This was the announcement made at the adjournment of a special meeting of the organization which was in session shortly after noon until a late hour last night.

President Barrow presided at the meeting, which was attended by representatives of all the clubs. The proposition to transfer the franchise of the Baltimore club to Richmond, Va., which was caused the gathering of club owners.

ANKLE IN PIMPLES ITCHED FEARFULLY
Suffered with Burning and Itching. Swollen Badly. Nothing Helped Until Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Healed Nicely.

Washington, Mo.—"I was taken with a burning and itching on my ankle and suffered one summer with it. My ankle was swollen badly. It was broken out in pimples and itched fearfully and I used to get up nights and scratch it. I would bathe my ankle in salt and water, also soda and rubbed it in flour trying to cool the burning feeling. I had a liquid that would relieve me some at times but later it would break out again. I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment which did me lots of good and I then used a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment, washing with the Cuticura Soap every time the itching began and in a few weeks it was healed nicely." (Signed) Mrs. Robert Sukoruth, Mar. 6, 1914.

Samples Free by Mail
Are your little ones suffering from itching, burning eczema, or other torturing, disfiguring skin troubles? Are you, yourself, worn out with long, sleepless nights and restless days in trying to cure them? Then you should know that a warm bath with Cuticura Soap and a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment will in most cases bring immediate relief, the little sufferers will sleep, tired mothers will rest and peace will fill an undisturbed household. Successful even when all else has failed. Hold over. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address post-card to Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston.

"WILD MAN" KNOWLES

IS GOING TO REPEAT HIS PRIMITIVE MAN STUNT—OFFERS $500 IF PHOTOGRAPHED

Joseph Knowles, who last year went into the Maine woods without clothing and came out in two months with some which he made himself, as told by him in his book, left Chicago on his way to the Sierra Nevada mountains in California. He will seek to repeat his demonstration of living on food obtained without aid of other persons or weapons. This time he is so sure that nobody will see him while he is in seclusion that he will offer $500 reward if he is photographed.

ON HOME RULE BILL

THE PEERS TRY TO REACH A SETTLEMENT—WILL PASS AMENDING BILL

LONDON, July 3.—The debate in the house of lords yesterday on the bill to amend the Irish home rule bill was characterized by general recognition on the part of the unionist peers that some means of settlement must be found and that the amending bill offered the only chance for accomplishing this.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, the Unionist leader, had already announced that it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which threatened and that therefore the unionists would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage.

The Duke of Abercorn, speaking yesterday as an Ulster Volunteer, said he looked upon the bill as the only hope he could see for the avoidance of a most awful calamity. The Marquis of Londonderry, chairman of Ulster unionist council, said the bill was a horrible one, but that he would support it in order to avoid civil war.

The Marquis of Salisbury announced that he would support the amending bill for the same reason, much as he disliked it. He expressed hope that Lord Willoughby de Broke could be induced in the interests of a settlement to drop his amendment for the rejection of the bill.

The Earl of Halsbury, once the most influential of the "Die Hards," hoped so, too, for nothing could be more urgent, he said, than the necessity of making some sacrifice in order to avert civil war.

AUSTRIA BALKED PLAN

GEORGE FRED WILLIAMS, AMERICAN MINISTER TO GREECE, ISSUES STATEMENT

ATHENS, July 3.—George Fred Williams, the American minister to Greece, who recently made public a report of his investigations in Albania, in which he denounced the international commission of control and declared that the present regime in Albania was impracticable, issued a new statement last night, justifying his former statement and emphasizing the danger menacing Greece through the rapid advance of the Albanian rebels.

Mr. Williams professes his new statement by the declaration that it is made without any preliminary understanding with the Epirote insurgent leader, Zogoraphos, or the Greek government, and adds:

"Although my first statement is criticized, as throwing too great a responsibility on Prince William of Wied, I content the following statements, on which the accusations were based, cannot be denied by Prince William.

First, the statement that Prince William, in an insurgent attack on Durazzo, appointed by Prince William commissary general at Argirocastro and Koritza, arranged with Zogoraphos conditions of conciliation. Prince William of Wied never directed the political affairs of Albania without regard to the international commission. On Col. Thomson's return the Albanian ministry rejected the terms he had arranged, and Ezzed Pasha demanded $50,000 men for the purpose of undertaking the campaign against the Epirote. Col. Thomson opposed this, arguing that such a campaign would mean bloodshed and provoke religious hatred that would last many years.

"Ezzed Pasha's plan was dropped, but the prince recalled Col. Thomson, Prince William of Wied is a weak character and the power that nominated him must be held responsible for his actions."

LEGAL NOTICES

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court within and for the County of Middlesex.

Respectfully I submit and represents James Roy, of Lowell, in said County, that he was lawfully married to Josephine Roy, none of parts unknown, at Montreal, P. Q., Dominion of Canada, on the fifth day of May, A. D. 1903, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Josephine Roy lived together as husband and wife in the County of Middlesex, to wit, at New Bedford, Bristol County; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations; but the said Josephine Roy, being wholly regardless of the same, at said New Bedford, on the twentieth day of January, 1905, utterly deserted your libellant, the said desertion continuing to the date of this libel, being more than three consecutive years.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Josephine Roy.

Dated this sixteenth day of June, A. D. 1914.

JAMES ROY.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, Middlesex ss. Superior Court, June 17, A. D. 1914.

Upon the foregoing libel, it is ordered that the libellant notify the libellee to appear before the Justices of said Court, at Cambridge, in said County, on the first Monday of August next, by causing an attested copy of said libel and of the order thereon to be published in The Lowell Sun a newspaper published in Lowell, in the County of Middlesex, once a week, three weeks successively, the last publication to be not less than ten days at least before the said last mentioned day, and that an attested copy of said libel and order thereon be sent by registered letter to the last known residence of the libellee, that she may then and there show cause, if any she have, why the prayer in said libel set forth should not be granted.

WM. C. DILLINGHAM, Clerk. A true copy of the libel and of the order thereon.

WM. C. DILLINGHAM, Clerk.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, Middlesex ss. Probate Court.

To all persons interested in the estate of John F. Manahan late of Lowell in said County of Middlesex, deceased.

Whereas, Carrie M. Ela, as executrix of the will of said deceased, has presented to said Court her petition praying that she may be authorized to release and discharge upon such terms and conditions as may appear by said Court to be proper, two parcels of real estate herein described, to wit:

LOWELL 4-LAWRENCE 6

TO REMOVE PUTNAM
SUPT. OF STREETS

At a meeting of the municipal council, held this forenoon, the following order for the removal of Newell F. Putnam as superintendent of streets was submitted by Charles J. Morse, commissioner of streets and highways, and read by the mayor:

Order, removing Newell F. Putnam from the office of superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell and reasons therefor.

Ordered, by the municipal council of the city of Lowell as follows:

That Newell F. Putnam be removed from the office of superintendent of streets of the city of Lowell pursuant to the provisions of law contained in (Continued to page eight.)

APPEAL FOR SUFFERERS

At a meeting of the Salem relief committee held in the aldermanic chamber at city hall this forenoon it was stated that the entertainment held in the Merrimack Square theatre last night netted the Salem relief fund $225 with $50 outstanding. As a result of a suggestion offered by Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, the committee treasurer, who said he believed there were 3000 people in Lowell who could give $5 more than they had given and there were 500 or 400 who could give $25 more, the following appeal, extraordinary, was issued:

TO THE PEOPLE OF LOWELL
An Appeal from the Committee on Salem Relief.

In the city of Salem, owing to the destruction of shops and factories, a daily payroll of from $15,000 to $20,000 is wiped out, and many thousands of people have no means of support whatever.

It is absolutely necessary that money be raised to supply the bare daily wants of these people, in the way of food alone. There is also pressing need of furniture and bedding.

The disaster seems worse daily, rather than better.

The sums thus far contributed in Lowell are far below what is necessary, and do not yet represent what we believe to be the reasonable giving power of our people as a whole. This can only be because the extent of the Salem disaster is not generally understood.

We, therefore, make this urgent appeal to all people of Lowell to awaken to the dire necessity which confronts the destitute population of Salem and to send at once gifts of money and supplies, but especially money, to the relief committee at the Union National Bank, or the Lowell Trust company, checks payable to P. O'Hearn, treasurer.

This is the Fourth of July. Shall we celebrate it by burning up our money—or shall we celebrate it by sending our money to those whose homes and whose chance of earning daily bread have already been burned?

(Signed)

Dennis J. Murphy, Mayor.
Patrick O'Hearn, Treasurer.
Philip S. Madden, Secretary.

By order of the committee.

Received at the Banks

Mr. Patrick O'Hearn, chairman of the relief committee, told a very interesting and very pathetic story of conditions in Salem as observed and investigated by himself and he urged those who had already given to give more to the extent, if necessary, of straining a point. He allowed that any man who went in Salem, possessed of the milk of human kindness would give half of what he had in his possession before leaving there. Mr. O'Hearn announced the amounts in the banks as follows: Union National bank, $225.29; Lowell Trust company, $125.29.

1000 Loaves of Bread

It was stated at the meeting that the Page Co. had sent 1000 loaves of bread to Salem and that the Bay State Street railway had transported a carload of furniture, clothing, etc., for which the women of Grace Universalist church were chiefly responsible.

The mayor announced additional subscriptions to his fund aggregating $351.50, Richard C. Hemmick, treasurer of the Harvard brewery, contributing $250.

Mayor Murphy made special mention of the following:

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

THE HISTORY OF THE PAST

IS RADIANT WITH THE LIGHT OF PROGRESS

Who would like to go back to store keeping of forty years ago when shopping trips took half a day, for what can be done these days conveniently and pleasantly in an hour where many classes of goods have been arranged under one roof? There will be few that will say that we have ever "felt" in our undertakings. But there is still much to do and every day must make some new mark.

INNINGS	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Runs	Hits	Errors
Lawrence	2	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	2	6	7	2

The clouds which threatened rain during the morning broke away today as the huge motor truck used by the Lawrence baseball team for transporting the team to the cities near at hand rolled through Merrimack square on its way to Spalding park for this afternoon's contest. Louis Pieper, just as long, lean and good natured as ever, was perched up with the driver and returned the greetings of the Lowell fans along the way with assurances of a victory today.

The Lawrence club felt highly elated over their double defeat of the Worcester (leaders) on Wednesday and confidence was written largely all over their respective faces. "Here goes another game for the win column," observed Louis as he untangled his long spindles at the ball park.

The confidence of the visiting team was fully reflected by the members of the Lowell club. The defeat which the local team handed Pittsburgh Thursday after being forced to journey to that town under unfavorable weather conditions seemed to infuse a great deal of ginger into the boys and they hustled out on to the diamond for their batting practice with more than their usual "pep."

Rob Kelly appeared out in a new pair of shoes. The Lowell first baseman announced to his fellow players that the new spikes were sprouting shoes. This interested "Texas" Lohman at once. "You reckon them there shoes'll make you all a sprinter?" asked the southerner innocently. But Rob refused to be caught and backed away from any argument which might entangle him in a running race with "Texas."

Nothing has been heard from Captain Burke since his departure for his home in Brooklyn. Cargo and Dugan, however, are filling in nicely at third and second respectively, although there is no denying that Burke's presence in the lineup would make it stronger. Dugan has been signed up once more on account of his batting in the last two games and may be held at second base instead of Cargo.

Officers Mike O'Neil and Bill Quinn made the first put out of today's game when a much alcoholized fan was ejected by them from the grounds.

When Empire Bannan called the game the line-up was as follows:

Lowell	Lawrence
Dee, ss	lf, Peplowski
Cargo, 3b	ss, Lynch
Stimpson, lf	lf, Luyster
DeGroat, rf	cf, Bruggy
Matthews, cf	2b, Mahoney
Dukette, 2b	3b, Conley
Kelly, 1b	cf, O'Connell
Greenhalge, c	3b, Ambrey
Maybom, p	p, Pearson

First Inning
Lawrence started out after the game in the first inning and scored two runs. Peplowski, the first man up, was passed and took second when Lynch sacrificed. Luyster led off with a single and ran down Peplowski between second and third. Luyster reached first in safety. Maybom grew wild once more and passed Bruggy with two out. Mahoney lifted one to right centre for two bases, scoring Luyster and Bruggy. Conley closed the inning with a grounder to Maybom. Two runs, one hit, no errors.

Lowell got a man on in their half of the first but there was nothing doing in the run column. After Dee failed to connect for even a foul tip Cargo got a life when Lynch juggled his grounder. Empire Bannan called Chick safe, but the decision looked like a bad one. Stimpson forced Cargo at second when he hit to Conley. If Conley's throw to Mahoney had not been wide an easy double play would have been executed. DeGroat sent a long fly into right field which Luyster took handsly. No runs, no hits, one error.

Second Inning
Maybom settled down and but three this city. A collection amounting to about $150, the contribution of the employees was also sent along. Clothing will be forwarded by the employees. The management of the plant, E. W. Barry, Supt. White and President Griffin resided in Salem before coming to Lowell, and therefore is aware of the pressing needs of the people of the stricken city. The action which they have taken is a very commendable one.

Lawrence batters faced him in the second inning. O'Connell was foolish enough to send a grounder at Dee and found the ball awaiting him at first base. Aubrey sent up a foul fly to Cargo. Pearson sent a line drive to Dee. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Matthews belted the ball into deep left field but Peplowski ran back and took the long fly. Dukette lifted one to short left which Lynch took care of. Kelly rapped the ball smartly to right for a single, but Greenhalge sent up an easy fly to Lynch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence 2; Lowell 0.

Third Inning

Lawrence added another one to her score sheet in the third. The first two men were easy outs. Peplowski grounded to Kelly and Lynch popped to Dukette. Luyster, however, doubled to left centre and Bruggy scored him with his second long triple of the game, also to left centre. Mahoney lifted out to Dee behind second base. One run, two hits, no errors.

Maybom could not touch Pearson and the result was a strike out. Peplowski made a wonderful catch of Dee's line drive to left. Pep started after the ball with the crack of the bat against him and caught while still on the dead run. Cargo went out at first on his grounder to Pearson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence 3; Lowell 0.

Fourth Inning

Three Lawrence batters went out in order in the fourth session. Conley found Maybom's curves elusive and punished the atmosphere three times. Bob Kelly took O'Connell's foul fly without seeming effort and Aubrey fell a victim to Cargo when he sent up a high fly between third and the pitcher's box. No runs, no hits no errors.

Stimpson started off Lowell's half of the fourth with a single between Aubrey and Mahoney into right field. DeGroat struck out, his third strike being a high one. The third baseman forced Lynch on the next play, last evening rather strenuous. Matthews lifted the ball over the fence but it was ruled foul by a small margin. Matty compromised, however, by slapping a single into centre-field, Stimpson going to second. Dukette came through in the play with a single to right on which Stimpson scored by fast sprinting. On the throw in to get Stimpson at the plate Matthews went to third and Dukette to second. Alex Pearson was taken out at this point and Fullerton went in to take the place of Lawrence. Pearson has not been right since being overcome with the heat on June 17 but old Manager Pieper thought he could pitch today. He looked badly as he left the pitcher's box. Fullerton walked Kelly on four pitched balls, filling the bases and the crowd went wild. Snubner Greenhalge came through in a pinch and delivered a beautiful single to centre, sending Matthews and Dukette across the plate and tying up the score. Maybom singled to left. DeGroat was coaching on the left base line and stepped into the field and grabbed Kelly as Bob ran into the bag, or at least, Empire Bannan said that he touched him. Kelly was called out according to the new rules regulating this phase of baseball. DeGroat put up a heated argument with Empire Bannan and was warned to the bench. Dee lifted a fly to Peplowski. Three runs, five hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence, 3; Lowell, 3.

Fifth Inning

Fullerton sent up an easy low fly to Dee. Greenhalge dropped Peplowski's third strike but got him at first with a throw to Kelly. Dukette got in front of Lynch's grounder near second but threw wild to Kelly. The runner going to second, Lynch went to third on a passed ball by Greenhalge. Empire Bannan made another bad decision when he called Lynch safe at third on Maybom's throw to Cargo. Luyster duplicated Matthews' performance of the previous inning when he drove a foul ball over the left field fence. Maybom finally walked Luyster and the next man to face him was Bruggy, the slugging catcher of the down-river club, who already had two triples to his credit. Luyster then lazily stole second. Maybom after getting Bruggy in the hole for two strikes, passed him filling the bases. Maybom could not get the ball over to Mahoney and walked him forcing in Lynch with a run. Conley sent a grounder to Kelly, who made the put-out unassisted. One run, no hits, one error.

Cargo was out at first when he groundered to Conley. The latter's stop and throw were all to the good. Stimpson waited out Fullerton's delivery and drew down a free ticket. Conley ran in and took DeGroat's high fly. Matthews struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence, 4; Lowell, 3.

Sixth Inning

Chic Cargo ran out in back of third base and took O'Connell's high foul fly. Harry Aubrey struck out. George Donnelly and Louis Pieper entertained the fans with a duet. Donnelly was in one of the boxes opposite the Lawrence bench and his remarks to the entire Lawrence team as well as manager evoked more than one burst of merriment. Fullerton also struck out. The fans were paying more attention by this time to the remarks of Donnelly than they were to the game. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Dukette started the sixth for Lowell with a wallop to right centre which went for two bases. Kelly was right on the job and dropped a Texas long-ener into left, Dukette going to third. Greenhalge hit to Lynch. Lynch fielded the ball near second base and touched the bag, forcing out Kelly. The Lawrence short stop attempted to make a double play but threw over Aubrey's head allowing Dukette to go. Maybom hit to Fullerton and a double play was the result. Greenhalge being forced at second and Maybom dying at first. One run, two hits, some error.

Score: Lawrence, 4; Lowell, 4.

Seventh Inning

Kelly made a wonderful stop of Peplowski's hard hit grounder and made the put-out without assistance. Lynch drew a pass and Luyster sent him to second with a single to left. "Here is the ball game right here!" yelled Billy Pieper from the third base coaching box. Matthews ran back and made a nice catch of Bruggy's fly. Matthews, again was the man of the moment when Mahoney fled to right centre. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Dee commenced the lucky seventh by flying out to O'Connell in short left centre. Cargo was out on a close decision at first when he hit a slow grounder to Conley. Stimpson went out on a grounder to Lynch. Aubrey making a nice play of the ball at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence, 4; Lowell, 4.

Eighth Inning

Stimpson was under Conley's fly of Texas league variety in left. O'Connell groundered to Dee and was out at first. Aubrey was easy for Maybom and Kelly on his grounder in front of the plate. No runs, no hits, no errors.

DeGroat walked to first without Fullerton showing a semblance of a strike. He tried to take second on a short passed ball by Bruggy but was nailed in the attempt. It was very poor judgment on the part of the Rubie. Matthews was retired at the initial station when he hit sharply to Lynch. Duke went out with the same route that nailed Matthews. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lawrence, 4; Lowell, 4.

Ninth Inning

Fullerton opened the ninth inning for Lawrence with a line to left. Maybom made a poor attempt to field Peplowski's attempted bunt and Fullerton went to second while the runner made first.

Lynch advanced both men over third base, scoring Fullerton and Peplowski. Bruggy drove a hard single through Cargo, Luyster going to third. Maybom got Bruggy off first with a throw to Kelly.

Mahoney fouled to Greenhalge. Two runs, three hits, one error.

Kelly died to Lynch.

Greenhalge struck out.

Weaver went into bat for Maybom.

He went out. Lynch to Aubrey.

REDDING BURIED

The body of E. Redding, who died at the Chelmsford Street hospital a few days ago, was buried this afternoon at the Edison cemetery. Burial took place at 3 o'clock and was under the direction of the J. B. Currier Co. The latter was informed by the pauper department of this city that inquiries had been made at Brockton in relation to the man's identity, but nothing could be learned.

Fourth Edition
A SAFE AND SANE
PROGRAM OF FOURTH

With the exception of the selling of tags practically all business in Lowell will be suspended tomorrow, or at least in the afternoon and evening, in observance of July 4. The day will be observed in a fitting manner and it is predicted that a sane Fourth will be in vogue in this city. There will be no parade or anything of that sort, but band concerts will be given and a number of attractive events in different parts of the city will be carried out to the delight of the many citizens. One of the chief attractions of the day will undoubtedly be the midway at the South common, which will open this evening.

Joseph Urbanovitz Found Guilty of Assault and Battery in Court This Afternoon

Joseph Urbanovitz was fined $10 this afternoon in police court after being found guilty by Judge Enright of assault and battery on Peter Levonski. According to the testimony offered the plaintiff and defendant attended a wedding in Rent's court off Gorham street last Saturday and in the course of the evening the defendant ordered the complainant out of the house and inasmuch as the latter refused to move the defendant struck him over the head with a bottle, inflicting a large wound. The injured man was removed to St. John's hospital, where the physicians took several stitches to close the wound. Urbanovitz paid his fine and returned to his home.

MARATHON RACE

Owing to the congested conditions in Gorham street, that thoroughfare will be dropped from the course for the marathon race, to be held in connection with the Sacred Heart lawn fête tomorrow. John Daly, chairman of the sports committee went over the course today, and at the conclusion of his tour of inspection, decided to map out a new route. The final course, therefore, will be as follows: Start at Belle Grove up First street to Bridge, to Merrimack, to Central, to back Central to Moore, to St. James and enter in the rear of the picnic grounds.

George Whitted, the Cardinals' infield utility man, who with Outfielder Cather was traded to Boston for Hub Purdie, is one of the most aggressive ball players in the business. He has the happy faculty of being always on the jump and doesn't give up the fight until it's over. Stallings should be able to make good use of this youngster in putting a little "pep" into his inner defense.

this number being followed by the presentation of "The Littlest Girl," those taking part being Michael J. Mahoney, Thomas J. Benna, Alex. Williams and Miss Anna Martin. The piece proved a favorite, although it has been produced several times in Lowell and the players were given a great reception.

Miss Flora McLean made a decided hit in her Highland fling and sword dance exhibition. Peter Kane and William Chandler, soloists of St. Patrick's church sanctuary choir rendered selections that brought rounds of applause. Prof. Galloway greatly pleased his audience with his feat of ventriloquism and Miss Esther Mulvey gave an exhibition of fancy dancing that proved very interesting.

Miss Clarence Elmer, a student of the New England Conservatory of Music and a soloist at St. Louis' church rendered vocal selections that brought her a round of applause. A local soloist, Miss Clara Elmer, a local soloist of rare ability delighted his listeners with his songs and witty sayings.

Arthur (Rube) DeGreeff, a prominent member of the Lowell baseball club and a comedian of ability, proved a very interesting entertainer with his humorous poems and sayings. James E. Burns, Thomas Sullivan, Arthur Devlin and others hustled all night in arranging the various acts and in seeing that the different acts while the others and employees in the front of the house worked industriously for the comfort of the patrons.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly had charge of the program and Manager Carroll kindly gave the use of the theatre and all its equipment for the benefit of the Salem sufferers.

THE BUILDING OPERATIONS

Much Activity in Constructing New Dwellings — Real Estate Market

Inspector Frank Connor of the public building department is getting after the owners of some of the dilapidated shacks in this city and has started a crusade against them that will stop only when the old dangerous buildings have been torn down or repaired in a manner that will not endanger the lives of those living therein. In the course of the past week the inspector has notified several owners as to the condition of their properties and also ordered them to repair or tear down the same and in one instance he gave orders to tear down a part of a large brick dwelling.

A number of buildings along the banks of the canal in Suffolk street which were in a rather bad condition and a menace to people, especially in the rear, where large and richly piazzas hung over the water, were condemned and the owners stated that they could not do anything until the water is drawn from the canal which will probably be Sunday. However, they all agreed to take care of their property and as quickly as possible. Mr. Connor was highly complimented for ordering those buildings repaired or torn down, especially by those who are making their homes in them, and by Harry H. Howe who years ago pointed out the danger to children falling through into the water.

The large brick dwelling in Middlesex place which is a landmark in that district has been ordered torn down, that is, a section of it and the owners, the Dugdale heirs, have men at work on the job. The building contains 20 tenements and is two and a half stories in height. Twelve tenements will be torn down, but it is not known what other plans the owners have in mind.

Charles Paille, the local plasterer, has applied for a permit from the municipal council for the removal of a two and a half story wooden structure located at the corner of Ford and Suffolk streets. Mr. Paille recently purchased the building from James T. O'Flahaven and his plan is to move the structure to Mt. Hope street, Pawtucketville, where a foundation has been built. The proposed route the house will travel will be up Ford street as far as Pawtucket street and across the Moody street bridge and into Colonial avenue as far as Mt. Hope street. Then the structure will be taken up Mt. Hope street and converted into a two-tenement house. Mr. Paille said he believes the removal of the building will cost him about $300.

The granting of the permit has been held up by the council on the grounds that the removal of the structure will interfere with traffic and will necessitate the removal of wires and trees enroute. It is understood that a protest will be entered if the house is removed over the proposed route.

On the site now occupied by the building purchased by Mr. Paille, a four-tenement house with two stories on the street floor will be constructed by Mr. O'Flahaven and the latter is waiting until the old structure is removed to begin operations. The building will be of wood with brick veneer and will contain the most modern improvements.

Normal School
The legislature recently voted an appropriation of $1,000 for much needed alterations at the Normal school in Broadway and now a large gang of men are at work on the said alterations. All the ceilings of the building will be kalsomined and the walls plastered. The brick work will be repaired and the sidewalks surrounding the building will be reconstructed, granite walks being put in.

Pine Street School
Employees of the public building department will be put to work on alterations at the Pine street school probably next week. The exterior of the structure will be painted and the roofwork outside and inside will be repaired. The work will cost approximately $500.

Irving Barlow, whose store formerly located on the Chalmers street bridge crashed down to the railroad tracks some time ago, has not yet built a new store but he is doing business just the same, thanks to the courtesy of Commissioner Donnelly who supplied Mr. Barlow with one of the voting booths of the city. The new building was erected on the opposite side of street and will remain there until Mr. Barlow has made plans for a permanent place or until the state primary elections which will be held in September.

Mrs. Ida P. Farrington is having a residence built at 120 Warwick street. The building will be of wood and will contain seven rooms with bath and a steam heating system will be installed therein. The house will be two stories in height and its dimensions will be 24 by 30 feet.

Mrs. Herman J. Smith has plans drawn for the erection of a conservatory at 286 Andover street. The structure will be of wood with glass sides and roof and will be one story in height.

The Latham company has men at work on the foundry building at their corner of Walker street. The roof of the foundry building will be raised and an addition put in for furnaces. The total cost of the work will be about $2200.

In order to conform himself with the orders of the inspector of buildings James Riley of Providence, R. I., owner of the building numbered 123-101 Suffolk street has taken out a permit for alterations to the said building. The foundation walls will be repaired and new sills will be built. The piazza in the rear suspended over the canal will be rebuilt and proper supports will be erected. Mr. Riley is waiting until the water is drawn from the canal before putting men on the job.

M. D. McLaughlin and C. T. Lennon are remodeling their property at 39 Carter street. A story is being added to the old and new floor space will be utilized for a kitchen. Work has been started on the foundation for a six-tenement house at 23 Fifth street. Each tenement will contain four rooms with pantry and bath. The building will be of wood and its dimensions will be 34 by 52 feet. It is being erected by D. M. Kazanjian.

Real Estate Dealers
Abel R. Campbell, real estate and insurance broker, with offices at 103-105 Sun building reports the following sales for the week ending July 2nd:

The sale of the one-family dwelling at the corner of South Walker and Corner streets and numbered at 37 So. Walker street. The house contains eight rooms, pantry and bath. It is equipped with open plumbing, furnace heat and set tubs. The lot contains 1000 sq. ft. of land with a frontage on So. Walker street of 30 feet. The property was sold for Charles E. and Frederick H. Tilton and the purchaser was Hugh E. McPherson of the Swift and Bailey Co. Mr. McPherson will occupy his new home within a few days.

The sale of the two-apartment house at 37-39 Grace street. This house was built for personal occupancy and is of sound construction. Each apartment contains seven rooms, pantry and bath and set tubs. The house is equipped with both steam and furnace heat. Land to the extent of nearly 6000 feet was converted with the house. The grantor in the sale was Miss Grace Scribner of Liberty street and the purchaser was Mr. George K. Topjian, the Central street tailor. One year ago Mr. Topjian purchased through this office the adjoining two-apartment house at 35-37 Grace street. Mr. Topjian purchased solely for investment and will continue to rent the house.

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate broker, offices 61 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week ending Friday, July 3rd:

The sale of a building site situated on the easterly side of Parkview avenue just beyond its junction with Hovey street. They aggregate 16,948 square feet and are assessed at the rate of 66 per foot, totalling $1100. The sale is effected on behalf of Mr. James W. Nodden, the purchaser being Mr. J. Noble Cove of the Massachusetts mills.

Also the sale of a lodging house situated at 50 Kirk street at the head of Paige street. The house has thirteen excellent rooms, heated by steam and equipped with every possible convenience. The sale is effected on behalf of Mrs. Anna E. Potter, the purchaser being Miss George H. Potter. Miss Potter has already taken possession of the premises.

Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a fine cottage property situated at 100 Parkview street in the Highlands section. The house occupies 4500 square feet of land assessed at 100 per foot, the assessment on land and buildings totalling $2500. The sale is effected on behalf of a recent owner, the purchaser coming from out of town.

Preliminary papers have been signed which will locate in Lowell a new small manufacturing concern. The company will locate in a mill property situated in the Belvidere section. This will be a branch of the parent company situated in Boston and operations will be commenced on the opening of final papers in the immediate future. Names and full details will be given as soon as the final arrangements are definitely settled.

Contracts have been closed on the purchase and sale of a six-apartment property situated near Middlesex street in the Highlands section. Parties have been bonded on the purchase and sale of a two-apartment property situated near Westford street. The apartments are absolutely separate convenient and luxurious. The transfer is effected on behalf of a local estate, the purchaser buying for occupancy and investment both.

BENEFIT FOR SALEM SUFFERERS

At Merrimack Square Theatre Last Evening a Big Success

Very Fine Program Produced Mainly by Local Talent.

Commissioner Donnelly Had Charge of the Program

JAS. E. DONNELLY, Organizer

The benefit entertainment conducted at the Merrimack Square theatre last night for the victims of the recent Salem fire was a flattering success, both financially and artistically. The house was crowded to the doors and the receipts were very substantial. The program was elaborate and highly enjoyed. Those who attended while contributing to a worthy cause had no reason to complain over the entertainment, for the bill, which was of the vaudeville kind, was one of the best.

SLEEPLESSNESS FROM INDIGESTION

A slight disturbance of the stomach is enough to keep a person awake all night, though it is scarcely realized until it is cured.

Dye-free pills promote digestion, correct sour stomach, and promptly relieve many cases of sleeplessness. They are absolutely free from all narcotics and should be kept at every bedside as a convenient, agreeable and harmless remedy for this very trying and wearying trouble.

CANOE CAPSIZED AND OCCUPANTS RIGAMORE ENTANGLED IN BARBED WIRE
INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—In an attempt to save the life of Miss Bernice Gibson, 17, who was thrown out of a canoe by a collision with a motorboat, Stuart Barber, 19, lost his own life at Riverdale park here last night. Barber, who was a strong swimmer, leaped from the canoe in which he was riding with a girl companion and after reaching her both became entangled in barbed wire and were drowned.

Switzerland in America Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is in Northwestern Montana. It is the most talked about region in the country today. It seems to be the one place most desired by Summer Tourists who delight in the outdoor life.

It is a curious thing how one can be induced to visit Switzerland, beautiful as it is, before exploring the wonders of Glacier National Park, and particularly in this case, that James E. Coughlin, of Chicago, takes one through from Chicago to the Glacier Park without change. Within the Park comfortable quarters are to be had at Glacier Park Hotel and elsewhere; and the Glacier, the lofty mountains, the crystal lakes filled with gamey trout; the atmosphere of Swissness ruling everywhere, are wonders never to be forgotten.

Those in charge of Glacier Park have seen to it that the cost of visiting and living there is not excessive, and I would like to send you some of our illustrated booklets which tell you about it, and about the cost of going there and staying all there in to see it.

If you will send me your address, I will gladly send you copies free of charge, and answer any questions about the Park that you may wish to ask.

Senate Passes Fisher-Ellis Railroad Bill After Strong Defence by Senator Fisher

BOSTON, July 3.—The senate, after a long debate, yesterday passed to be engrossed, by a vote of 37 to 2, the Fisher-Ellis bill, which authorizes the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad to dispose of its stock in the Boston Railroad Holding company and also authorizes the Holding company to sell the Boston & Maine stock and securities now owned by the Holding company. The bill was put through without amendment in the form in which it passed the house.

The senate had two sessions yesterday, one in the morning and another in the afternoon. The debate on the railroad bill began at the morning session, when the question came on ordering the bill to a third reading, and was continued in the afternoon. Pres. Coolidge left the chair and took the floor to speak in behalf of an amendment proposed by him to put the bill back into the form in which it was originally agreed to by the New Haven people.

Pres. Coolidge's Argument
Pres. Coolidge, speaking for his amendment to restore the bill to its original form, without the "string" reserving for the state the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock from any holder, said:

"The New Haven has the right to reject this bill. It was the money of that corporation, which bought the Boston & Maine stock now owned by the Holding company, and this legislature cannot compel the New Haven to accept for that stock what it deems to be an unfair price, or to sell it under unfair conditions.

"If we pass this act as it is now drawn the New Haven will refuse to accept it and the entire agreement made in Washington will be thrown. Therefore, we will accomplish nothing in that direction, but will bring on litigation and trouble to everybody concerned.

"I offer my amendment to the bill in order to bring it back to its original shape, in which it will be acceptable to the railroad. Then the agreement will be in force and the railroad situation will be cleared up."

Fisher Explains the "String"
Sen. Fisher of Westford, whose name is one of those attached to the bill as it passed the house, began his argument in favor of the bill at the morning session of the senate and continued well into the afternoon session. He said:

"The senator who has just taken his seat has offered us the Moorfield Storey bill, the very bill that was referred to our committee on railroads in the first instance, the one which the committee would not approve.

"Why did we put the 'string' in the bill? Some good lawyers of Massachusetts say that the commonwealth has the right to buy the Boston & Maine stock no matter where it may be sold, whether in California or Mexico. The 'string' in this bill merely recognizes the right of Massachusetts to protect herself. But we don't put that 'string' in the bill to have the commonwealth of Massachusetts buy that stock; we put it in that bill so that whoever buys that stock buys it with the knowledge that the commonwealth of Massachusetts has the right to step in and take that stock, buy it back.

Purpose to Protect Investor
"Adopt the amendment of our honored president and that stock can be sold in blocks tomorrow into foreign hands. The 'string' on that stock is going to bring about the sale of these shares in small blocks to the individual investor and is a protection to the small purchaser, not the speculator. If the 'string' depreciates values, it depreciates them only to speculators and not to legitimate investors.

"The question of the acceptance of this act by the New Haven railroad is not before us and it will not be before us until this bill is enacted. The New Haven railroad can accept this act, but that company takes the responsibility of not accepting it and going into the courts, if it wants to do so.

"Two of the leading railroad lawyers of the commonwealth, one of them an ex-chairman of the railroad commission, have said to me: 'The legislature is absolutely right—keep your 'string' bill.' The railroad commissioners, the governor and the house of representatives, all are agreed on the necessity for this legislation.

"The very fact that the New Haven objects to the 'string' is one reason why it should be kept in this bill. Protect our interests. Conserve the rights of the commonwealth, and do not rush headlong into legislation because of a threat of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The House
The legislature will make an effort to bring this year's session to a close today. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the possibility of prorogation, but hopes of its accomplishment are freely expressed.

The house completed yesterday all the business on its calendar up to the hour of adjournment but has plenty of work for today.

The bill providing "That it shall not be unlawful to operate an automobile on Sunday" was passed to be engrossed after considerable debate.

Mr. Beck charged the house with inconsistency in rejecting a bill to allow a man to work in his household garden on Sunday and then passing the Sunday auto bill.

Mr. Twohig offered an amendment to extend the provisions of the Sunday auto bill so that it might include Sunday baseball, but the speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Mr. Washburn opposed the bill, saying that if legislation was going through giving more laxity to the Sunday laws, it should not be in favor of the men high in Braintree, when the ordinary citizen was denied additional privilege.

Mr. Haines said that certain men have been prevented from operating auto lines on Sunday because competing street railway lines dug up an old law that everybody had forgotten.

"We have no intention of doing so and we should not let them suffer for committing no crime except driving an auto," declared Mr. Haines.

The bill was passed to be engrossed by a voice vote.

Mr. Tufts sought to have killed in the enactment stage the bill providing for a license fee of $100,000 a year for the use of trading stamps. Messrs. Harrington of Fall River, Sheehan and Cargo urged that the bill be enacted.

By a voice vote it was enacted.

Mr. Washburn made an unsuccessful effort to have reconsidered the vote whereby the house passed the bill providing for reorganization of the state board of insanity. By a rising vote, 43 to 69, reconsideration was refused.

The house rejected the bill providing for an appropriation of $30,000 for the improvement of Lake Quannapowitt.

Reconsideration was refused of the vote whereby the house rejected the bill transferring jurisdiction of telephone and telegraph companies from the public service commission to the gas and electric light commissioners.

The resolve providing for an investigation by the public service commission of the subject of street railway and street railroad service in the Metropolitan district was engrossed without debate.

SENSATIONAL MURDER MYSTERY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE REVEALS WIFE'S JEALOUS USE OF THE DICTOGRAPH

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 3.—The murder mystery in a doctor's office in this little Long Island town has turned out to be one of the country's latest sensational cases. Mrs. William D. Bailey, a wealthy resident of fashionable Hempstead, where she lived in comfort and happiness with her husband and two children, was shot to death in the private consulting room of Dr. Edwin Carman, a rich and prominent physician. It was said that she was a stranger to him and had gone to consult him about her health without her husband's knowledge. She was killed by a bullet that apparently was fired through the window of the office. Dr. Carman himself would have been shot, he says, if he had not dodged in time. He says he believes the shot was meant for him. It quickly developed that Mrs. Carman, who had become suspicious of her husband, had had a dictograph secretly installed in his office, running to her room upstairs, so that she could sit there and hear all that was going on in the consulting room when her husband had woman patients. She was jealous of him. She denied that she knew anything of the shooting, but acknowledged that she secretly ripped out the dictograph apparatus after the murder and hid it in the attic because she was afraid it would reveal her suspicions of her husband.

SUN FASHION HINTS

Plaited skirts and plaited tunics are to be a la mode in the fall. Plaits are seen on many smart models. A use of them shown on the gabardine gown pictured here being one that may commend itself to the woman who has an old gown with straight skirt. This long plaited tunic may be adjusted over it, the wide satin girdle being added as a finishing touch. Large fancy buttons adorn the sleeves and the front of the bodice.

CONDITION OF NATIONAL BANKS
WASHINGTON, July 3.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks of the United States at the close of business on Tuesday, June 30.

WIFE QUITS HUSBAND

MRS. PARLOW, 23, GIVES BACK JEWELRY TAKEN AND LEAVES HER HUSBAND

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 3.—Mrs. Georgiana Parlow, aged 23, wife of Cornelius Parlow, 50 years her senior, who ran away from her home last week, taking jewelry and money to the value of $100, claimed by her husband, was not arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. She and her brother, Bert Shaddock, were arrested in North Reading yesterday and brought to this city. The charge against the young wife was not pressed after she had surrendered the jewelry.

Mrs. Parlow, however, refused to live again with her husband, and she and her brother left on the early evening train for Massachusetts.

A SKIN FREE FROM SORENESS IS A COMFORT TO BABIES

Elizabeth Andrews, a Trained Nurse of South Manchester, Conn., says: "In my work as a nurse I always recommend Comfort Powder for babies because it is a comfort and a blessing to heat the skin and keep it free from soreness, and it is a sure preventive of bed sores in the sick-room." Be sure you get the genuine, with signature of E. S. Sykes on box.

SCHOONER ABANDONED

MARY AUGUSTA IS WASHED UP ON ROCKS—CAPT. AND CREW LAND IN POWER BOAT

KENNEBUNK, Me., July 3.—The 47-year-old, two-masted schooner Mary Augusta, abandoned by her crew, was washed up on the rocks at Walkers Point yesterday. One of the masts was down and the cabin was awash. The schooner was built at Ellsworth and owned at Bangor. She registered 175 net tonnage.

Capt. Winfield Tainter of Winterport, his son Raymond and the third member of his crew landed in their power boat, having abandoned the schooner before she reached the rocks. The schooner was laboring in a big sea when she was abandoned. She was a white bound from St. George for Swans Island with 250 tons of soft shingles, when the shrouds gave way and the mast went overboard.

She will be a total loss.

KIDNAPPER PLEADS GUILTY

Antonio Buono, Said to Be "Brains" of New York Gang, Gets From 12½ to 25 Years

NEW YORK, July 3.—Antonio Buono stopped his trial for kidnapping before Judge Wadhams in general sessions court yesterday by pleading guilty and was immediately sentenced to not less than 12½ years nor more than 25 years in Sing Sing prison.

Buono was one of the men charged with the kidnapping of Giuseppe Guimaraes. He is the third of the gang convicted, the others getting minimum sentences of 10 and 30 years. Matteo Pallazola, another of the gang, turned state's evidence yesterday, with a result that Buono suddenly decided to plead guilty. Pallazola declared Buono was "the brains of the job."

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable dealer that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of obline—double strength from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Barely get more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength obline as this is the prescription sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

THEY DO SAY

That P. O'Hearn is a safe man in any event, large or small.

That "Lowell for Lowells" doesn't apply to school board affairs.

That the "safe and sane" Fourth idea applies to those over seven as well.

That to pay some clerks $26 a week is like throwing money away.

That fortune seldom knocks at the door of a loafer.

That the bonfires may go blazing to the sky after all.

That the Elks are planning for a big time at Nubasset.

That the "show" was a success in every particular.

That the Miamen salmon were all to the good.

That even a big girl need not have felt ashamed for playing tag today.

That there is just as much drunkenness in Lowell today as a year ago.

That a man with a lady wife ought not to wear white socks.

That Wrenn is a bird. If you don't believe it consult the dictionary.

That one louch of nature makes the whole world kin. Witness the Salem disaster.

That the Mathews made an excellent choice in electing Walter Powers to the presidency.

That it recalls days of long ago, when you visit an old friend and enjoy his hospitality.

That the city will pay more interest money this year than in any previous year.

That the uniform system of accounting has not yet reached the street department office.

That certain city officials believe that painful duties are best performed by an understudy.

That all the mean acts of his life are quickly brought before a drowning man—or a candidate for office.

That the boys who had bonfires already for the torch are down on the state police.

That Mayor Murphy is in sympathy with what an observant citizen said about countless men at city hall.

That when you break your word you break something that cannot be mended.

That a baby usually yells because a pin is sticking in it. But a college boy hasn't even that excuse.

That Mayor Hurley will make a big attraction at the Hunting Tail Hat cricket game if he comes.

That that postoffice transfer made a hit with the man transferred but with no one else.

That the clerks of the department stores will have a great time on Thursday, July 16.

That you simply couldn't resist buying a tag from those charming young society ladies in Salem last Sunday.

That Manchester had better wait until Salem is built up before it tries it a third time.

That a great deal of precious oil ran into the sewers during the past few days.

That some females of the species have nothing on their mind but their hair—and that is often not their own.

That he who goes by a group of street urchins unseeing and unheeding loses much wisdom.

That the rain has shown many a woman of the house what a little water will do in beautifying the premises.

That if beauty is only skin deep, some people would benefit very much from a skinning process.

That having been anointed with oil and well washed, Miss Lowell feels fine, thank you.

That the local sports enjoyed The Sun's exclusive story on the championship swimming race.

That all upper Corham street is talking about the Chippewa farmers' ball.

That it's a great pleasure to visit an old chum and be joyally entertained.

That a London street man who recently purchased an old auto is getting his bumps.

That the local long distance runners are divided over the opening up to settle the championship at the Sacred Heart lawn fete tomorrow.

That some of our sporty chaps cancelled their reasonable trip to New Bedford since they heard of the bartenders' strike in that city.

That if the meeting at city hall yesterday had been called for men instead of women a corporate guard would have been the limit.

That the new board of government of the Mathew Temperance Institute is expected to do big things the next six months.

That the representative responsible for the "keep intact" clause in that bill did not have the city's best interests at heart.

That quite a few of our young girls took the recent "clean up and paint up" campaign in a personal sense in which it was not meant.

That the grounds of the gas company's office and the New England Telephone Co.'s are an object lesson to all the corporations of Lowell.

That the average happy home is one where the wife gets all she wants to wear and the husband gets all he wants to eat.

That the man who wrote "Distance lends enchantment to the view" had probably gotten an eyeful of a painted woman at short range.

That when a real estate man gets through bragging about a house he wants to show you, you always wonder why he wishes to sell it.

That judging from the chances girls take with paint, powder, X-ray skirts, etc., they must think the men are nearsighted.

That when a sour spinster on the seat opposite has a library book with a lurid love title, it is not well to take the book by the cover.

That the boys who stick close to the vicinity of Merrimack Square evenings are heaving sighs of relief while Officer Crowe is taking his vacation.

That it may take more than the fear of arrest to prevent the setting of several of the larger bonfires around the city.

That Dr. Nate Pulsifer barely had time to get his name on the checklist when he was given a good city job by the school board.

That if this weather continues the crowd will visit the bonfires for the purpose of getting warm, along with the patriotic motive.

That "The Old Timer" started something in the reminiscence line by his reference to "Joe" Pickford, the poet in yesterday's Sun.

That the collections to be held in the churches for the Salem fund on Sunday will greatly swell the amount contributed in this city.

That the residents of Pawtucketville in the Moody street section would greatly appreciate a larger electric car during the noon hour.

That Leo A. King is a clean looking, capable young man who will make good as principal of the famous Edison school.

That most people will appreciate the thoughtfulness of young folks, if they will only leave those cowbells at home tonight under the sink.

That John J. Lyons, now starring before the footlights in the big productions, is growing younger since he left Lowell.

That the sweet young thing at the soda fountain may order a lemon phosphate and the stern-faced lady behind may express a preference for strawberry college ice.

That with the interference of the state police in the usual Fourth of July bonfires the midway on the South common will be the only feasible excuse now for late hours the "night before."

That the local swimmers are not bothering Mike Wrenn any more with challenges since his wonderful performance on the Merrimack last Sunday.

That the singing of Miss Anna M. Bourassa and Ernest J. Dupont at St. Joseph's church last Sunday was greatly admired by all who attended high mass.

That Boston progressives are thinking of sidetracking "Dan" Cosgrove as a candidate for lieutenant governor, and trading out Rep. Carr of Hopkinton instead.

That to give up a fortune of $150,000 to wed the sweetest girl in all the world, sounds fine in a book, in the columns of a paper, or on the stage—but—

That Edwin Mulready of Rockland possesses the ability and the intellect bearing so essential to a proper fulfillment of his new position as commissioner of labor for Massachusetts.

That the rain didn't prevent a goodly number of women from attending the Salem relief committee meeting at city hall yesterday. When it comes to genuine sympathy you've got to hand it to the ladies.

That a gentleman with a placid countenance created much amusement yesterday by walking through Merrimack square in the rain with a mackintosh which made him look like the reincarnation of Raffles the great.

That at 8 a. m. on Thursday a gentleman gravely mounted a ladder in the pouring rain, took from the weather section of Page's clock a bulletin marked "fair" and substituted one which read "rain."

That the fellow who went to Nashua in an auto and met with a mishap, leaving his machine there to be repaired, is beginning to realize that it would be cheaper to patronize home industry.

That those of us who work and want a little sleep, trust that Young America will not exert their strongest energies in an endeavor to wake us up in the wee sma' hours of the morning of the Fourth.

That Ed. Peirce will be there with his little joke as long as the lamp of life holds out to burn. Ed. was at city hall one day and while in the corridor John G. Gordon, the moth exterminator of the park department, passed and greeted him. Quick as a flash, Edward remarked: "What is home without a moth-er?"

SLIDE FOR LIFE NO BILL IN FIRE CASE

Feature at Sacred Heart Lawn Fete—Big Aerial Ship

It would seem as if all roads would lead to Moore street tomorrow afternoon and evening where the parishioners of the Sacred Heart parish are holding their fourth annual picnic on the large parochial grounds. There will be dancing afternoon and evening to the tune of music of a combined band and orchestra. The afternoon will be given over to games and the enjoyment of the evening circuit, menagerie, side shows, African dancer and other refined midship features. The wonderful aerial ship secured with much difficulty will bring a positive thrill to all fortunate enough to secure a place in it as it whirled through the air. A scene of rare beauty will be presented in the evening when the naturally beautiful grounds will be transformed into a fairyland, aglow with lights, large and small. No one will need to leave the premises for lunch or supper as numerous booths will be placed about the grounds where refreshment of all kinds and soft drinks will be had.

The most talked of event will occur in the early evening when Prof. Beckhart will make his desperately dangerous slide from the roof of the school building to the ground. This astonishingly accomplished acrobat whose absolute daring thrilled the multitude who beheld his last demonstration will positively amaze. A very interesting vaudeville bill has been provided and will be presented on a stage placed in the center of the grounds. The program will include a variety of new and carefully selected effects in fireworks will be set off. The whole program for the day's enjoyment is one sufficient to satisfy anyone that the best place to spend the "glorious Fourth" is on the grounds of the Sacred Heart church on Moore street.

DEVELOPMENT OF REPUBLIC
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—Although next to Cuba, the largest of the West Indies, the island which is divided between the Dominican Republic and Haiti is the least known and offers the greatest possibilities for future development. The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the department of commerce, has just issued an interesting monograph entitled "Development of the Dominican Republic" (Special Consular Report No. 82), which treats of the general features of the republic, its agricultural possibilities, its import and export trade in detail and the countries participating in it, its shipping facilities, and other information which should make the publication a useful compendium for consultation as to the country's trade, resources, etc. Copies of the monograph may be procured from the Superintendent of Documents, until Printing Office, Washington, D. THE HOME RULE FIGHT

WHAT THE LIBERALS SAY OF THE BILL—THE UNIONIST STAND

Following is issued by the Irish press agency relative to the home rule controversy:

In his speech at Clonsilla recently Chancellor George said:

"The liberal party were now approaching the final stages in the great struggle to make the democracy predominant in the government of the country. The parliament act was now maturing, and they were not going, as a government to give up until they had reaped the harvest which had been sown at the command of the people who sent them there. There was a demand that the government should break up parliament and run away from the trust the people gave them. What wretched cowards they would be if they did that. Who would ever trust the liberal leaders again if they did it? The prime minister was not made of that kind of stuff."

Mr. Lloyd George, then, declares that to yield to the Tory demand for a general election now would be a betrayal of the trust of the people and would brand the liberals as "wretched cowards." It is clear, therefore, that there will be no general election until next year, and this fact is of first-rate importance to Ireland. The government will choose its own time for an appeal to the country, and the occasion will be one to suit the convenience of the government's friends, and not that of its enemies. As long as the Tory party persists in its opposition to home rule, so long will it be the interest of the Irish people to secure in office and in power a liberal government friendly to Ireland. The Tory cry for a general election is dishonest. It is satisfactory to know that the government has no intention of yielding to it. The government is not afraid of an appeal to the electors, and they apparently recognize their duty and are prepared to discharge it, despite Tory hectoring and Carsonite bluffs.

The Government and "Ulster"
Hardly less important than Mr. Lloyd George's speech at Clonsilla, was Lord Haldane's speech on the 14th at Oxford. Lord Haldane is the liberal lord chancellor. He was formerly secretary of state for war, and a very efficient secretary, too. He is a Scotsman, a scholar, and a man of peace. He is also a statesman and a man of courage.

"As to the question of Ireland," Lord Haldane declared, "the liberal government has made up its mind, and is determined to do its duty."

That statement was received with cheers. It can only mean that, while the government, as Lord Haldane said further on in his speech, would do everything possible to promote a peaceable solution of the "Ulster" difficulty, the cabinet has determined to do its duty. In other words the government will not shrink the duty of preserving law and order and protection for life and property in "Ulster" if that duty be forced upon it by the action of the Carsonites. Evidently Lord Haldane and his colleagues in the cabinet are convinced that, despite the attempts by the Unionists, in high quarters and in low, to seduce the army, the army can be depended upon to do its duty in any crisis that may arise. Lord Haldane's statement will give general satisfaction in Ireland and in Great Britain. Nobody in Ireland or in Great Britain wants to see rebellion or civil war in "Ulster."

The Unionist Position
In marked contrast to the attitude of the cabinet, as represented by the lord chancellor, is the attitude of the Unionists as evidenced in the speeches of Sir E. Carson and his able co-leader, Mr. F. E. Smith. Speaking at Belfast on Saturday last, Sir Edward Carson said:

"They had not long to wait for the climax in this controversy. The men who were to their arms, and complete their preparations, but not in a spirit of aggression. Ulster they were going to keep at all hazards."

According to Mr. A. V. Nicholson of the London Daily News, who has been in Belfast, the Carsonites are preparing to set up a provisional government in "Ulster," and their plans may take practical shape in the course of a month from now. But well-informed men on the spot do not credit this statement, nor another statement of Mr. Nicholson's, that the Belfast bankers are most anxious for this development. The Belfast banks would lose most to lose by the setting up of a provisional government with Carson as dictator.

GUY PHILLIPS ENDS LIFE

SHOT HIMSELF IN MISSOURI PACIFIC OFFICES IN NEW YORK LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, July 3.—Guy Phillips, assistant secretary of the Missouri Pacific Railway Co., shot and killed himself in the offices of the company on the eighth floor of a big Broadway office building late last night. His physician said he had been a sufferer recently from despondency. Mr. Phillips, who was an officer or director of numerous corporations besides the Missouri Pacific, was seen early this morning at his desk in the record room of the Missouri Pacific offices. An hour later the physician, who had been called to the room, saw that the door of the room was still open, but that Mr. Phillips was lying across the desk. Investigation showed the man dead from a bullet wound in the temple. The revolver with which the shooting had been done was lying under the chair.

On a table lay a note which asked that his wife in Darien, Conn., be notified.

It is requested that notification be given A. H. Chief, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific at Newburgh, N. J., and Dr. Henry Moffatt, Mr. Phillips' physician in New York.

Mr. Moffatt hastened down from New York when notified of the tragedy but Schuyler Phillips, a nephew of the dead man had already been communicated with and reached the company's offices before the physician arrived. Schuyler Phillips, immediately telephoned to his own mother, Mrs. S. A. Phillips in Darien, and through her Mrs. Guy Phillips was informed of her husband's death. Mrs. S. A. Phillips sent word that she

SHOT HIMSELF IN MISSOURI PACIFIC OFFICES IN NEW YORK LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK, July 3.—Guy Phillips, assistant secretary of the Missouri Pacific Railway Co., shot and killed himself in the offices of the company on the eighth floor of a big Broadway office building late last night. His physician said he had been a sufferer recently from despondency. Mr. Phillips, who was an officer or director of numerous corporations besides the Missouri Pacific, was seen early this morning at his desk in the record room of the Missouri Pacific offices. An hour later the physician, who had been called to the room, saw that the door of the room was still open, but that Mr. Phillips was lying across the desk. Investigation showed the man dead from a bullet wound in the temple. The revolver with which the shooting had been done was lying under the chair.

On a table lay a note which asked that his wife in Darien, Conn., be notified.

It is requested that notification be given A. H. Chief, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific at Newburgh, N. J., and Dr. Henry Moffatt, Mr. Phillips' physician in New York.

Mr. Moffatt hastened down from New York when notified of the tragedy but Schuyler Phillips, a nephew of the dead man had already been communicated with and reached the company's offices before the physician arrived. Schuyler Phillips, immediately telephoned to his own mother, Mrs. S. A. Phillips in Darien, and through her Mrs. Guy Phillips was informed of her husband's death. Mrs. S. A. Phillips sent word that she

NARROW ESCAPE FOR SHERIFF WHO KILLS ONE TRAIN ROBBER AND WOUNDS ANOTHER

PENDELTON, Ore., July 3.—George MacDuffey, a deputy sheriff of Harper, Ore., fought a single handed battle with train robbers in the aisle of a chair car 60 miles east of here yesterday, killing one and wounding another. He missed death himself when the westerner's inevitable pocket comb with the upper left hand vest pocket slowed down a bullet aimed at his heart.

The dead man was identified as Hugh Whitney, a desperado, known for depredations in Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. He wounded companion and a third robber were trailed by horses. They got about $200 from the express car of the train, one diamond

THE SPELLBINDER

Speaking of private secretaries and other luxurious jobs that "are not consistent with good, economic and reform politics" Mayor Murphy has his private secretary and Commissioner Brown, not to be outdone, has a private secretary in the person of John C. King, and a private coachman into the bargain, in the person of George C. Evans, while Commissioner Morse, now enjoys the services of a private chauffeur, who like the others is not working for his health. While certain official organs try to convince their readers that last year's government is responsible for the increase in the tax-rate, as a matter of fact last year's administration had nothing to do with it, while these extra positions among other things will be found to be helping some in the boost of the tax-rate for 1914.

The Springfield Junket

While they haven't been saying much about it some of the commissioners are rather raw over the manner in which Mayor Murphy put it over them on that Springfield junket. His Honor had agreed to go along with the bunch and it is said had made all preliminary arrangements. Then came the newspaper criticism and his Honor decided to remain away, improving his time by trying a case, which while the decision went adversely, was better than junketing.

WHAT NEURASTHENIA IS

Neurasthenia is a condition of exhaustion of the nervous system. The causes are varied. Continuous work, mental or physical, without proper vacation periods, without proper attention to diet and exercise, also worry over the struggle for success, are the most common causes. Excesses of almost any kind may produce it. Some diseases, like the grip, will cause neurasthenia. So also will a severe shock, intense anxiety or grief.

The symptoms are over-sensitiveness, irritability, a disposition to worry over trifles, headache, possibly nausea.

The treatment is one of nutrition of the nerve cells, requiring a non-alcoholic tonic. As the nerves get their nourishment from the blood the treatment must be directed toward building up the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and with proper regulation of the diet have proved of the greatest benefit in many cases of neurasthenia. A tendency to anemia, or bloodlessness, shown by most neurasthenic patients, is also corrected by these tonic pills. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Two useful books "Diseases of the Nervous System" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" will be sent free by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if you mention this paper.

How Did "Red" Vote

Of course you recall the visit of Detective Burns to the board of Deeds banquet when the famous detective took occasion eloquently to laud Superintendent Welch to his face as one of the greatest police heads the country has ever known, subsequently saying the same thing about the police heads of all the cities in which he spoke? At the recent convention of chiefs of police held at Grand Rapids, Mich., at which Supt. Welch was in attendance, the name of Detective Burns was proposed for honorary membership and was thrown down with a resounding slam. As Al Winn used to say to his ball players when things were breaking bad: "It is not who won the battle, but how did you fight?" Ergo, whether or not the famous detective was "run down" by the country's chiefs of police, it is how did Redmond Welch vote on the question. After the fine lot of bouquets that Detective Burns handed the local superintendent of police in the presence of the city's substantial citizens one would expect in the reports of the Grand Rapids convention to read of Lowell's chief using his eloquence in behalf of Burns, but the papers contained no such information.

Police Station Crowded

While we have it from Supt. Welch, since his return from Grand Rapids, that Lowell is particularly free from crime, it was necessary Saturday night and Sunday to "double-up" at the police station by reason of the fact that there were not enough cells to accommodate all who were taken in. During the past campaign the fact that there were more prisoners than cells in the police station at one time, would call forth hot criticism from the opposition press. The fact that a 17-year-old boy was arrested for drunkenness recently and no apparent effort was made to ascertain where he obtained his liquor also would have called forth violent criticisms from press and public, but now nothing is said. Evidence in the cases of the houses of ill-fame that have been taken to court recently showed that they all started in Lowell since the first of the year, but that fact attracted no comment as the "Big Chief" says: "Lowell is particularly free from crime." Conditions in Lowell are no better, or not worse than they ever were, but they are being more successfully hidden from the public.

Hereditarily Again

My friend, the Old Timer, hands me the following editorial that appeared in

The Sun 25 years ago:

"The Boston Record's political man has been looking over the political field and he finds that Pa Jewett knows all the society grips from the 33rd degree Mason to the Hibernian Rifles." But Pa had nothing on his enterprising grandson, Victor, for Vic is there with the glad-hand for all comers, and can say "Conastantnu," "Comment ca va" or just plain "How be yer" with equal eloquence and sincerity. By the time that Vic gets ready to run for senator he will have become proficient in the language of ward 2, as she is spoke there, and will be there with the "Chicynas," which, phonetically spelled, is handing the "how-do-you-do" in modern Greek.

Speaking of Road Oil

A correspondent who evidently is interested in oil sends me a marked copy of the annual report of the superintendent of streets of the city of Cambridge for 1913, with a few personal observations written in lurid red pencil on the cover of the report. The portion marked reads as follows:

"Several different kinds of road oil were used during the season. We applied ourselves, 15,585 gallons of Huelley 22, Tuxcoll, Standard 40, Duxcoll, Indian Asphalt Oil, Asphaltol, Texas oil and Tavis Oil. In addition to this amount, there were 124,225 square yards treated with Standard 30 at one and two-tenths cents per square yard."

My correspondent writes beside the jury for not indicting certain members of the former administration, the grand jury's action simply emphasizing the fact as pointed out by the former mayor that our charter has weak spots. The grand jury finds that while certain commissioners have expended more than the total amount of their respective appropriations, it would be impossible to convict them for so doing as the charter is at present framed. The one little word "knowingly" which the committee of 60 who framed the charter, whether "knowingly" or not, inserted in the section making it a criminal offence to overrun an appropriation makes it impossible in the opinion of the grand jury to get a conviction in this particular case. The burden of proof would be on the government to show that the commissioner overran his appropriation "knowingly" with malice aforethought, as it were. Another weak point in this section comes in the opening sentence which reads: No officer of said city, except in the case of extreme emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property shall expend knowingly in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation therefor duly made in accordance with law, etc."

That Postoffice Transfer

There is considerable criticism and not a little indignation among the employees of the local postoffice over a little political trick that was recently pulled off at the federal building. It seems that a Lowell man who has been employed in the postoffice department at Washington has been transferred to the permanent clerical force at the local postoffice taking a position for which another local young man has been substituting for some time. This substitute was in line for promotion after long and faithful work and it is said was within reaching distance of the permanent position when the man from Washington stepped in and took the plum while the other man will be obliged to continue as a substitute for several more years. Occasionally a carrier or a clerk may exchange positions with a man in another city and in this case no injustice is done, but in the case of the transfer the substitute has been getting but little work during his preliminary period and after faithfully fulfilling his duties he is suddenly notified that some one has been jumped over his head and that he must continue as a substitute.

Why Not Show Us

The "Nota Bene" man in the Center-Citizen a few days ago remarked: "If we do spend $250,000 on the water system, let's be sure we are going to use it when it is done. A lot of costly work was done in the past two years that seems never yet to have been of any use whatever."

As there are some of us from Missouri will the "Nota Bene" man kindly point out a couple of cases of costly work done in the past two years that has been of no use.

Colonel, Why Did You?

After all the hard work and planning of the hundreds of men and boys who were going to give us a "night before" celebration without expense to the city by means of huge bonfires, Col. Carmichael consulted the state police and they in turn sent back word to him to "can" the bonfires. The Fort Hill bonfire seemed to be a reasonable distance from any building until the sudden fire occurred, but now people are afraid. The State street pile is on the bank of the Concord river, though perhaps rather close to tenement property. The young men regret that the colonel did not act sooner so that their labor might be avoided. But the commissioner shoulders the responsibility. Years ago one "Bob" Adams annually built a bonfire at the corner of Bridge and First streets and annually was arrested for so doing, but there was always money galore to pay his fine when he appeared in police court, his only trouble being to get the police out of the way long enough to get the fire started. In the present case with the recent rains, the bonfires must be pretty well soaked so that there might be considerable difficulty in getting them to burn. Still, the piles are likely to be "set off" on schedule time unless guarded by the police.

The Grand Jury's Report

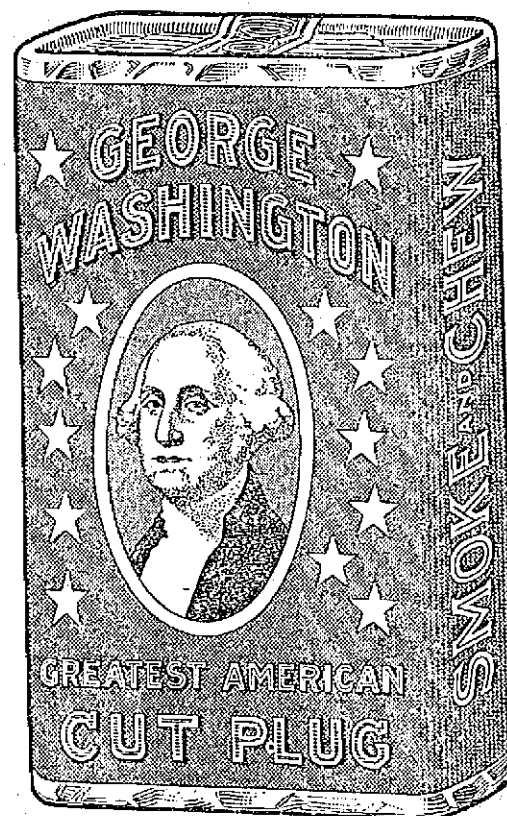

Over a year ago, Former Mayor O'Donnell, in an address on the Lowell charter, before the League of American Municipalities at Buffalo, N. Y., pointed out some of the weak spots of our charter and if I remember rightly was roundly criticized therefor by the Courier-Citizen. Now the Grand Jury is criticizing the charter for not indicting certain members of the former administration, the grand jury's action simply emphasizing the fact as pointed out by the former mayor that our charter has weak spots. The grand jury finds that while certain commissioners have expended more than the total amount of their respective appropriations, it would be impossible to convict them for so doing as the charter is at present framed. The one little word "knowingly" which the committee of 60 who framed the charter, whether "knowingly" or not, inserted in the section making it a criminal offence to overrun an appropriation makes it impossible in the opinion of the grand jury to get a conviction in this particular case. The burden of proof would be on the government to show that the commissioner overran his appropriation "knowingly" with malice aforethought, as it were. Another weak point in this section comes in the opening sentence which reads: No officer of said city, except in the case of extreme emergency involving the health or safety of the people or their property shall expend knowingly in any fiscal year, any sum in excess of the appropriation therefor duly made in accordance with law, etc."

That "extreme emergency" is farcical even as is the word "knowingly" and its uselessness was shown through another section when Commissioner Morse recently came to the conclusion that he needed an automobile of certain make and attacked another alleged emergency clause that permitted him to make an immediate purchase, "the preservation of the public peace, health and safety," requiring the immediate purchase of an automobile and the employment of a chauffeur to ride the commissioners to Springfield and subsequently to ride the commissioner of streets about town. The effort of Commissioner Morse to remove Superintendent of Streets Putnam demonstrates another weak spot in the charter. If a commissioner is to be held responsible for the departments under him he should have the power to choose his own subordinates from the head of the department down the line. Suppose the head of a department is unfriendly toward the commissioner over him, but has three votes in the municipal council, as the charter reads now, these three votes can hold him in office even though he may make life miserable for the man over him and who is responsible for his actions. It is understood that one of the local representatives is framing up some new legislation relative to the city charter of Lowell. On the whole the charter is right and the representative mustn't make the mistake of trying to make changes of a radical nature, but there are a few weak spots in it that should be attended to, especially the section relative to overrunning appropriations.

FOURTH OF JULY

Whether it is that the American race is still young enough to be thrilled by patriotic things as children are thrilled by their mother's tales of the olden times, or that our matter of fact business life makes the reaction all the more acute, certain it is that the celebration of the Fourth of July, popularly but erroneously called the "National" holiday, is more spontaneous and enthusiastic than the national celebrations of any other people. It may be added that it is also more noisy, though lacking the feature of becoming a national holiday. Enthusiasm for the glorious Fourth and its night before is handed down from sire to son, and to young America it is the day of days, with the possible exception of Christmas. Without apparently realizing the cause for all the patriotic commotion, or appreciating its significance, young and old, school and soldier, native and immigrant, people each other in the crowded streets, each rivaling the other in the desire to work off the surplus enthusiasm that seems to bubble up in the American nature on the annual celebration of the day that commemorates the dawn of American independence.

A stranger coming to one of our leading American cities on the Fourth of July might well be pardoned if he supposed that the day was more in honor of license than of liberty, but he would find on investigation that deep down under the noisy externals, is a full appreciation of the liberties that followed the adoption of the declaration of independence on July 4, 1776. Then the disaffection that had been growing against the English king and the English government had found practical expression in the wars of the protesting colonies. Lexington and Concord had seen the glorious triumph of the gallant rebels over misrule. Washington had taken command and the siege and evacuation of Boston were over. The difficult task of throwing off tyranny was practically accomplished, and with a still higher purpose the founders of our government got together and framed the matchless declaration of independence which, after centuries of all manner of government, proclaimed to the world the right of the people to govern themselves. Indeed it is doubtful if the Magna Charta or any other document in the history of the world had the influence on after ages that this declaration of our own country had. Consequently without improperly all countries that enjoy any measure of democracy may unite with America in celebrating an event which is wise in its significance than can be measured in the space from the Atlantic to the Pacific shores of this free country.

It is to be regretted that to many the Fourth of July is a day of noise and American over-abundance of spirits, unrelated to any event that gives it dignity or spirituality. For such it loses its special significance and though the authorities are more than usually tolerant, it is questionable if the annual orgy of noise and sleeplessness adds an iota to the prestige of America or counts for anything in the furthering of the patriotic spirit. With growing success many progressive interests have sought to invest the occasion with more appropriate observances, and though a change from the old noisy order may not be popular, it cannot be figurative to the growth of a healthy public spirit. In the greater cities it is becoming the practice to hold historical pageants and public celebrations, and the citizens enjoy the occasion with as much as formerly without incurring the danger that frequently attended it in the past. An aftermath of death and injury did much to cloud the patriotism of less restrained days.

In our own city it is to be hoped that the citizens will enter into the celebration of the Fourth with all their old zest, that they will be happy with their children, that they will attend the various patriotic observances and go on the common to be a part of the vanity fair for which Lowell has become famous. They should not forget, however, that horns, bells and explosives will have little meaning unless they are connected with the birth of genuine liberty in the stirring days of 1776 when the famous declaration of independence was signed, and when modern America was born.

PENSION SYSTEMS

It is to be hoped that for the next few years applications for pensions will be made to state and city by all manner of public employees, as they have been made this year, for nothing would tend to a more speedy reform in pension conditions than utter abuse—and we are growing nearer to this stage daily. Even the people who now are the most enthusiastic about the payment of pensions to every variety of undeserving public servant will some day realize that the policy which bleeds all the people for the very much privileged few is a policy that will soon impose a greater degree of public hardship than the public will bear patiently. When reaction comes, as it must unless there is a change in conditions, those who really deserve pensions may be injured because of the pernicious activity of those who brazenly live on public beneficence.

A short time ago the legislature killed a bill which had for its object the establishment of a wholesale pension system, to be supported in part by contributions from state, county and city employees. If such a system were adopted it would reform many abuses of the present though it is not certain that it might not substitute some equally as glaring. It would, however, have established the saving principle that pensions are permissible on an insurance basis, the individual or group to be pensioned paying in part for the protection which he or they later enjoy. This is the policy in vogue in Germany and is quoted by political economists as the latest in the pension idea, but it is a policy which is not yet very popular in Massachusetts. Why should a public official approve of a pension towards which he must contribute, when he can get one for the asking, towards which he contributed nothing, either in money or service? To pay any official a pension merely because he wishes to retire to private life is to admit that he was not sufficiently paid for his services, and there seems little difficulty as yet in filling the ranks of public employees.

The pensioning system in Massachusetts is chaotic and unscientific and what is more to the point it is extortionate to the public in the last degree. Three-fourths of the pensions granted are undeserved, and still, demands are made as though the treasury were bottomless. In view of this, the public clamor against the high cost of living and the high cost of government sounds somewhat inconsistent.

THE UNLIGHTED BONFIRES

To those who have seen the waterlogged condition of the bonfires that were meant to usher in the Fourth, there will be little disappointment in the refusal of the state police to grant permission for their lighting. It would take a great deal of kerosene or some other such substance to get them going, and then it is to be feared the result would not be very spectacular, as there would be more smoke than flame. Those who have worked hard to pile up the great structures will undoubtedly feel chagrined, but they may find consolation in the fact that by waiting until the pile dries and disintegrates they will have done a greater service than by burning up such a fine pile of useful wood in a vain display.

THE RAILROAD BILL

The almost unanimous approval to the Fisher-Elis bill in both branches of the legislature may not predict the ultimate settlement of the railroad question in this state but it indicates, at least, that the legislature recognizes the public disgust regarding the whole question and will welcome any measure that promises to end the present uncertainty. Evidently the protest of the railroad against the "string" provision had little weight with our legislators and it is not probable that the railroad view will influence the governor who has already expressed his approval of the successful bill. If the New Haven would effectively protest against the provision which provides that the state may eventually purchase the stock, it must take the matter to the courts.

The case of Brigadier-General Evans, who has charge of the eastern division of the army again calls attention to the determination of President Wilson to prevent any misrepresentation of the administration by officials of the army or navy. General Evans was reported as criticizing the government in a speech made in New York last week, and the publication of his alleged remarks called for a speedy explanation from headquarters. In this President Wilson is certainly acting wisely as it is for army and navy officials to do as they are bid unquestioningly, and to say nothing derogatory to their superior officers while in active service.

Col. Carmichael and Chief Saunders may be excused if they take extreme precautions against fire risks around the Fourth. The Salem cavalry has demonstrated the need of the greatest care.

Those who have been driven out of town on previous years by the noise of the Fourth celebration and by the heat of the season are apt to stay at home this year.

The opening of the playgrounds on Monday is undoubtedly looked forward to by hundreds of those who have enjoyed the playgrounds in previous years. The playgrounds are a great benefit to the city, and it is to be hoped that they will be well patronized. The playgrounds are a great benefit to the city, and it is to be hoped that they will be well patronized.

joyed them in previous years and by others to whom supervised play will be a revelation of delight. Summer playgrounds deserve a greater degree of support than Lowell gives them officially.

There will be no official celebration but, nevertheless, Independence day will be observed with due respect and patriotic fervor.

The Tag Day girls made a splendid start and they have shown what a power woman is in a good cause.

Many of the mill people will enjoy their vacation next week. Let us hope they will have reasonable weather.

Lowell will apparently do her duty towards the Salem sufferers. The fund is growing rapidly.

Don't take any risks with dangerous fireworks on the Fourth.

Independence day, 1914.

BUSINESS AND THE MINIMUM WAGE
The Massachusetts minimum wage commission is making an earnest effort to get at the lowest possible figure at which a woman can maintain herself in three weeks out of her working life. Many are inclined to think such investigations, but just why they feel that way about it is hard to make out. As there is nothing more important on this earth than the health and industry of ordinary men and women, the great fundamental forces of the nation, and facts about their living, breathing men and women are of more importance than any which can be dry-as-dust histories.

TANGO TALK

"You may get to heaven if you tango, but you can't do it there," graciously remarks the Binghamton Press. Without disputing for a moment the authority of the tango, we arise long enough to remark that if the dictum is accepted there are a lot of people who will never struggle hard to get there, and some who will get there without the tango—Schenectady Union-Star.

SALEM NEEDS

Cardinal O'Connell's cable from Rome advising that all of the collections in the archdiocese of Boston for the relief of the Armenian sufferers in the most thoughtful act in connection with the awful fire. In this case charity begins at home and for a while the money abroad and in other parts of the country and to give it to the broken ones whose loss comes so close to us—Malden News.

SIMPLE CELEBRATION

The Glorious Fourth is to be celebrated in a very informal manner in this city in 1914. This will be a marked contrast to the elaborate observance last year when a parade was followed by a musical program, and a great credit to Newburyport and to the various nationalities which make up its population. The bonfire will be about the only feature of the celebration, and the day will be spent as individual taste dictates—Newburyport Herald.

SUFFRAGE QUESTION

President Wilson again tells the woman suffragists that suffrage is a state and not a federal question, and that if he were incidental enough the federal government would not consider the question of equal rights. This naturally does not satisfy the women, but what are they going to do about it? The states have the right, by their several constitutions, to establish the qualifications of their voters, and the national constitution leaves the matter to the states—Newport News.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

The trade journals report further improvement in collections in the west, and merchants in the wheat belt request shipment of goods purchased by the west. Trade conditions in Canada are reported improving slowly. Optimism gradually is replacing pessimism on the trade and wagon—Brooklyn Times.

THE OWL THEATRE

The latest story of the series of "The Perils of Pauline" will be shown on Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4. In the present adventure she is kidnapped by bad westerners engaged by one of her enemies, and she is later rescued by her sweetheart who rushes to her aid. The climaxes are stirring and as usual the photography is excellent. "The Voice of the Phone" is a two part comedy, on part being shown today and tomorrow, and the rest of the story will be flashed on Monday and Tuesday. It is of the rapid-drama kind, and will be enjoyed by lovers of good clean and clever plays. A scene of methods employed by detectives and police officers called the third degree is shown in one number of the play, and the whole plot abounds with unusual situations and good acting. "Across the Hall" and "The Telephone Strategy" are two other good dramas to be shown before the other two weeks. Jack Dalton will ring, and the sliding roof will keep you cool, even in the most torrid heat.

LAKEVIEW PARK

The new program being offered at Lakeview theatre for the last half of the current week is proving one of the most attractive of the present summer and includes a liberal number of both comedy and dramatic subjects. As a special feature for July Fourth at Lakeview the management has arranged for a display of fireworks.

ROOT OUT OF RACE WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

"YOUNG JIM" WADSWORTH MAY GET HIS SEAT IN UNITED STATES SENATE

JAMES W. WADSWORTH JR.

NEW YORK, July 3.—James W. Wadsworth—"Young Jim"—will probably be the choice of a majority of the republican organization leaders for the United States senatorship nomination, and it is anticipated that his friends will soon begin a canvass in his behalf, now that Senator Elihu Root is out of the race. William Barnes, state chairman, is expected to favor Wadsworth. Mr. Barnes fought long and hard for the nomination of Wadsworth for governor at the convention which renominated Governor Hughes.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Arnold Daly, surrounded by a superb company, appears in the thrilling play, "The Port of Missing Men," at the B. F. Keith Theatre today and tomorrow. Yesterday very large audiences saw this absorbing five-reel picture. The story told holds at every scene, and while there have been more sensational photo-dramas at this theatre, none has held the regular run of this kind of a tale of intrigue and the efforts to land a pretender on the throne of Estruria is told, with all of the details incumbent on plotting. How the real thing is done is told in the film. The efforts are made to locate him, is the nub of the whole affair. The acting of Mr. Daly is just what one would expect from so fine an artist. In addition to this feature the picture, "The Dogs of War," and "The Selig 'Willie's' Haulout," are shown. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

YOTONS

"The Call of the Tribe," a two-part Indian picture by the Kalem company, is one of the best western pictures we have ever shown. The story is a little out of the regular run of this kind of a story and the acting of the different parts is well taken care of by a selected cast.

The Pathé Weekly is full of wonderful happenings from the different cities and towns throughout the world. The Pathé Daily has a different subject each day similar to the Salem fire. "Beans," an Essanay comedy, will be shown by the regular program. If you are weary just to watch how a young wife cooks them.

The climaxes are stirring and as usual the photography is excellent. "The Voice of the Phone" is a two part comedy, on part being shown today and tomorrow, and the rest of the story will be flashed on Monday and Tuesday. It is of the rapid-drama kind, and will be enjoyed by lovers of good clean and clever plays. A scene of methods employed by detectives and police officers called the third degree is shown in one number of the play, and the whole plot abounds with unusual situations and good acting. "Across the Hall" and "The Telephone Strategy" are two other good dramas to be shown before the other two weeks. Jack Dalton will ring, and the sliding roof will keep you cool, even in the most torrid heat.

ROOT OUT OF RACE WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

"YOUNG JIM" WADSWORTH MAY GET HIS SEAT IN UNITED STATES SENATE

JAMES W. WADSWORTH JR.

NEW YORK, July 3.—James W. Wadsworth—"Young Jim"—will probably be the choice of a majority of the republican organization leaders for the United States senatorship nomination, and it is anticipated that his friends will soon begin a canvass in his behalf, now that Senator Elihu Root is out of the race. William Barnes, state chairman, is expected to favor Wadsworth. Mr. Barnes fought long and hard for the nomination of Wadsworth for governor at the convention which renominated Governor Hughes.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Arnold Daly, surrounded by a superb company, appears in the thrilling play, "The Port of Missing Men," at the B. F. Keith Theatre today and tomorrow. Yesterday very large audiences saw this absorbing five-reel picture. The story told holds at every scene, and while there have been more sensational photo-dramas at this theatre, none has held the regular run of this kind of a tale of intrigue and the efforts to land a pretender on the throne of Estruria is told, with all of the details incumbent on plotting. How the real thing is done is told in the film. The efforts are made to locate him, is the nub of the whole affair. The acting of Mr. Daly is just what one would expect from so fine an artist. In addition to this feature the picture, "The Dogs of War," and "The Selig 'Willie's' Haulout," are shown. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

YOTONS

"The Call of the Tribe," a two-part Indian picture by the Kalem company, is one of the best western pictures we have ever shown. The story is a little out of the regular run of this kind of a story and the acting of the different parts is well taken care of by a selected cast.

The Pathé Weekly is full of wonderful happenings from the different cities and towns throughout the world. The Pathé Daily has a different subject each day similar to the Salem fire. "Beans," an Essanay comedy, will be shown by the regular program. If you are weary just to watch how a young wife cooks them.

THE OWL THEATRE

The latest story of the series of "The Perils of Pauline" will be shown on Friday and Saturday, July 3 and 4. In the present adventure she is kidnapped by bad westerners engaged by one of her enemies, and she is later rescued by her sweetheart who rushes to her aid. The climaxes are stirring and as usual the photography is excellent. "The Voice of the Phone" is a two part comedy, on part being shown today and tomorrow, and the rest of the story will be flashed on Monday and Tuesday. It is of the rapid-drama kind, and will be enjoyed by lovers of good clean and clever plays. ROOSEVELT STILL TALKING

CALLS DU BOIS "INSTRUMENT"—ASSAILS ADMINISTRATION ON COLOMBIA TREATY MATTER

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 3.—If the Wilson administration puts through the treaty with Colombia, providing for the payment of $25,000,000, declared Theodore Roosevelt in a statement last night, it will forfeit the right to the respect of the people of the United States. Col. Roosevelt's statement was drawn out by that of James T. Du Bois, former minister to Colombia, who assailed the acts of the Roosevelt administration in connection with the Panama revolution. The former president barely referred to the Du Bois statement, however, and plunged into a denunciation of the treaty before the senate.

"I have nothing to say about Mr. Du Bois," the colonel said in his statement. "He was merely an instrument. Mr. Wilson is responsible for the payment of the blackmail, to Colombia. An administration that will conclude such a treaty as this treaty for the payment of blackmail to Colombia has forfeited the right to the respect of the people of the United States."

CLUTE MURDER TRIAL

GIFFORD DEFENSE RESTS—CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO THE JURY AT ALBANY TONIGHT

ALBANY, July 3.—Testimony in the Clute murder trial was closed yesterday without Malcolm Gifford, Jr., the defendant, being called to the witness stand. Today William Travers Jerome will sum up for the defense, and Dist. Atty. Alexander probably will present the case of the prosecution. The charge of Judge Addington is not expected to be long, so the jury may retire by nightfall.

COLDEST IN 26 YEARS

BOSTON FORECASTER SAYS YES—TODAY WAS ALSO MOST DISAGREABLE JULY 2ND

BOSTON, July 3.—Yesterday was the coldest July 3 for the past 26 years, according to the records of the local forecaster. With the cold weather and an abundance of rain combined, it was altogether the most disagreeable July 2 during that same period of years. The forecast for July 4 is "unsettled."

Early in the morning the mercury atop the Federal building registered as low as 51.6 degrees, and by 3 o'clock was only 57 degrees. The rain fell fitfully, but copiously when it came, and the wind blew at a rate of 25 miles an hour from the east.

There was a thick fog off Highland light, and a 35-mile wind blowing from the north, and the wind once clothing had become soaked with rain and spray.

At 8 p. m., the weather man's thermometer registered 54 degrees. That showed it to be the coldest day on record since July 2, 1888, when the lowest temperature recorded was 53 degrees.

The weather man predicts a fair day today, with the temperature much higher. He also says that on account of a new storm brewing in the west, Fourth of July will be rather unsettled weather. He expects that just about

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is

TRANS ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Less Than 2000 Miles

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The possibility of a transatlantic ocean flight in a heavier-than-air machine in 13 hours is pointed out in a communication to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C., from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and former president of the society.

"The distance from Newfoundland to Ireland is less than 2000 miles," says Dr. Bell. "This means that if you go at 100 miles an hour you will cross the Atlantic in 20 hours—less than a day. We have flying machines that go at a greater speed than that. We already have machines that could cross the ocean if their engines can keep going for 20 hours. Of course, these are exceptional machines; but even the ordinary machines of today make 50 miles an hour with ease.

"Now, a flying machine flies faster as you go higher up, because the rarer air offers less resistance to the motion, while the propeller gives the same push with the same power, whatever the elevation. As you get into the rarer air the propeller spins around faster. A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles in the air—and we have machines that have gone twice as high as that—will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Then at an elevation of two miles high in the air there is a constant wind blowing in the general direction of Europe having a velocity anywhere from 25 to 60 miles an hour.

"As a net result of all these things, there can be little doubt that any ordinary machine that is able to support itself in the air at an elevation of two miles high will attain a speed of at least 100 miles an hour in the direction of Europe, and that means going from America to Europe in a single day. Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in 13 hours. I hardly dare say it aloud for publication. It is sufficiently startling to know that it is not only possible, but probable, that the passage may be made in a single day. But if it is possible, you make take an early breakfast in Newfoundland and a late dinner in Ireland the same night."

MEDIATION SESSIONS END

Huerta and Rebels Must Pick
New Government—Carranza
Delegates Due at Torreon

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 2.—With the departure last night of Ambassador da Gama of Brazil and Minister Naon of Argentina the American delegation consisting of Justice Lamar, Frederick W. Lehman and H. Percival Dodge, diplomatic secretary, the Pan-American mediation conference, convened to find a solution of the Mexican problem, formally ended its sessions here.

Minister Suarez of Chile and the Huerta delegates will leave tomorrow. When and where the next meeting will be held depends for the present upon General Carranza, the winning constitutional chief, who is now consulting his subordinate chiefs about sending delegates to a conference with the Huerta delegates for the election of a new provisional president.

Minister Naon went to Buffalo for a day of sightseeing and will arrive in Washington Saturday. There he will confer informally with Luis Cabrera and other constitutionalist agents. Justice Lamar and Mr. Lehman will talk with Secretary Bryan tomorrow and perhaps President Wilson. The three delegates, after visiting friends in Buffalo tomorrow, will go to New York on Saturday to await definite word from the constitutionalists.

In the meantime mediation has been declared in indefinite recess. Formal notification of the invitation to Carranza to send delegates and his reply were conveyed by the mediators to the American and Huerta commissioners in an identical note today. The note sets forth that there is no further need of sessions until the constitutionalists delegates are appointed. It declares the international conflict settled and remarks: "All that is left to be done is to establish and organize a provisional government in Mexico, a patriotic work reserved exclusively to the two Mexican delegations."

The Huerta delegates replied to this communication in two separate notes, one expressing appreciation of the efforts of the mediators in bringing about a settlement of the international conflict, and the other, addressed directly to the constitutionalists, declaring in bold terms sincere desire to discuss internal affairs with them. This opens the way for direct communication between the constitutionalists and delegates.

The United States is willing to withdraw its troops from Vera Cruz when a new provisional government shall have been established, on which all Mexican factions are agreed, and to which formal recognition can be extended by the United States and foreign governments generally.

The protocols thus signed represent terms of peace between the United States and the Huerta government. The Mexican faction which interrupts the informal conferences now proposed will be held responsible for grave consequences that follow. That armed intervention American occupation and further spoliation of Mexico might ensue if the two Mexican forces do not come to an agreement is calculated to have a demoralizing effect on the proceedings and the mediators are confident that some solution of the problem will arise from the new conferences.

As yet General Carranza has not said whether or not he will send delegates but the text of his note made public today reveals, in the opinion of the mediators, a sincere desire to settle the revolution by peaceful means.

CASE TO FULL BENCH

BANK STOCK PLEDGED TO SAFFORD & CO.—ASSIGNED SEEKS IT AFTER MANY YEARS

BOSTON, July 3.—The title to 26 shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile National bank of Salem standing in the name of James O. Safford & Co., has raised a question of law, which Judge Jenney, before whom the case came in the equity division of the superior court, will report to the full bench of the supreme judicial court.

The suit is brought by Walter G. Wehrle, assignee in insolvency of Rebeck K. Jacobs of Peabody, and the defendants are the Mercantile National bank and the administrators of the estate of James O. Safford & Co.

On Oct. 14, 1874, Mrs. Jacobs, who was indebted to Safford & Co., transferred to the firm an security 26 shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile National bank owned by her. In October, 1878, the stock, at the request of Safford & Co., was registered in the name of the firm.

On Oct. 19, 1885, Mrs. Jacobs filed a voluntary petition in insolvency in Essex county, and Frederick W. Choate of Beverly later was appointed assignee. He died in 1891, and it was not until Dec. 24, 1912, that Mr. Wehrle succeeded Mr. Choate.

It is claimed that Mrs. Jacobs in 1885 paid her debt to Safford & Co., but took no measures to have the stock returned to her. Mr. Wehrle is now seeking to get the stock for the benefit of her estate, and unclaimed dividends, which the bank has held since 1891.

The defendants claim that the plaintiff is barred by the statute of limitations, but the plaintiff contends that an express trust was created which was repudiated, and that therefore the statute of limitations does not run.

COTTON SEED PRODUCTS
No subject has been of more general interest during the past year than the cost of living in all of its phases. Diminishing herds of cattle and the import of beef have come in for more than the usual share of comment. Therefore a new publication of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, dealing with cattle feeding in Europe will be read with unusual interest. It is a report by Commercial Agent Edwin W. Thompson of a year's study devoted to a comparison of various feeds and feeding methods in Europe. The investigation was undertaken for the purpose of determining the conditions under which cotton-seed meal and cake and similar articles were sold and used in Europe, with the hope that such information might prove useful in promoting the export of these products.

According to this report there is an enormous consumption of oil meals of various kinds, as shown by the following (expressed in metric tons in the round): Germany, 1,417,920; United Kingdom, 1,266,108; Denmark, 564,716; Netherlands, 457,540; total of these countries, 3,646,280. Besides the cotton-seed meal imported from the United States and Russia and that manufactured in Germany and England from Egyptian and Indian cotton seed, much meal is made from linseed, sunflower seed, rape seed, peanuts, soyas beans, and palm kernels.

Although American cotton-seed meal is a prime favorite in some of these countries, it comprises only 14 per cent of the total of oil meals and cakes consumed in Europe. This indicates that greater effort is needed to push this product abroad. This could be done by explaining its advantages to those feeders who, having been accustomed to linseed and other cakes before cotton-seed was introduced, as slowly change to the newer product. Denmark, which is called the greatest butter country in the world, feeds more than 200 pounds of cotton-seed cake per head of cattle per year. This demonstrates its great value and makes an object lesson that American exporters might use to advantage. If the 20,000,000 cattle in Germany, for instance, were to use American cotton-seed meal at that rate, they would need all of the 2,000,000 tons that are now sent to the United States. Thus there is ample potential market for all that can be made.

Suggestions for exploiting this trade, as well as much interesting matter relating to cattle feeding in general, will be found in this publication "Cotton-seed Products and Their Competitors in Northern Europe, Part I, Cotton-seed Cake and Meal," monograph No. 81, of the bureau foreign and domestic commerce, and may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office, for 10 cents per copy.

GELDING TOOK EVENT AT JERSEY CITY IN STRAIGHT HEATS

The seal brown gelding, Tyler Kirk, owned by James S. Hanson, which caused so much favorable comment among local horsemen while in this city, showed decided class in his first work of the season at Jersey City Thursday. Tyler Kirk, by Council Chimes, took the event in straight heats, 2:27, 2:29 and 2:29.

The horse is said to have a big future by those who have seen him in his fast workouts. His stride is even and strong and Mr. Hanson has had several chances to dispose of him had he wanted to sell.

WIFE AND NEW RULER OF ALBANIA LEAVES DURAZZO WITH HER CHILDREN

VIENNA, July 3.—Princess William of Wied, wife of the new ruler of Albania, today left Durazzo, the capital of that country, with her children in consequence of the critical situation there. She has gone to Bucharest, Rumania.

It is generally believed here that the departure of the princess from Albania foreshadows the abdication of Prince William.

WILSON AND ADVISERS DISCUSS MEXICO'S INTERNAL DISTURBANCES

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A lengthy conference to discuss Mexico's internal disturbances confronted President Wilson and his advisers today. Some time would elapse, representatives of Carranza said, before the revolutionary leader would be able to obtain a vote of his military chiefs on the proposed conference.

Primed with instructions on the American government's attitude toward all phases of the problem, John R. Sillman planned to leave here today for Carranza's provisional capital. He was to help in settling the breach between Villa and Carranza and to impress upon the revolutionary leaders the need for early restoration of peace through establishment of a provisional government such as has been suggested at the Niagara mediation proceedings. Mr. Sillman was to go to Saltillo, where Carranza temporarily had set up his headquarters.

Only a few weeks ago Sillman as American vice consul in Saltillo had been in custody of the federalists, accused of having helped their enemies. He was to go virtually as President Wilson's personal agent. The president and Sillman were classmates at Princeton.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehman, the American delegates at Niagara, were to return to Washington today and report in person to Secretary Bryan. It also was thought possible they would confer with the president. Minister Naon of Argentina probably will reach here tomorrow and immediately get in touch with Carranza's representatives.

Reassuring reports were received today from the Panuco oil district above Tampico, where disturbances had been feared. Consul Miller, who went to Tampico to investigate, said the constitutionalist guerrillas was sufficient to preserve order.

DIL ROMULO NAON REMAINS AT BUFFALO

ROBINSON'S PAL TAKEN
FIGURED IN ROBBERY OF CHELSEA STORE—WANTED IN CONNECTION WITH HOLDUP

BOSTON, July 3.—A man who gave his name as Henry Craner, and who is believed by the police to be a "pet" of Lawrence Robinson, the Michigan gunman who shot and killed Police Inspector Joseph J. Norton in the Boylston cafe, was arrested last night in a cafe on Columbus avenue near Dartmouth street.

Suspected of holdup

He was wanted in connection with an assault made by three men Wednesday night on Samuel Cohen, a pawn broker, in Cohen's shop, 168 Broadway, Chelsea. It was an attempt to hold up and rob Cohen.

The police also arrested Adam Sawyer, clerk of a Columbus avenue hotel, in connection with the same affair. Both men were turned over to the Chelsea police.

WOMEN WRECK MANSION

Militants Set Fire to and Burned
Ballyimnoch, Near Holy Wood,
Containing Priceless Relics

BELEAST, Ireland, July 3.—An "arson squad" of militant suffragettes today set fire to and burned to the ground Ballyimnoch, near Holy Wood, a great residential mansion containing many priceless art treasures, all of which were destroyed. The mansion was the residence of the late Sir Daniel Dixon, who was mayor and lord mayor of Belfast for many years and who sat in parliament for a short time as member for the city of Belfast.

The suffragettes left strewn about in the vicinity the customary evidences of their presence but they themselves escaped.

THE MEXICAN SITUATION WANTS TO BE ARRESTED

W. LATHROP MEAKER, FORMER CLERGYMAN, HAS NEW BRAND OF SOCIALISM

BOSTON, July 3.—The desire of W. Lathrop Meaker, a former Unitarian clergyman, to get himself arrested so that present laws relating to personal liberty may be tested, is not likely to be immediately satisfied; so he learned on a visit to this city yesterday.

Mr. Meaker is the leader of a new movement called the Liberal Socialist League, of which Mrs. Herbert S. Smith, formerly of Jamaica Plain and now of Philadelphia, is secretary. He states his belief that present laws affecting the person are in many respects illegal, and acting, he says, by direct orders of the court he has taken up the task of testing their validity.

In order to do so, he has advised and counseled Mrs. Smith not to submit to orders of the probate court concerning the settlement of her husband's estate. Mr. Meaker now seeks to be arrested so that the question of the right of the court to make such an order may be ruled.

Mr. Meaker and Mrs. Smith yesterday called on Joseph P. Keefe, a Boston attorney, who was appointed special administrator of the estate following the removal of Mrs. Smith, in an effort to force him to take summary action against them, but nothing happened.

Mr. Keefe did not care to discuss their visit and the probability of the arrest of either will depend on his future plans for the settlement of the estate.

Mr. Meaker last night explained his desire to get arrested as due to his belief that many of the laws are wrong of record in the courts in the abstract," he said, "but not all of them in the concrete."

"I don't question the right of a court to order property to be turned over, but I do question the right of a court to order a person to be turned over. I believe that any law that raises a question of self-consciousness as to right or wrong is contrary to the higher law, which is according to 'The Kingdom Come'."

"People are fooling themselves by allowing themselves to be subject to laws they don't believe in. They are not humbled in by laws that raise a question of self-consciousness, and if we can raise the great mass of the people to the inadequacy and unfairness of existing personal laws we will be carrying forward a great movement."

"People are standing for a superficial standard of morals. All seem to be afraid of the law and whether other people will think them respectable. It seems to be all right to break a law, but if it is considered a high crime to get caught and go to jail."

Mr. Meaker graduated as a chemist from Lehigh university and later became a Unitarian minister, following his studies at the Meadville Theological school. Later he held the pastorate of three churches in Great Britain.

It was while pastor of the Unitarian church in Revere in 1910 that he ran as an independent candidate for congress in the 7th district, but was defeated. He entered the congressional light, he states, to correct personal laws. He now resides at 16 Valley street, Lawrence.

JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN

DIED IN LONDON, ENG.

Was Prominent for Many Years as a Leader of British Politics—
Wife Daughter of Late William
C. Endicott of Massachusetts

LONDON, July 2.—Joseph Chamberlain, prominent for many years as a leader in British politics, died here last night.

Death came as a surprise as the condition of his health was not publicly known to be any worse than at any time in the past two or three years.

Mrs. Chamberlain, who was the daughter of the late William C. Endicott of Massachusetts, secretary of war in President Cleveland's cabinet, never left her husband's side since he was stricken with paralysis seven years ago and she and her step-son

Austen Chamberlain, were with him when death occurred.

Mr. Chamberlain's last public appearance was at a garden party on the grounds of his Birmingham home on May 6 last, when, with his wife and son, he received several hundred constituents. Mr. Chamberlain was wheeled out on the lawn and appeared very emaciated and feeble when he lifted his hat to friends and neighbors in acknowledging their salutes.

The cause of Mr. Chamberlain's death was officially announced today to have been heart failure. Although he had been gradually sinking since Tuesday the members of the family had preferred that his desperate condition should not become publicly known.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN

Third Within a Few Weeks Occurred at Danbury, Conn., Today—Tie Wedged Into Frog

DANBURY, Conn., July 3.—Another attempt at train-wrecking, the third within a few weeks, occurred today on the Central New England railroad in this city, the obstruction, a portion of a railroad tie wedged into the frog of a switch being discovered shortly after the arrival of a Federal express bound from Washington to Boston.

A freight locomotive running light into the switch struck the obstruction. Although the engine was moving slowly its pilot was twisted and broken and the ties were splintered for a distance of several hundred feet.

Both of the previous attempts at wrecking were made in a similar manner, in one a portion of a tie and in the other a piece of steel being jammed into the frog.

OCCUPIED BY HER HUSBAND ON THE BOARD OF EDUCATION IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 2.—Recognition of a woman who has the courage of her convictions, even though she is compelled to disagree with her husband on public matters, was given to Mrs. Chas. O. Sathness by Mayor Harrison, when he appointed her a member of the board of education to succeed Mr. Sathness, who incurred the displeasure of the executive by voting against Mrs. Ella Plagg Young as superintendent of the Chicago city schools. The appointment was sent to the city council last night, and it is understood that Mrs. Sathness has agreed to accept.

ON BUILDING IN WHICH LIVES WERE LOST IN MANCHESTER, N. H.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 3.—Disregard of state laws in regard to fire escapes is asserted by the authorities here to have been responsible for the loss of three lives in a lodging house fire at 111 Elm street yesterday morning.

Mayor Charles C. Hayes inspected the burned premises today accompanied by Fire Chief Thomas W. Lane, and it was declared here that prosecutions will follow if responsibility can be fixed.

Those dead in the fire are John Reed, 25, a stable worker of Brookline, Mass.; Mederie Caron, a wood chopper, 36, and Albert Lachance, a cigarmaker, 35, of Manchester.

Reed was fatally injured when he jumped from a third story window. He died on the way to the hospital. The other two men were suffocated in their rooms on the fourth floor of the building, which was a frame structure. Several other lodgers, who jumped from windows were slightly hurt.

It is asserted here by officials of the fire department that the only escape from the building was by means of a ladder fire escape which descended perpendicularly along the side of the building and stopped at the second floor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE IN SESSION

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 3.—Following the usual early morning watch services sectional meetings of the ninth annual international convention of the Epworth league were held in three halls today. The principal topics discussed simultaneously were "The opportunity of the rural league" and "The league as a leader in community recreation."

ARMY OF GIRLS BUSY ON TAG DAY WORK

For Salem Relief Fund — Women Out Early at City Hall and Along Streets and Stores Tagging Everybody

Talk not of hustling till thou hast seen the tag sellers at work.

This is tag day in Lowell and of course this isn't news, because everybody knows it, yet it is necessary to mention it in order to start this story right.

Yesterday forenoon a little band of women met at city hall and formulated plans for tag day as suggested by the Salem Relief fund of 70. They didn't have much time for preparation. It was a quick call, but they were equal to the occasion, as women usually are.

Several of these women were at city hall as early as 6.30 o'clock this morning and before 9.30 o'clock 8000 tags had been disposed of. This movement, of course, is for the benefit of the Salem sufferers and if you haven't been tagged it's the day's best bet that you have kept yourself in seclusion, for the energetic, sympathetic, patriotic women interested in tag day proceedings didn't let anybody get by—not if they knew it.

Mrs. John E. Graham started in at the railroad depot in Middlesex street at 6.30 o'clock this morning and before 9 o'clock she and her assistants had disposed of 500 tags. They got good prices for the tags, too, and at 9.15 o'clock Mrs. Graham was back at city hall looking for more tags.

Tag Day bids fair to prove the greatest success that Lowell has ever witnessed in any enterprise of the kind. A similar line, for everybody seems disposed to help the Salem sufferers and the women and girls engaged in the work are leaving no stone unturned to make it a success. The Tag Day committee has bought up every tag there is in Lowell and they cannot supply the demand of the tag sellers.

MISS ALICE SHEEHAN
The Girl Who Tagged The Sun Office

The scene at city hall this morning was one of great activity. The tag sellers met in the mayor's reception room, some of them, as herebefore, started arriving there as early as 5.30 o'clock. The boxes and tags were all in readiness for them, but there were no strings to the tags and the women had to do their own stringing. This meant the use of a big darning needle and a mile and a half or so of twine, but that didn't delay proceedings the least little bit. The women went to the work with a will and some of them were on the street, selling tags, shortly after 8 o'clock.

Among the very first in the street were the Misses Vera and Imelda Groves. They succeeded in getting tags last evening and they sold 35 worth before reaching the hall at 8 o'clock. The list of tag-sellers is as follows:

Miss Mabel Cassidy, Miss Anna McKisco, Miss Gladys Melton, Miss V. Groves, Miss Imelda Groves, Miss Blanche Jellie, Mrs. Alice Goodwin, Mrs. J. W. Cole, Miss G. E. Jantzen, Miss M. E. O'Neil, Miss Alice McGilley, Miss Rose Geary, Miss Alice Masterson, Miss Ida J. Flint, Miss Isabel M. Ellis, Mrs. Horace Lang, Mrs. Patrick Farrell, Mrs. S. W. Hinds, Mrs. Huntley, Miss Jennie Bradt, Mrs. Carl D. Buritt, Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Anna McGarron, Miss Alice Besse, Miss Sallie Hobson, Miss Ruth Sawyer, Miss Adelaide Walsh, Miss Margarette Pierce, Miss Julia Slattery, Miss Loretta Whitely, Miss Mary Robinson, Miss Maude Greene, Miss Lulu O'Sullivan, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Sheridan, Mrs. John E. Graham.

The tag-sellers were hollering for more tags, but tags were given them because the committee had exhausted the local supply. Several printers were getting out rush orders and it cannot be denied that a great deal of valuable time was lost because of a scarcity of tags. Mrs. Graham, working at the depot, sold out of tags at 10 o'clock and was unable to obtain any more until about the noon hour. The women were not to blame. In the woody was to blame because nobody expected such big success. Two collectors arrived at the hall early with their boxes "filled to the brim." We are not mentioning any names because the general chairman, Miss Besse Hadley, asked us not to. The fact remains, however, that the first box opened contained $33.40, and the second $46.84. If that isn't going some, we'll eat the tags.

IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

MAN WHO DREW A REVOLVER IN A SALOON DREW WAS LATER ARRESTED

A man who registered at the police station as Angelo Panallari, created considerable excitement in a Middlesex street saloon last evening when, during the heat of an argument, he produced a 32 calibre revolver and held his companions at bay until put under control by other men who were in the place at the time. Patrolmen Drewett and Cullen were summoned to the scene of action and they brought their man to the station where he was booked on a charge of drunkenness.

It is alleged that the defendant and a few fellow countrymen were drinking in the saloon and when it came Panallari's turn to buy the drinks he refused and resented being asked to do such a thing. When his companions demanded that he pay or stop drinking, it is claimed, he flourished the revolver and pointed it toward the other men, but was overpowered by bystanders before he had an opportunity to pull the trigger.

Patrolman Drewett was sent for and when he reached the place the man was overpowered by several men who were standing nearby at the time so he immediately put the handcuffs on him and sent for the police wagon. At this point Patrolman Cullen put in an appearance and assisted in taking the man to the police box.

Carrying a loaded pistol without a permit and drunkenness were the charges preferred against Panallari when arraigned in court this forenoon. He pleaded guilty, through his counsel, who told the court that the defendant had a family in this city depending upon him for support.

A man who was in the saloon at the time said that Panallari drew the revolver and pointed it at him while they were standing before the bar. He also stated that the prisoner carried a knife and inflicted a slight scar on the side of his face during the scuffle. He could give no motive for the man's alleged attempt to do harm and said he had only known him a short time.

Patrolman Drewett presented the revolver, which was fully loaded, and an ugly looking knife with a sharp point. The court imposed a fine of $50 on the charge of carrying a pistol and placed the drunkenness matter on file.

Disposing of Team

Francis X. Archambault, the young man who was arrested in Lawrence on Wednesday while attempting to dispose of a horse and buggy, which he hired from Frank Diomedina of this city, appeared in court this forenoon and entered a plea of guilty. His attorney, George F. Toye, asked the court that the imposing of the sentence be suspended until Monday and the request was granted.

Ordered From City

Two young men, who claim to be employed on a farm in Bedford, blew into the city early last evening for the purpose of buying some clothes for the Fourth but before they had gotten down to the end of Middlesex street they indulged in too many highballs and were arrested about 9.30 o'clock by Patrolman Cullen while hitting up pedestrians for spare cash. They pleaded guilty to drunkenness in court today and after telling a long story were given two hours in which to leave the city's dust behind their heels.

The pair answered to the names of Thomas J. Burns and John Kelley. Patrolman Cullen testified that he received several complaints about them soliciting money from people walking up and down Middlesex street and when he approached them they were talking to a group of about a half-dozen. Both men claimed Spring street, East Cambridge, as their home when questioned by the court, but said that they had been working on a Bedford farm for several weeks. They had about $10 when arrested and did not remember asking anybody for money. Judge Enright placed the cases on file on condition that they like to foreign fields immediately and both promised faithfully that they would do so.

George B. Reynolds and John Floris slept together in a Bridge street lodging house last night and when the latter awoke this morning he missed his pocketbook containing a small sum of money. As a result Reynolds was arraigned in court charged with the larceny of $1.02 and the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Reynolds claimed that he is a Salem, N. H., blacksmith and had the money with him when he came to this city, but the court records showed that he was arrested the day before for drunkenness and at that time had no money. His Honor ordered the case continued until Monday for further consideration.

Three second-offenders were fined $5 and the other a suspended sentence of five months in the Lowell jail. Nine first offenders were released by the probation officer.

Yesterday afternoon caplases were issued for the arrests of nine men who have failed to pay fines imposed by the court. The total amount of the fines amounts to over $100.

THREE KILLED IN TENEMENT FIRE

Woman and Her Daughter Burned to Death in New York Tenement House Fire and Man Who Was Injured Died in Hospital—Policeman Rescued Six by Swinging Them Across 5 ft. Chasm

NEW YORK, July 3.—Mrs. Hannah Nickoli, 45, and her daughter Sarah, 17, were burned to death and four other persons were seriously injured in a fire early today in the five-story tenement at number 1 East 112th street. The police and firemen rescued a score of women and children who rushed to windows in a panic following the first alarm. The property loss was small. Jacob Finklestein, one of the injured, died in the hospital, bringing the death list up to three. Otto Schasberger, a policeman, singlehanded, saved a family of six from death by swinging them across a five foot chasm between buildings.

Bonfires May Burn Without Permits — Concerts Arranged for Accompaniments

In spite of the fact that no formal permits are granted, it is quite probable that the bonfires built on the Perry street grounds and at State street will go up on schedule time. The young men who built the piles are divided in their opinions as to what should be done; but the leaders refuse to be guardians for the bonfires and they allege that where firecrackers are flying thick and fast the bonfires will be in great danger of ignition at the wickling hour of midnight.

The concert arranged will start at 10.30, Tabor's band at Rogers street, near Perry, and the Lowell National at State street. It is quite probable that for a few hours after midnight there will be no need of electric lights at either place.

Col. Carmichael Talks
A representative of The Sun talked with Col. Carmichael and Chief Saunders of the fire department, this morning, in reference to the bonfires prepared for tonight.

"Would it not be just as well to have these bonfires burned up under the supervision of firemen at the time appointed?" the colonel was asked.

"While I would like to accommodate the young men who are taking such an interest in these bonfires, I cannot see how I can legally grant the permit for any of the bonfires."

"In the first place," continued the colonel, "the chief of the district police has sent out a letter forbidding the bonfires and furthermore, there is a remonstrance to the bonfires at Fort Hill and State street, the claim being made that the bridge at State street would be endangered. Under the circumstances I cannot take the respon-

HERE'S A GENIUS

Trenton Man Electrocuter Flies Instead of Swatting Them—Invented Electrical Trap for Purpose

TRENTON, July 3.—Growing tired of swatting flies, John Gallagher, a Trenton fireman, decided to make easier his part in fly extermination, so he invented a trap, which has proved a wonder.

The remarkable feature of the trap is that it disposes of flies by electrocution. It is made of wire and closely resembles the old fashioned cone trap. The device is charged with electricity, and as fast as the flies alight upon it they are electrocuted.

WATER IS PLENTIFUL

But Pipes are Rusty and Corroded, Interfering With Supply, Says Expert Bowers in Report

Former City Engineer George Bowers has submitted his report to Col. Carmichael, as the result of his labors as an expert engineer. The report, which is in printed form, bears the following rather imposing title: "Report of George Bowers, M. Am. Soc. C. E. on the improvement of the water supply of the City of Lowell," and reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., June 12, 1914.
Col. James H. Carmichael, Com. of Water Works and Fire Protection, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir:—Acting on your request that I submit to you a report on what improvements I consider necessary in the present water supply to make it satisfactory in quality, also give you an estimate as to the daily draft of water that may be reasonably estimated as obtainable from the boulevard system, based on such developments of the present and adjacent areas as is economically possible, also the amount of water that can be obtained from the present boulevard system, and suggestions for the further development of the well system so that the people of the city would be sure of a sufficient supply of good water or reasonable time to come, I would report as follows:

Boulevard Wells

I have examined the boulevard system and measured the elevation of water in the test wells and find the conditions most favorable for a continued supply of water. At the "upper plant," so called, I examined the pipe and strainers as they were pulled up, and found the pipe badly rusted, the strainers nearly filled with rust, and badly corroded, and the connecting pipes in the same poor condition. This would account in a great degree for the small amount of water that has been pumped from these wells during the past few years. In regard to the relocated wells here, I have measured the amount of water and tested its quality and find it practically the same as the first wells driven. The upper boulevard plant was constructed in 1900 and 1901. It contained 130 wells and yielded nearly 5,000,000 gallons per day of excellent water. When the work which is now being done is finished, I see no reason why it should not yield the same amount as formerly. When to this amount is added the water from 12 wells located east of the boulevard, and between the upper and lower stations, you must have at the least 6,000,000 gallons per day of good water that needs no treatment.

Water to Be Treated

The wells located east of the lower pumping station and those north of the boulevard, should together yield from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 gallons per day of water that would probably require treatment. If more water is needed, it is easily obtainable here.

Adjacent Areas

I have carefully inspected the land

on the northerly side of the boulevard, between the well plant and the entrance to Tyngs Island. The only location that looked favorable for obtaining well water was on the land lying just west of the present plant and owned by the heirs of Phineas Whiting and by Samuel E. R. Adams. Here a line of ten test wells, 95 feet apart, was washed down by employees of the water department in a search for water bearing material. Hard pan and rock were encountered at depths varying from 8 to 22 feet below the surface. We were obliged to abandon these wells, as the men had no tools suitable for driving in hard material, and if water could be obtained here, it would be a very expensive place in which to sink wells.

Cook Wells

I would recommend that the water of the Cook wells be treated for carbonic acid gas, also that the work of lowering the suction mains and pumps begun several years ago, be finished, thus greatly increasing the yield of water at these wells. This plant can be extended but little up or down the river meadow brook, as the ground water does not apparently follow the low land of the valley of the brook.

Supply of Water

The increased yield at the Cook wells, added to the water from the boulevard wells, if these wells are properly cared for, should give the city of Lowell an adequate supply of good water for many years to come.

In conclusion I would call your attention to my letter of April 7 in which I urged the exclusive use of brass screens and of cement lined connections between the wells and suction pipe.

Respectfully,
George Bowers.

Having had his mind relieved as to the condition of the water supply the people now await with breathless interest the presentation of Mr. Bowers' bill for his services as expert.

FIRE AT EXETER, N. H.

MAIN BUILDING OF PHILLIPS-EXETER ACADEMY RUINED—

LOSS $100,000

EXETER, N. H., July 3.—An investigation failed to determine the cause of the fire that ruined the main building of Phillips-Exeter academy early today. A survey of the building and its contents indicated that the loss would be about $100,000, two-thirds of which was covered by insurance. Many valuable portraits were destroyed.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

COL. THOMPSON, BACK FROM EUROPE, WELL SATISFIED WITH PROGRESS

NEW YORK, July 3.—Col. Robert Thompson, president of the Olympic Association of America, who returned from Europe today, expressed general satisfaction with the result of the international conference on the conduct of the great games.

The change in the rules giving to all the countries that participate a voice in the management of the Olympic contests, instead of confining control to the country where the games are held, "will mean better sport," said Col. Thompson.

"A departure," he continued, "is the extending of the time for holding the sports. For instance, we shall have yachting in Kiel after the Olympiad, and in February there will be winter contests. Another innovation is the agreement to have association football as well as rugby football, which will allow the United States two teams."

RUSHING TO WIFE'S SIDE

CAPT. UBERROTH WAS AT ST. PAUL ISLAND IN BERING SEA WHEN NOTIFIED OF ILLNESS

SEATTLE, Wash., July 3.—Captain Uberroth, commander of the revenue cutter McCulloch, whose wife is seriously ill in Philadelphia arrived here early today on the steamship Admiral Evans from Cordova, Alaska, and left a few hours later on a fast train for the east. Captain Uberroth was with his vessel at St. Paul Island in Bering sea when a wireless message was sent telling him of his wife's critical illness.

TEDDY ROOSEVELT'S DOCTOR'S ORDERS

OSTER BAY, N. Y., July 3.—Col. Roosevelt gave today a fresh demonstration of how he meant to observe the doctor's decree for a six weeks' rest cure. As a special concession to his medical advisers, the former president slept a hard half-hour longer than usual. Then for an hour he was at work with John McGrath, his political secretary. As soon as that was over with, the horses were brought out and with his daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby, he galloped off for a long ride. Col. Roosevelt's conference last night with Major Mitchell was the cause of much conjecture today. One theory of Nassau county politicians was that Col. Roosevelt and Mayor Mitchell discussed the possibility for the nomination for governor of an independent democrat who would receive the support of the progressives in case the regular democratic nominee should be unsuccessful. In this connection the name of the colonel's kinsman, Franklin R. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, was mentioned.

PRES. WILSON THE SPEAKER

WASHINGTON, July 3.—President Wilson will leave Washington tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock for Philadelphia, to be the principal speaker at the Fourth of July celebration in Independence square. He will arrive at Philadelphia at 10.30 a. m. and leave for Washington at noon.

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

This Speaker came into his own yesterday in the Red Sox Athletics double header at Philadelphia. The Boston American outfielder slammed out five hits in his ten trips to the plate and broke up the first game with his circuit clutch in the last inning. Boston took four out of the five games in the series.

Sam Sherk has evidently recovered from his sore arm. Fitchburg looked anxious at his delivery yesterday afternoon in spite of the cold weather, which made it more difficult for the twirler. One of the two hits gotten off Sherk was a scratch.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, had the better of Kayo Mark last night in their ten round bout at Cincinnati. Although no decision was given, the experts at the thrash picked the champion as the winner without a question.

The Englishmen fared badly in the crew races yesterday. All of the eight from across the water were eliminated while the Union Boat club crew and Harvard second won their final heat. The next round ought to provide some stirring finishes.

Raymond Outen, brother of the famous Francis, open champion of the United States Golf association, promises to make a big name for himself on the links. He was returned to the winner of the junior championship of the Massachusetts Golf association yesterday afternoon. His older brother coached him around. The younger Outen is only 17 years old.

Dear Mr. Sporting Editor: Please settle the question of what is an amateur, semi-pro and professional baseball player. A fan.

The term "amateur" is generally applied to a ball player who plays the game simply for the sport derived therefrom. A semi-pro player is one who plays for remuneration, yet is not signed by a team recognized by organized baseball. A professional player usually means one who is tied up with a contract to some club under the government of the National Baseball commission.

The opening of the Shortship Circuit races scheduled for yesterday at Worcester was postponed until today on account of the heavy track. The three days' program has been sorted over and only the classiest of the events will be run off, or rather trotted and paced. More than 250 ponies are in the track stables.

Harry Lord, former captain of the White Sox, has at last decided to play ball once more. His friends were greatly surprised, however, when Lord announced that he intended to play semi-pro ball for the remainder of the season. He plays his first game tomorrow as member of the Livermore Falls club.

Joe Tinker landed his Chicago club at the head of the Federal league yesterday by defeating Indianapolis 7-2. With the Chicago outlaws playing gilt edge ball the Cubs and White Sox will suffer tremendously in spite of the fact that they also are handling out a great brand of the national game.

Charlie White, the lightweight who shaded Champion Willie Kiehl in their recent fight at Milwaukee, will probably get another chance at White after the Rhode-Island squabble. If Kiehl pulls out a winner, and predictions are mostly in the affirmative, White will doubtless try him out over the twenty round route.

WON 4-0 GAME

Lowell Defeated Fitchburg in League's Only Contest Yesterday

In spite of the threatening weather yesterday, which turned into a fine mist as umpire Keeler called the game, Lowell and Fitchburg battled nine innings to a 4-0 decision in favor of Jimmy Gray's boys on Fred Lake's diamond.

Sam Sherk was in the points for Lowell and he worked in the same form which he displayed early in the season. Only two hits, one of which was a scratch, were gotten off his delivery while he passed but one batter. Lowell scored all four runs in the third inning. Collins was hit freely in this season and in error by Sweett helped things along. Not a man reached third base for Fitchburg.

Matthews, Dukette and Sherk did Lowell's feature batting, each of them getting in two safe blows. The local team played errorless ball. The score:

NO ARREST FOR MURDER

Slayer of Mrs. Bailey Not Yet Apprehended—Sheriff Says Arrest Will be a Woman

FREEMONT, N. Y., July 3.—Search of the grounds of the Carman home, which extended even to an examination of wells, has failed to reveal the weapon with which Mrs. Louise Bailey of Hempstead was murdered on Tuesday night while preparing to leave the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

District Attorney Smith announced today that he had found two men, both negroes, who declared they had seen a man run away from the window of Dr. Carman's office through which the shot was fired that killed

Mrs. Bailey. The best description they could give of him was that he was of medium size. Sheriff Pettit spent three hours with Dr. and Mrs. Carman last night.

"If there is an arrest it will be a woman," Sheriff Pettit said. "Every man in the case has been eliminated."

Two men and two women who were in Doctor Carman's office when the shot was fired, are expected to be the chief witnesses at the inquest today. One of these witnesses, George Golden, a teamster, told the prosecutor that ten minutes before the murder he saw a woman dressed in white standing in front of the house.

FAIR TOMORROW FIRST ACCIDENT

The Weather Bureau at Pawtucketville Boy Tries Out His Home Made Cannon

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Celebrities of the nation's birthday may without fear of having their holiday marred by rain plan their excursions or make arrangements for participation in exercises or sports.

The weather map today gave indication of a clear day with sunshine over practically the entire east and south from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast. It will be somewhat warmer Saturday in New England.

The first Fourth of July accident was reported this morning from Pawtucketville.

For some time past Walter Bachman, aged 17, of 4 Dunley street, has been preparing for the celebration, intending to have something original in the line of a noise-provoker. He manufactured a small cannon out of a piece of gas-pipe and some wood and this morning decided to give his invention a try-out.

He took the cannon to the woods in the rear of Mammoth road and after carefully loading it touched it off. When Dr. William M. Collins arrived on the scene he found it necessary to have Walter removed to the Lowell General hospital as he was badly burned about the face and eyes, while the cannon is out of commission for all time.

BULLET HOLE IN HAND

MAN WHO FOILED ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE HOUSE OF PRESIDENT KERR SHOT

PITTSBURGH, July 3.—Details of what is believed to have been an attempt to destroy the residence of E. M. Herr, president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., were made public today when it became known that Robert Miller, a steam-heating contractor, was in a Wilkes-Barre hospital with a bullet hole in his hand. According to the story, Miller saw a man creeping along a hedge at the Herr residence Tuesday night. He attempted to intercept the man and three shots were fired at him, one bullet going through his hand. Four pounds of dynamite with a 20 foot fuse attached were found on the Herr lawn. The police were today hunting for the man who shot Miller.

Bang!

That's the way P. A. strikes the smoke-test of thousands of fighting men, afloat or ashore, and fighting men of business. Everybody that smokes it gets enthused for P. A., because it has the quality and the flavor and the something that makes the bell ring when they touch a match to it. You stuff a charge of

into a jimmy pipe or roll a pinch of it into a cigarette and you're on. Tomorrow's the day we get busy celebrating our national independence—and the right day for taking on independence from a parched, stung and smoke-bitten tongue. P. A. means freedom from all that. Get the something that makes a P. A. fan of everyone that trades a dime for the tidy red tin or a nickel for the tippy red bag. P. A. in a pipe won't bite you, won't sting you, won't make you run for water. Smoke it all day and it's all the same. You know, the bite is taken out by an exclusive, patented process. Join in the joy-noise of the P. A. army and help get the lights burning early.

Prince Albert is sold everywhere in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy tins, 10c; also, in handsome pound and half-pound humidor.

FIND BODIES IN SWAMP

Thought That Man Killed Wife and Mother-in-law and Then Ended His Own Life

ATLANTA, Ga., July 3.—The bodies of S. F. Bennett and two unidentified women were found in a swamp at East Point, a suburb of Atlanta, early today. Wounds indicated that all three had been shot. The bodies of the women were covered with brush, while that of Bennett lay in the open a few yards away.

According to the police there were indications that Bennett killed the two women with a shotgun and after covering their bodies with brush fastened the gun to a stump, stood before it and discharged it with a twig. The charge tore a great hole in his chest.

While the women have not yet been identified it is thought they were Bennett's wife and mother-in-law. Bennett, who lived in East Point, was last seen on Thursday. He formerly resided at Loganville, Ga.

WHITE SLAVE OPERATORS

Terrible Conditions Unearthed by New York Police—Several Victims Rescued

NEW YORK, July 3.—Standing before County Judge Gibbs, acting as a magistrate in the Bronx county court house last night, Mrs. Della Neely Hanson, a young widow of Bridgeport, Conn., repeated a story of horror which a few hours before had resulted in a roundup of men and women who, District Attorney Martin said, represented the most daring white slave dealers in New York.

While Mrs. Hanson talked seven men and two women prisoners scowled at her, and four girls who had been caught in the raids sat on a bench on a further side of the room. The girls are being held as material witnesses. Mrs. Hanson, who is twenty-nine years old and the widow of John Hanson, is the mother of four children. According to her story, she left Bridgeport to come to New York on May 26, and visit Albert Carson of One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street and Brook avenue. Alighting from a train at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and starting for Carson's home she lost her way.

Met a "Police" Young Man
"I inquired my way of a policeman," Mrs. Hanson told the court. "He directed me, and then a young man came up. He was very polite and offered to guide me."

"At the time I had $3 in my pocket, but I had no far of the man, he appeared so well-mannered. He asked me to have a soft drink and I consented."

"That is the last I remember until next day when I found myself in a park. My clothes were torn and I was in a fearful condition. I realized that I had been drugged, but my assailant had not found my money. It was safe."

"Some men directed me to a coffee house. I don't know the exact location of the place. There I bought some coffee and paid for it out of a $10 bill. Two men followed me to the street. I was weak and almost unable to walk. The effects of the drug had not left me. The men took possession of me and literally forced me to a house on Morris avenue.

Made Prisoner, She Says
"There they beat me horribly and made me a prisoner. I cannot describe how fearfully I was treated. Men constantly were coming to the house. Then they took me and threatening to kill me took me to a house in East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street."

There I was abused more, and days later I was put into an automobile and, guarded by two men, was taken to the saloon of Francisco Masferrer in Portchester. Again I was subjected to fearful treatment. I had been so beaten that my eyes were almost closed and my face was horribly cut.

"Again they put me into an automobile and brought me to a house in East One Hundred and Forty-fourth street."

It was in this house that Mrs. Hanson was found Tuesday night by City Marshal John C. Moeftling, who had gone to serve a dispossession notice. The house was locked from cellar to roof.

The marshal broke down a door and found the woman alone in the house. She had been stripped of her clothing and was almost a maniac. She was taken to Lebanon hospital and was well enough to be taken to court yesterday. Her condition, however, still is serious.

Four Girls Rescued
The story of Mrs. Hanson first was told District Attorney Martin and he started out with his detectives to make arrests.

In a house in East One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, where Mrs. Hanson for a time was held, the detectives came upon Francis Torretta of No. 275 East One Hundred and Forty-fifth street, Corinne Hanson, No. 519 East One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street, and Nora Murphy, No. 275 East One Hundred and Forty-sixth street.

These girls, according to the detectives, were being held in the house just as Mrs. Hanson said she had been held, except they were not subjected to beating. These girls at once were taken charge of by the police and held as witnesses.

Next the detectives went to Marshall's saloon in Portchester where they arrested him and Enrico Grassano of No. 123 Mulberry street. There also the detectives found Amelia De Gray, nineteen, of Greenfield, Mass.

The girl said that she had been brought to New York by Grassano, who told her he was going to take her to visit his sister. He then installed her in the Portchester place. She, too, was held as a witness.

644 Broad street. She has been working as a servant since the death of her husband and for a time was employed in New York.

Before starting for New York, it was said, she borrowed $25. She then was boarding with a Mrs. J. F. Dately. The day she left for New York a taxi cab called for her and took her to the station. She then left her trunk and much of her clothing in Mrs. Dately's home.

Mrs. Dately told the Bridgeport police last night that a few days later the taxi cab driver had called at her house and said he had come after Mrs. Hanson's clothing. Mrs. Dately would not give up the clothing, saying that if Mrs. Hanson wanted it she would have to call for it in person and pay her board bill. The clothing was still in Mrs. Dately's possession last night.
